Armed Bandit Robs Bank In Mantee, Miss.

Flees Scene With $9,000, President Of Bank As Hostage

MANTEE, Miss., Jan. 7 (AP)—A bandit with dirty clothes and a grease-stained face robbed the Bank of Mantee today and escaped with $9,000 and bank president L. L. George as hostage.

He freed George unharmed two miles outside town.

The unidentified bandit left his car about three miles outside Mantee. He offered two Negro men $7 to drive him into town, claiming his car was stalled.

On the way to town, he pulled a nickel-plated revolver and ordered them to cooperate. When they reached the bank, he forced the Negro men to enter with him.

The little bank remains open on Saturday until 3 p.m. He entered the bank about 1:45 p.m.

The greasy clothed man asked Mrs. Joann Griffin, a bank employee, the way to the president's office. He pushed the two Negroes in before him, and closed the door.

George said that the robber walked to the side of George's desk, pointed the revolver at him and declared, "This is a stick-up."

"Don't say nothing and nobody'll get hurt," the bandit said. "I want the money."

George, recently recovered from a heart attack, at first thought the man was joking. But when he took a closer look at the revolver, he realized it was a real hold-up.

"I mean business," George said the bandit told him.

"If that's what you came for, then let's get it over with," George said he replied.

The bandit forced him to a nearby teller's cage where Mrs. George was working. The bandit ordered her to scoop the money into a paper bag and hand it to him.

George estimated the loot at at almost $9,000.

Then the bandit held the paper bag and gun in one hand and

Passman Against Any Federal Aid To U. S. Schools

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—Rep. Passman (D-La) said today any program of federal aid to schools sooner or later would mean central federal government control of public education throughout the country. He said this would be a "tragic development."

Passman is a member of the House Appropriations Committee which would pass on such funds requests.

His statement cast additional doubt over the prospects for such legislation, already threatened with a fight over an anti-segregation amendment.

President Eisenhower is expected to call for a five-year, 1¼ billion dollar aid program for school construction. The Democratic-controlled House Education Committee has okayed a $1,600,000,000 school aid plan.

Eisenhower stressed in his State of the Union message that "federal aid should in no way jeopardize the freedom of local school systems," but Passman said it would be wishful "pie in the sky" thinking to assume education would not eventually fall under a central federal authority.

Passman said this would be a tragic development because education of youth belongs to "the family and community."

He added that federal aid would be more costly than local self help because of the federal "brokerage fee in administering the taxpayer's dollar—from the locality, to Washington, then back to the locality."

Brownell Predicts President To Run For Another Term

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—A reported prediction by Atty. Gen. Brownell that President Eisenhower will "come back and lead us for a long time" was interpreted by some Republicans today as opening the door for a second term race.

Brownell was represented in some quarters as having told the Republican Finance Committee in a closed session here yesterday that he "assumes" Eisenhower will run again.

On the other hand, some of those present at the session of GOP money raisers said Brownell gave no such personal expression.

There was general agreement, however, that the attorney general—who is one of the administration's chief political strategists—did tell the committeemen in a brief talk something like this:

"I can tell you the President is making a wonderful and complete recovery and he is on the eve of resuming the full load of the presidency. I can bring you assurance that the President will come back and lead us for a long time."

Eisenhower, who has been vacationing in Florida, will give his own report on the condition of his health at a news conference tomorrow.

Brownell's reported statements were made at a time when some members of the committee were hinting they need some definite sign of the President's intentions if they are to succeed in money raising efforts.

More than one of the members is said to have made it clear that if Eisenhower isn't going to run, there would be less enthusiasm in raising money to finance the campaign of some other—and as yet unknown—candidate.

Brownell's reported prediction that the President will "lead us for a long time" was interpreted by some of those present as indicating that he had some information on a second term he didn't feel free to disclose.

On the other hand, others who heard his remarks said they could mean only that the President intends to take a leading role in the

Chinese Mental Patient Has 'Fine' Time In Hospital

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 7 — UP—Liu Yung-Ming, a Chinese mental patient being deported at the request of the Communists, said Saturday he had "a fine time" at the state mental hospital at Farmington, Mo.

He was en route to San Francisco, where he will catch a boat for Hong Kong.

The Communist Peiping government, in a note delivered at Geneva, said he once complained that life was "hell" at Farmington.

Saturday, he told reporters he was treated "very well," that it was "a pretty place" and that his fellow patients were "quite OK—quite OK."

The United States started efforts to deport Liu in 1951 but the British would not issue a visa for fear he would stay in Hong Kong. Liu came to America in 1948 to study at the University of Missouri. He was committed to the mental hospital when it was discovered he was suffering from schizophrenia.

Henry Colarelli, officer in charge of the immigration service here, said Liu would have been released last week, if the deportation matter had not come up. Colarell will accompany Liu to San Francisco.

In Congress

Solons Of Both Parties See Constructive Year Despite Election Fight

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—The Senate's Democratic and Republican leaders agreed today that election year politics won't prevent Congress from enacting a "constructive" legislative program.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, called for consideration of controversial bills "without resort to personalities or bitter debate."

He said that Congress is in a "businesslike" mood and will tackle "serious" domestic problems" without bogging down in politics.

Sen. Knowland of California, the GOP leader, said in a separate interview he does not believe Congress will be "stalemated" by politics.

"I agree with Sen. Johnson that there should be vigorous debate on controversial measures but that it should be carried out without indulging in name-calling," he said.

Johnson called for prompt action on major bills, listing farm and Social Security measures for early attention.

The Senate Agriculture Committee has before it a House bill which would restore high, rigid price supports on major field crops.

President Eisenhower is expected to recommend an expanded farm program in a special message to Congress Monday calling for retention of present flexible price supports.

Johnson said the problem created by falling farm prices "is unquestionably the most desperate" one before Congress. But he added "there are others of great magnitude."

"Even though this is an election year," he said, "members of Con-

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cold arctic air spread across most of the eastern two-thirds of the nation Saturday.

The mercury slid to an overnight low of —21 at Bemidji, Minn., and —16 at Fargo, N. D. Grand Forks, N. D., had an early afternoon high of —2.

Temperatures tumbled 15 to 25 degrees in much of the East and South. Freezing weather extended as far south as the Ohio Valley and Oklahoma.

East of the Rockies, only Florida and the Gulf Coast region escaped the icy winds. Midday temperatures in those regions were in the 60s and 70s.

Downslope winds along the Rockies caused rapid local warming, however. The warm breezes boosted the temperature from 20 degrees on Friday to 58 degrees on Saturday at Reno, Nev., and from 27 to 52 at Great Falls, Mont.

New flood threats developed in Oregon as showers and light rains occurred along the West Coast from San Francisco northward.

The area, heavily damaged in pre-Christmas floods, has been doused by rain for nearly a week. Portland, Ore., has had the wettest first week of any year on record, rain averaging one inch a day.

Forecasters kept a close watch in southern Oregon, where rivers were rising again. This area suffered heavy damage in the pre-Christmas, floods.

Midday temperatures included Brownsville, Tex., Fort Meyers and the Miami, Fla., Airport, all 75; Chicago, 33; Albany, N. Y., 19; Atlanta, 47; Kansas City, 21; Denver, 40; Salt Lake City, 50 Seattle, 37 and Los Angeles Airport 57.

Eden Issues Sharp Denial Of Rumor He Plans To Quit

Ellender Asks Penalty Clause In 'Soil Bank'

Non-Participants Would Be Barred From Federal Aid

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 — UP—Sen. Allen J. Ellender said Saturday that farmers should be deprived of government price support benefits if they do not participate in a soil bank program.

Without such a mandatory feature, he told the United Press, the program would not take enough surplus acreage out of production to ease the farm price depression.

The Louisiana Democrat, as chairman of the Senate Agriculture committee, is a key figure on farm legislation.

President Eisenhower's new farm program, which he will outline in a special message to congress Monday, is built around a soil bank plan. But Republican congressmen who have had a glimpse of it, said farmer participation would be voluntary.

The farmers would be paid in cash or "in kind," the same commodity from the present huge surpluses, for taking out of production acreages of corn, cotton, rice and wheat. Such land would be planted to conservation crops such as grass.

Democrats and Republicans in congress generally are agreed on the desirability of a soil bank but they differ on details.

Congressional Democrats were primed in a special memorandum from the Democratic National committee to claim the administration's tardy espousal of the soil bank concept has been costly to farmers.

The memo says the soil bank idea is the "revival of a pre-World War II Democratic program" conducted under a 1936 law.

The memo also comments that twice in 1955 the administration opposed bills to establish a soil-bank. Since then, it continues, the parity ratio has dropped 4 per cent and farm income has fallen by some $700 million-a-year.

"The administration's delay in adopting these Democratic proposals has been costly to farmers," the memorandum asserts.

Democrats and Republicans in congress differ particularly on the amount of cash payments farmers should receive under the soil bank program.

Ellender contends such payments should be at least $750 million a

Missile Cruiser To Test Weapons

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 7 (AP)—The world's first guided missile cruiser, the U. S. Boston, sailed from the Philadelphia Naval Base today on a two-week cruise to test its firepower at sea.

The Boston, commissioned here last Nov. 1, is expected to conduct a series of missile firings about 100 miles off the Virginia capes.

The heavy cruiser, was commissioned first in 1943, then put in "moth balls" after World War Two and recently converted.

The vessel's eight-inch after gun turrets were removed and replaced by launchers for "terrier" missiles. As many as eight missiles can be put into the air in a minute's time.

Newsmen Seek Hint On Second Term

Eisenhower Schedules First Press Conference Since Illness For Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Eisenhower holds his first news conference in five months today and observers hoped for at least a hint of his thoughts on a second term.

The question certainly will be asked as he meets informally with newsmen in Key West, Fla., but White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said he doubts the President will answer questions about his political future.

Eisenhower volunteered to meet with newsmen to talk about his health and his immediate plans. He returns to Washington later in the day.

The news conference comes on the heels of further hints that he may seek a second term despite the heart attack which struck him in Denver Sept. 24.

A high ranking Republican in New Hampshire said Eisenhower's name will be entered in that state's March 13 preferential primary without objections from the White House. Eisenhower could, if he wished, withdraw his name within 10 days after the filing. Or he could let it remain on the ballot without actively signifying any intention to run.

Honesty Questioned

Lawyer's Story Denied By Ex-Spy Elizabeth Bentley

GRAND COTEAU, La., Jan. 7 —Former Communist spy courier Elizabeth Bentley denied tonight that she gave a deposition to an International Monetary Fund loyalty board that cleared William Henry Taylor.

Miss Bentley, now teaching at the College of the Sacred Heart here, said she has consistently maintained since 1948 that she never knew Taylor personally but gained her information "from one of our intelligence outfits."

Taylor's attorney, Byron N.Scott, said in Washington yesterday that he had obtained a deposition from Miss Bentley to the effect that she had not known Taylor personally.

Contacted for comment, Miss Bentley said she had not learned that the board yesterday reversed itself and cleared Taylor.

She said she declined an invitation to testify because of press of teaching duties and had made no deposition in the case.

Miss Bentley said she had testified personally last year in a libel suit brought by Taylor against a Washington newspaper but had given no deposition to Scott or any others involved in the loyalty board case.

Scott claimed that Taylor's vindication by the loyalty board cast doubt on "the credibility of Elizabeth Bentley" and in effect found that "she did not tell the truth about Taylor" in previous testimony before Congressional investigating committees over a seven year period.

Scott also said the Taylor reversal cast doubt on the testimony of Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell, who mentioned Taylor's name in a 1952 Senate Internal Security

Malaya Plans To Cut British Ties At End Of August

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 7 (AP) — Malaya will proclaim its independence Aug. 31 next year, Prince Abdul Rahman, chief minister of the rubber and tin-rich British protectorate, announced today.

Prince Abdul made the disclosure sure while en route to London to negotiate long-coveted independence. He did not say whether Malaya would proclaim its freedom within the British Commonwealth, like India, or pull out entirely on its own, as Burma did.

The only hint he gave was in his expressed admiration for the way India won freedom from Britain in 1947. Three years later India declared itself a sovereign republic but remained in the Commonwealth.

"The lessons of the Indian independence movement stand us in good stead in wresting power from the British," he said. "Our freedom fight is smooth and methodical, and we are trying to emulate the example of India."

Britain, which has used Imperial as well as Malayan troops to wage an increasingly successful war against Communist guerrillas in the steamy Malayan jungles, is not likely to oppose the independence move. Malcolm MacDonald, Britain's retiring commissioner general for Southeast Asia, said last August that if Malaya and Singapore did not get self-government soon it would result in chaos.

Malaya had its first legislative elections in July. About all some of the parties had in common was a demand for independence. A multiracial group won a landslide victory, and Prince Abdul as named chief minister.

He will sail to Karachi, Pakistan, tomorrow to board a plane for London. There he will sit down for specific talks on independence with members of Prime Minister Eden's government.

Independence for former colonial territories is the fashion these days. Only last Sunday the Sudan, which had been administered for

George Opposes Any Increase In U. S. Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 —UP — Chairman Walter F. George of the Senate Foreign Relations committee said Saturday he will oppose any increase in foreign economic aid President Eisenhower may request.

The veteran Georgia Democrat also told reporters he does not "favor establishing foreign aid on a long term basis," as the President has indicated he will recommend.

George said he is willing to go along with a "reasonable" program of continued military aid, "but I am not in favor of giving any increases for economic aid to any part of the world at this time."

Russell told the United Press "I am absolutely opposed to any permanent foreign aid program—and that is what would be involved in a 10-year, or even a five - year, plan," as the administration has suggested.

Mr. Eisenhower, in his forthcoming special foreign aid message to Congress, is expected to ask for $4.9 billion in new assistance funds for the coming fiscal year—an increase of $2.2 billion over the $2.7 billion voted for the current year. The administration also wants to actually spend $200 million more than this year.

The latter increase would replace "carryover" funds which have been spent from the continuing foreign aid "pipeline."

George made it clear that he will back no part of any program to replace money spent from the "pipeline."

Sir Anthony Refutes Report By Newspaper

Speculation In Britain Mounts As Rumors Continue

LONDON, Jan. 7 (AP)—Mounting speculation over Prime Minister Eden's political future brought a sharp official denial tonight of reports he intends to resign.

The denial climaxed a week of criticism of the Prime Minister by members of his own Conservative party and by newspapers which normally support his government.

The denial apparently was intended to choke off a story prepared for publication in the mass circulation Sunday newspaper The People, headlined "Eden Is All Set To Go."

The Prime Minister's official residence, No. 10 Downing Street, said:

"This story is false and without any foundation whatever."

The statement was issued even before the first edition of The People appeared on the streets.

The story which was denied declared Eden would resign by early summer at the latest and would be succeeded by R. A. Butler, recently made leader of the House of Commons in a government reshuffle.

Eden's health is not good, the story said, and Conservatives want

Eden May Invite U. S. Membership In Baghdad Pact

LONDON, Jan. 7—UP— Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden will dispatch his top Mid-East advisor to Washington next week with a sweeping five-point plan for western action in the troubled Middle East, official sources disclosed Saturday.

The plan will urge American membership in the Baghdad defense pact along with Britain, Iran, Iraq, Turkey and Pakistan, the sources said.

The proposals will be coordinated with American suggestions in preparation for the talks between Eden and President Eisenhower in Washington starting Jan. 30.

Evelyn Shuckburgh, foreign office chief policy advisor, will present a blueprint based on a two-day secret meeting here between Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and the British Middle East ambassadors this week.

Center piece of the project is a tentative plan for a fully coordinated system of financial, economic and technical assistance grants to the Middle East countries. This might be linked to existing aid programs in the area.

The plan provides further for a strong warning against aggression in the area, and a pledge of assistance to the attacked party, informed sources said.

This amounts to a re-affirmation of the 1950 tri-partite declaration (Britain, the United States, France), but with possible additional safeguard against aggression or change of the status quo by force. The 1950 declaration deals with arms shipments to the Middle East with an eye towards maintaining a balance of power.

The plan envisions a complete review of the present arms supply program to Middle East nations, with new safeguards against an arm race in the explosive area.

Modern Juliette Flees Before Dawn On Wedding Day

Daughter Of Socially Prominent Family Elopes With Suitor Hours Before Marriage To Another

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 7 (AP)—A modern Juliette, daughter of a socially prominent family, had a change of heart on her wedding day today and slipped away before dawn with her true love, friends reported.

Juliette (Judy) Wehle, 20-year-old socialite whose uncle is a member of Gov. Averell Harriman's Cabinet, slipped out of her home about 3 a.m. and joined Stephan Hahn, 26, whose family also is prominent in Rochester social circles.

Forlorn and shocked was Air Force Lt. John Owens, former Colgate University football star, who was to have been married to Juliette at 11 a.m.

Friends said Miss Wehle had thrown a housecoat over her negligee, left home by a side door and showed up with Hahn at a private party, breathless and "very happy." She was quoted as saying she wanted to marry Hahn right away.

Police throughout western New York had a pickup order out for the couple, but only to ask them to call their parents.

Police reported late today that Hahn had telephoned a brother here from New York City. There were no details.

A white station wagon that Hahn had borrowed to pick up his sweetheart was found parked at Hancock Field in Syracuse. Police assumed that the couple, apparently fearing possible family interference had flown to New York, financed by a "purse" put together by friends.

Judy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wehle, could not be reached for comment on the romance. He is president of a trucking company. Her uncle is Louis A. Wehle, board chairman of the Genesee Brewing Co. and New York State conservation commissioner.

A friend of Judy's who was at the party, Miss Gloria Berardi, said she had arranged to get the girl a change of clothing.

Friends at the party collected a purse of $500 for the couple. Hahn and Judy then left. They were reported to have stopped briefly at another friend's home, then disappeared.

The big society wedding was to have been held in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church in suburban Penfield. Both Judy and Owens are Roman Catholics.

Owens, 23, of Rochester, is headed for duty in Japan.

Hahn is a son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Y. Hahn. His father is president of Crossman Arms, a firearms manufacturing firm in nearby Fairport.

Miss Berardi said Hahn, who recently returned from Florida, had tried all last evening to telephone Judy at her home. Finally he reached and urged her to call off the wedding. He borrowed an automobile from a friend at the party and returned shortly with Judy.

The only one to hear from Judy was her sister, Mrs. Beth O'Connor. Judy called her about 6 a.m. to say: "Everything is O.K. don't worry." Mrs. O'Connor was to have been matron of honor.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cold arctic air spread across most of the eastern two-thirds of the nation Saturday.

The mercury slid to an overnight low of —21 at Bemidji, Minn., and —16 at Fargo, N. D. Grand Forks, N. D., had an early afternoon high of —2.

Temperatures tumbled 15 to 25 degrees in much of the East and South. Freezing weather extended as far south as the Ohio Valley and Oklahoma.

East of the Rockies, only Florida and the Gulf Coast region escaped the icy winds. Midday temperatures in those regions were in the 60s and 70s.

Downslope winds along the Rockies caused rapid local warming, however. The warm breezes boosted the temperature from 20 degrees on Friday to 58 degrees on Saturday at Reno, Nev., and from 27 to 52 at Great Falls, Mont.

New flood threats developed in Oregon as showers and light rains occurred along the West Coast from San Francisco northward.

The area, heavily damaged in pre-Christmas floods, has been doused by rain for nearly a week. Portland, Ore., has had the wettest first week of any year on record, rain averaging one inch a day.

Forecasters kept a close watch in southern Oregon, where rivers were rising again. This area suffered heavy damage in the pre-Christmas, floods.

Midday temperatures included Brownsville, Tex., Fort Meyers and the Miami, Fla., Airport, all 75; Chicago, 33; Albany, N. Y., 19; Atlanta, 47; Kansas City, 21; Denver, 40; Salt Lake City, 50 Seattle, 37 and Los Angeles Airport 57.

Eden Issues Sharp Denial Of Rumor He Plans To Quit

Ellender Asks Penalty Clause In 'Soil Bank'

Non-Participants Would Be Barred From Federal Aid

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 — UP—Sen. Allen J. Ellender said Saturday that farmers should be deprived of government price support benefits if they do not participate in a soil bank program.

Without such a mandatory feature, he told the United Press, the program would not take enough surplus acreage out of production to ease the farm price depression.

President Eisenhower's new farm program, which he will outline in a special message to congress Monday, is built around a soil bank plan. But Republican congressmen who have had a glimpse of it, said farmer participation would be voluntary.

The farmers would be paid in cash or "in kind," the same commodity from the present huge surpluses, for taking out of production acreages of corn, cotton, rice and wheat. Such land would be planted to conservation crops such as grass.

Democrats and Republicans in congress generally are agreed on the desirability of a soil bank but they differ on details.

Congressional Democrats were primed in a special memorandum from the Democratic National committee to claim the administration's tardy espousal of the soil bank concept has been costly to farmers.

The memo says the soil bank idea is the "revival of a pre-World War II Democratic program" conducted under a 1936 law.

The memo also comments that twice in 1955 the administration opposed bills to establish a soil-bank. Since then, it continues, the parity ratio has dropped 4 per cent and farm income has fallen by some $700 million-a-year.

"The administration's delay in adopting these Democratic proposals has been costly to farmers," the memorandum asserts.

Democrats and Republicans in congress differ particularly on the amount of cash payments farmers should receive under the soil bank program.

Ellender contends such payments should be at least $750 million a

Missile Cruiser To Test Weapons

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 7 (AP)—The world's first guided missile cruiser, the U. S. Boston, sailed from the Philadelphia Naval Base today on a two-week cruise to test its firepower at sea.

The Boston, commissioned here last Nov. 1, is expected to conduct a series of missile firings about 100 miles off the Virginia capes.

The heavy cruiser, was commissioned first in 1943, then put in "moth balls" after World War Two and recently converted.

The vessel's eight-inch after gun turrets were removed and replaced by launchers for "terrier" missiles. As many as eight missiles can be put into the air in a minute's time.

Newsmen Seek Hint On Second Term

Eisenhower Schedules First Press Conference Since Illness For Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Eisenhower holds his first news conference in five months today and observers hoped for at least a hint of his thoughts on a second term.

The question certainly will be asked as he meets informally with newsmen in Key West, Fla., but White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said he doubts the President will answer questions about his political future.

Eisenhower volunteered to meet with newsmen to talk about his health and his immediate plans. He returns to Washington later in the day.

The news conference comes on the heels of further hints that he may seek a second term despite the heart attack which struck him in Denver Sept. 24.

A high ranking Republican in New Hampshire said Eisenhower's name will be entered in that state's March 13 preferential primary without objections from the White House. Eisenhower could, if he wished, withdraw his name within 10 days after the filing. Or he could let it remain on the ballot without actively signifying any intention to run.

Lawyer's Story Denied By Ex-Spy Elizabeth Bentley

GRAND COTEAU, La., Jan. 7 —Former Communist spy courier Elizabeth Bentley denied tonight that she gave a deposition to an International Monetary Fund loyalty board that cleared William Henry Taylor.

Miss Bentley, now teaching at the College of the Sacred Heart here, said she has consistently maintained since 1948 that she never knew Taylor personally but gained her information "from one of our intelligence outfits."

Taylor's attorney, Byron N.Scott, said in Washington yesterday that he had obtained a deposition from Miss Bentley to the effect that she had not known Taylor personally.

Contacted for comment, Miss Bentley said she had not learned that the board yesterday reversed itself and cleared Taylor.

She said she declined an invitation to testify because of press of teaching duties and had made no deposition in the case.

Miss Bentley said she had testified personally last year in a libel suit brought by Taylor against a Washington newspaper but had given no deposition to Scott or any others involved in the loyalty board case.

Scott claimed that Taylor's vindication by the loyalty board cast doubt on "the credibility of Elizabeth Bentley" and in effect found that "she did not tell the truth about Taylor" in previous testimony before Congressional investigating committees over a seven year period.

Scott also said the Taylor reversal cast doubt on the testimony of Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell, who mentioned Taylor's name in a 1952 Senate Internal Security

Malaya Plans To Cut British Ties At End Of August

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 7 (AP) — Malaya will proclaim its independence Aug. 31 next year, Prince Abdul Rahman, chief minister of the rubber and tin-rich British protectorate, announced today.

Prince Abdul made the disclosure sure while en route to London to negotiate long-coveted independence. He did not say whether Malaya would proclaim its freedom within the British Commonwealth, like India, or pull out entirely on its own, as Burma did.

The only hint he gave was in his expressed admiration for the way India won freedom from Britain in 1947. Three years later India declared itself a sovereign republic but remained in the Commonwealth.

"The lessons of the Indian independence movement stand us in good stead in wresting power from the British," he said. "Our freedom fight is smooth and methodical, and we are trying to emulate the example of India."

Britain, which has used Imperial as well as Malayan troops to wage an increasingly successful war against Communist guerrillas in the steamy Malayan jungles, is not likely to oppose the independence move. Malcolm MacDonald, Britain's retiring commissioner general for Southeast Asia, said last August that if Malaya and Singapore did not get self-government soon it would result in chaos.

Malaya had its first legislative elections in July. About all some of the parties had in common was a demand for independence. A multiracial group won a landslide victory, and Prince Abdul as named chief minister.

He will sail to Karachi, Pakistan, tomorrow to board a plane for London. There he will sit down for specific talks on independence with members of Prime Minister Eden's government.

Independence for former colonial territories is the fashion these days. Only last Sunday the Sudan, which had been administered for

George Opposes Any Increase In U. S. Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 —UP — Chairman Walter F. George of the Senate Foreign Relations committee said Saturday he will oppose any increase in foreign economic aid President Eisenhower may request.

The veteran Georgia Democrat also told reporters he does not "favor establishing foreign aid on a long term basis," as the President has indicated he will recommend.

George said he is willing to go along with a "reasonable" program of continued military aid, "but I am not in favor of giving any increases for economic aid to any part of the world at this time."

Russell told the United Press "I am absolutely opposed to any permanent foreign aid program—and that is what would be involved in a 10-year, or even a five - year, plan," as the administration has suggested.

Mr. Eisenhower, in his forthcoming special foreign aid message to Congress, is expected to ask for $4.9 billion in new assistance funds for the coming fiscal year—an increase of $2.2 billion over the $2.7 billion voted for the current year. The administration also wants to actually spend $200 million more than this year.

The latter increase would replace "carryover" funds which have been spent from the continuing foreign aid "pipeline."

George made it clear that he will back no part of any program to replace money spent from the "pipeline."

Sir Anthony Refutes Report By Newspaper

Speculation In Britain Mounts As Rumors Continue

LONDON, Jan. 7 (AP)—Mounting speculation over Prime Minister Eden's political future brought a sharp official denial tonight of reports he intends to resign.

The denial apparently was intended to choke off a story prepared for publication in the mass circulation Sunday newspaper The People, headlined "Eden Is All Set To Go."

The Prime Minister's official residence, No. 10 Downing Street, said:

"This story is false and without any foundation whatever."

The statement was issued even before the first edition of The People appeared on the streets.

The story which was denied declared Eden would resign by early summer at the latest and would be succeeded by R. A. Butler, recently made leader of the House of Commons in a government reshuffle.

Eden's health is not good, the story said, and Conservatives want

Eden May Invite U. S. Membership In Baghdad Pact

LONDON, Jan. 7—UP— Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden will dispatch his top Mid-East advisor to Washington next week with a sweeping five-point plan for western action in the troubled Middle East, official sources disclosed Saturday.

The plan will urge American membership in the Baghdad defense pact along with Britain, Iran, Iraq, Turkey and Pakistan, the sources said.

The proposals will be coordinated with American suggestions in preparation for the talks between Eden and President Eisenhower in Washington starting Jan. 30.

Evelyn Shuckburgh, foreign office chief policy advisor, will present a blueprint based on a two-day secret meeting here between Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and the British Middle East ambassadors this week.

Center piece of the project is a tentative plan for a fully coordinated system of financial, economic and technical assistance grants to the Middle East countries. This might be linked to existing aid programs in the area.

The plan provides further for a strong warning against aggression in the area, and a pledge of assistance to the attacked party, informed sources said.

This amounts to a re-affirmation of the 1950 tri-partite declaration (Britain, the United States, France), but with possible additional safeguard against aggression or change of the status quo by force. The 1950 declaration deals with arms shipments to the Middle East with an eye towards maintaining a balance of power.

The plan envisions a complete review of the present arms supply program to Middle East nations, with new safeguards against an arm race in the explosive area.

Modern Juliette Flees Before Dawn On Wedding Day

Daughter Of Socially Prominent Family Elopes With Suitor Hours Before Marriage To Another

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 7 (AP)—A modern Juliette, daughter of a socially prominent family, had a change of heart on her wedding day today and slipped away before dawn with her true love, friends reported.

Juliette (Judy) Wehle, 20-year-old socialite whose uncle is a member of Gov. Averell Harriman's Cabinet, slipped out of her home about 3 a.m. and joined Stephan Hahn, 26, whose family also is prominent in Rochester social circles.

Forlorn and shocked was Air Force Lt. John Owens, former Colgate University football star, who was to have been married to Juliette at 11 a.m.

Friends said Miss Wehle had thrown a housecoat over her negligee, left home by a side door and showed up with Hahn at a private party, breathless and "very happy." She was quoted as saying she wanted to marry Hahn right away.

Police throughout western New York had a pickup order out for the couple, but only to ask them to call their parents.

Police reported late today that Hahn had telephoned a brother here from New York City. There were no details.

A white station wagon that Hahn had borrowed to pick up his sweetheart was found parked at Hancock Field in Syracuse. Police assumed that the couple, apparently fearing possible family interference had flown to New York, financed by a "purse" put together by friends.

Judy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wehle, could not be reached for comment on the romance. He is president of a trucking company. Her uncle is Louis A. Wehle, board chairman of the Genesee Brewing Co. and New York State conservation commissioner.

A friend of Judy's who was at the party, Miss Gloria Berardi, said she had arranged to get the girl a change of clothing.

Friends at the party collected a purse of $500 for the couple. Hahn and Judy then left. They were reported to have stopped briefly at another friend's home, then disappeared.

The big society wedding was to have been held in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church in suburban Penfield. Both Judy and Owens are Roman Catholics.

Owens, 23, of Rochester, is headed for duty in Japan.

Hahn is a son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Y. Hahn. His father is president of Crossman Arms, a firearms manufacturing firm in nearby Fairport.

Miss Berardi said Hahn, who recently returned from Florida, had tried all last evening to telephone Judy at her home. Finally he reached and urged her to call off the wedding. He borrowed an automobile from a friend at the party and returned shortly with Judy.

The only one to hear from Judy was her sister, Mrs. Beth O'Connor. Judy called her about 6 a.m. to say: "Everything is O.K. don't worry." Mrs. O'Connor was to have been matron of honor.

Long Urges All To Vote Straight Ticket At Polls

WINNFIELD, Jan. 7 (Special)—Earl K. Long made a bid for support of his entire ticket here Saturday afternoon.

The former governor spoke briefly in the brisk chill of late afternoon before a crowd of several thousand persons and when he finished asked the audience to remain to hear addresses by his opponent, Col. Francis Grevemberg and members of his ticket.

The Grevemberg rally was scheduled immediately after the Long meeting. Said Long at the conclusion of his speech, "Col. Grevemberg is a good man and he has just as much right to run for governor as I do or anyone else. I hope you stay and hear what he has to say, so you can inform yourselves on the issues in this campaign."

In his remarks at Winnfield, Long urged voters to vote a straight ticket. "Give your next governor his own state officials to work with," he said.

Long opened his Saturday speaking tour in Winnsboro and went from there to Harrisonburg and Jena. Lether Frazar, candidate for lieutenant governor, headed another group of candidates and speakers, who appeared at Columbia, Kelly and Olla before the two joined at Winnfield.

Candidates speaking were Jack Gremillion for attorney general, Sidney McCrory for commissioner of agriculture, Bill Dodd for state auditor and Lucille May Grace for register of state lands.

Speaking in support of them were Dr. George S. Long, member of congress from the Eighth District; John McKeithen, public service commissioner; State Senator B. B. Rayburn of Bogalusa; Mrs. Mary Evelyn Dickerson Parker, former head of the department of commerce and industry and Ernest Clements of Oberlin, former wildlife commissioner.

His audiences, in most places including both whites and Negroes, enthusiastically received his statement that he is "one hundred per cent for segregation." Long said, "I'm not going into any corner to make a deal with one group that I don't want another to know about. I have nothing to hide. My campaign is strictly on the up and up."

In Winnsboro he said, I think "a man running for office ought to tell the truth. There are some politicians who do—and every now and then there are some bad ones."

Concluding his review of the benefits advanced by his administration, he said, "Aren't you glad you live in a state that thinks enough of its fine old citizens to give them the fourth highest old age pension in the country? A state that was the first in the south to clean up tuberculosis? A state that gives hot lunches free to its needy school children? That provides fine charity hospitals for those who cannot pay?"

Long and his ticket will speak Sunday at Moreauville, Mansura, Simmesport, Innis, Port Allen, and Plaquemine.

Committee investigation of Harry Dexter White, Taylor's former boss in the Treasury Department.

Scott's estimate of Brownell and Miss Bentley as witnesses was disputed by chairman Henry E. Waldman of the loyalty board that cleared Taylor. He said their names "never should have been linked with this case."

Miss Bentley agreed with Waldman that she was not an issue in the Taylor case.

"I'm not interested in getting into any controversy with Taylor's lawyer," she said. "I told the House un-American Activities Committee in 1948 that I did not know Taylor personally but got my information from one of our intelligence outfits.

"That's the way it works in that type of work. You don't know everyone personally."

Miss Bentley, who broke with the Communists after World War Two and testified against them for the government, told a congressional hearing that Taylor had belonged to a Red espionage ring within the government during the war.

In her testimony, she said she operated as a courier for a Soviet spy ring.

"Whatever testimony I gave regarding Taylor is a matter of record," she said.

Miss Bentley said her testimony before congressional committees goes back over a period of seven years and she did not have her records at hand to discuss Taylor.

She said she turned down an invitation to appear before the Monetary Fund loyalty board because she was busy with classes and could not get away.

Her present policy, she said, is to "avoid these controversies unless subpoened."

Taylor, 48, is assistant director of the Monetary Funds middle east department. Born in Canada, he was naturalized in 1940 and served in the Treasury Department's monetary research division under White, whom Brownell described as a Communist spy.

Taylor was found to be a loyalty rish on June 28, 1955, but the decision was reversed yesterday on the basis of new evidence that was not made public.

The Malayan Federation, set up under a treaty in 1948, consists of nine states with their separate rulers plus the two British settlements of Penang and Malacca. Singapore, strategic military base and commercial center on a small island off the southern tip of the Malay Peninsula, is a British colony.

Treaties recognizing Britain as the protecting power go back more than 80 years in the cases of some Malay states. While state and federal governments have received increasing powers, Britain retained control over defense and foreign affairs.

The federation has an area of about 50,690 square miles and a population of about five million. The capital is at Kuala Lumpur.

Fire-Damaged Car's Owner Is Sought

A fire of undetermined origin in a pre-war car on DeSiard Street last night was brought under control by fire truck 105 with Captain Wright in charge. The car was deserted when the fire was discovered.

At a late hour last night the police and fire department officials had been unable to locate the owner of the car.

The People was not alone in its forecast of Eden's departure.

"A formidable body of Conservative members of Parliament is determined to remove Eden as head of the government," said the Observer article, written by its unnamed political correspondent.

The Observer also said the significance of recent personal attacks on Eden by the Conservative press are "being gravely underestimated by his advisers."

"Before the year is out-some even say by the summer—the submerged time-bomb is due to explode," it said. "Sir Anthony would be lifted to the House of Lords on grounds of ill health."

The main objects of criticism have been:

Rising living costs and the absence of any government statement on pending wage claims.

Britain's loss of face in the Middle East and an uproar over sales of British war equipment to Middle East nations.

Failure to achieve a settlement of pro-Greek disorders in the Mediterranean colony of Cyprus.

Conservative journals have accused Eden of indecision and "lack of forethought" in both home and foreign matters.

The 58-year-old former foreign minister, who succeeded Sir Winston Churchill as prime minister last year, is reported to have been unruffled by the flurry of criticism.

Eisenhower

Atty. Gen. Brownell's reported prediction that Eisenhower will "come back and lead us for a long time." Some who heard Brownell address a Republican finance committee dinner Friday night quoted him that he "assumes" Eisenhower will run again. Others said he didn't say that.

The Chattanooga Times reported in today's edition that Mrs. Eisenhower, long considered a major objector to another four years in the White House, has "agreed to object no longer" if the President feels physically up to it. The paper said their son, Maj. John Eisenhower, also agrees.

With the President's health a major factor, the American Research Foundation was conducting a poll of the nation's heart specialists for a client it refused to name. The Journal of the American Medical Assn. asked the specialists, however, to ignore the questionnaire from the Princeton, N.J. organization.

Both the Democratic National Committee and the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education denied that they were involved in the poll. White House officials in both Washington and Key West declined to comment on it.

Two Tennessee papers reported trouble ahead for Sen. Estes Kefauver in getting his own state's support for the Democratic presidential nomination. The Memphis Commercial Appeal and the Nashville Banner said in dispatches from Washington that Tennessee Gov. Frank Clement will fight Kefauver's forces in seeking designation as a "favorite son" candidate.

The showdown will come in the state's Democratic convention in late April or May to name delegates to the national nominating convention.

Kefauver, in Washington, declined to comment on the report.

Eisenhower's return to Washington will bring him face to face with the problems of getting his program through a Democratic-controlled Congress.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader, said yesterday he expects a "business-like" Congress will approve a constructive legislative program despite any election year politics. Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, expressed a similar opinion.

Chairman Ellender (D-La) of the Senate Agriculture Committee called on Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson to "keep the new farm legislation out of partisan politics."

Eisenhower will send a special farm message to Congress tomorrow. He promised quick action on the administration plan includes the "best" recommendations of various groups concerned.

gress have the sobering realization that actions on these problems is essential. Therefore it is likely that politics will not interfere with work—that the Congress will hammer out a program that meets the needs of the nation."

In this category, he listed disaster relief, aid for areas with unemployment problems, water conservation measures, a long-range highway program and federal aid for school construction.

He said the Senate had not had "much encouragement" from the Eisenhower administration to act last year on a House bill liberalizing Social Security coverage for women and handicapped persons.

"Action on Social Security can not be postponed much longer," he added.

He said Congress' failure to enact a highway bill last year "did not do much harm."

"But this year it is definitely in the 'must' category," he said. "The accidents and deaths over the holidays were a dramatic reminder of the need for modernizing highways but there are other pressing needs, too, including the economic development of our country."

He said that school construction "is another issue which must be faced if our country is to plan intelligently for the future."

Johnson said that so far as the Democratic leadership is concerned, every bill will be handled "without resort to personalities or bitter debate."

He said that the controversial bill to exempt natural gas producers from federal regulations, scheduled as the Senate's first major business, "will be discussed thoroughly and vigorously as it should be."

campaign, even if he isn't a candidate himself.

Eisenhower promised in a Dec. 1 message to the Republican National Committee to "do everything in my power next year to help you report the (Republican) record accurately and fully to the country."

Brownell was said to have told the finance committeemen, headed by investment banker Clifford Folger, that he believes 1956 will be a year in which all of the party's expectations will be fulfilled.

One of those who listened said that, while Brownell didn't make any direct reference to a second term bid, "he certainly didn't lean away from it all."

Blaze Damages Powell Avenue Grocery Store

A fire that broke out at the Powell Avenue Store, 910 Powell Ave., last night inflicted damage estimated at several hundred dollars before it was brought under control by the Monroe Fire Department.

Although the fire was confined to the attic at the rear of the building the heat damage to the merchandise in the rest of the building was extensive.

Firemen theorized that the blaze apparently started from defective wiring in the attic. However it was said that it would be necessary to conduct further investigation to be sure of the cause.

Owner of the building was listed as E. L. Morris and it was reported that the damage was partly covered by insurance.

Firemen Answer Call To Swamp Area Blaze

Shortly after making a run to the scene of a fire in a swampy area of timber and underbrush about two miles southeast of here around 9 o'clock last night, Monroe firemen reported that the blaze was under control and burning itself out.

The area affected, they said, covered around one square mile. The fire which brightly lighted the night skies attracted considerable attention from motorists driving in the area.

Long Urges All To Vote Straight Ticket At Polls

WINNFIELD, Jan. 7 (Special)—Earl K. Long made a bid for support of his entire ticket here Saturday afternoon.

The former governor spoke briefly in the brisk chill of late afternoon before a crowd of several thousand persons and when he finished asked the audience to remain to hear addresses by his opponent, Col. Francis Grevemberg and members of his ticket.

The Grevemberg rally was scheduled immediately after the Long meeting. Said Long at the conclusion of his speech, "Col. Grevemberg is a good man and he has just as much right to run for governor as I do or anyone else. I hope you stay and hear what he has to say, so you can inform yourselves on the issues in this campaign."

In his remarks at Winnfield, Long urged voters to vote a straight ticket. "Give your next governor his own state officials to work with," he said.

Long opened his Saturday speaking tour in Winnsboro and went from there to Harrisonburg and Jena. Lether Frazar, candidate for lieutenant governor, headed another group of candidates and speakers, who appeared at Columbia, Kelly and Olla before the two joined at Winnfield.

Candidates speaking were Jack Gremillion for attorney general, Sidney McCrory for commissioner of agriculture, Bill Dodd for state auditor and Lucille May Grace for register of state lands.

Speaking in support of them were Dr. George S. Long, member of congress from the Eighth District; John McKeithen, public service commissioner; State Senator B. B. Rayburn of Bogalusa; Mrs. Mary Evelyn Dickerson Parker, former head of the department of commerce and industry and Ernest Clements of Oberlin, former wildlife commissioner.

His audiences, in most places including both whites and Negroes, enthusiastically received his statement that he is "one hundred per cent for segregation." Long said, "I'm not going into any corner to make a deal with one group that I don't want another to know about. I have nothing to hide. My campaign is strictly on the up and up."

In Winnsboro he said, I think "a man running for office ought to tell the truth. There are some politicians who do—and every now and then there are some bad ones."

Concluding his review of the benefits advanced by his administration, he said, "Aren't you glad you live in a state that thinks enough of its fine old citizens to give them the fourth highest old age pension in the country? A state that was the first in the south to clean up tuberculosis? A state that gives hot lunches free to its needy school children? That provides fine charity hospitals for those who cannot pay?"

Long and his ticket will speak Sunday at Moreauville, Mansura, Simmesport, Innis, Port Allen, and Plaquemine.

Lawyer's Story

Scott's estimate of Brownell and Miss Bentley as witnesses was disputed by chairman Henry E. Waldman of the loyalty board that cleared Taylor. He said their names "never should have been linked with this case."

Miss Bentley agreed with Waldman that she was not an issue in the Taylor case.

"I'm not interested in getting into any controversy with Taylor's lawyer," she said. "I told the House un-American Activities Committee in 1948 that I did not know Taylor personally but got my information from one of our intelligence outfits.

"That's the way it works in that type of work. You don't know everyone personally."

Miss Bentley, who broke with the Communists after World War Two and testified against them for the government, told a congressional hearing that Taylor had belonged to a Red espionage ring within the government during the war.

In her testimony, she said she operated as a courier for a Soviet spy ring.

"Whatever testimony I gave regarding Taylor is a matter of record," she said.

Miss Bentley said her testimony before congressional committees goes back over a period of seven years and she did not have her records at hand to discuss Taylor.

She said she turned down an invitation to appear before the Monetary Fund loyalty board because she was busy with classes and could not get away.

Her present policy, she said, is to "avoid these controversies unless subpoened."

Taylor, 48, is assistant director of the Monetary Funds middle east department. Born in Canada, he was naturalized in 1940 and served in the Treasury Department's monetary research division under White, whom Brownell described as a Communist spy.

Taylor was found to be a loyalty rish on June 28, 1955, but the decision was reversed yesterday on the basis of new evidence that was not made public.

more than half a century as a condominium by Britain and Egypt, became a free country with the blessing of London and Cairo.

The Malayan Federation, set up under a treaty in 1948, consists of nine states with their separate rulers plus the two British settlements of Penang and Malacca. Singapore, strategic military base and commercial center on a small island off the southern tip of the Malay Peninsula, is a British colony.

Treaties recognizing Britain as the protecting power go back more than 80 years in the cases of some Malay states. While state and federal governments have received increasing powers, Britain retained control over defense and foreign affairs.

The federation has an area of about 50,690 square miles and a population of about five million. The capital is at Kuala Lumpur.

Fire-Damaged Car's Owner Is Sought

A fire of undetermined origin in a pre-war car on DeSiard Street last night was brought under control by fire truck 105 with Captain Wright in charge. The car was deserted when the fire was discovered.

At a late hour last night the police and fire department officials had been unable to locate the owner of the car.

Sir Anthony

The People was not alone in its forecast of Eden's departure.

"A formidable body of Conservative members of Parliament is determined to remove Eden as head of the government," said the Observer article, written by its unnamed political correspondent.

The Observer also said the significance of recent personal attacks on Eden by the Conservative press are "being gravely underestimated by his advisers."

"Before the year is out-some even say by the summer—the submerged time - bomb is due to explode," it said. "Sir Anthony would be lifted to the House of Lords on grounds of ill health."

The main objects of criticism have been:

Rising living costs and the absence of any government statement on pending wage claims.

Britain's loss of face in the Middle East and an uproar over sales of British war equipment to Middle East nations.

Failure to achieve a settlement of pro-Greek disorders in the Mediterranean colony of Cyprus.

Conservative journals have accused Eden of indecision and "lack of forethought" in both home and foreign matters.

Atty. Gen. Brownell's reported prediction that Eisenhower will "come back and lead us for a long time." Some who heard Brownell address a Republican finance committee dinner Friday night quoted him that he "assumes" Eisenhower will run again. Others said he didn't say that.

The Chattanooga Times reported in today's edition that Mrs. Eisenhower, long considered a major objector to another four years in the White House, has "agreed to object no longer" if the President feels physically up to it. The paper said their son, Maj. John Eisenhower, also agrees.

With the President's health a major factor, the American Research Foundation was conducting a poll of the nation's heart specialists for a client it refused to name. The Journal of the American Medical Assn. asked the specialists, however, to ignore the questionnaire from the Princeton, N.J. organization.

Both the Democratic National Committee and the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education denied that they were involved in the poll. White House officials in both Washington and Key West declined to comment on it.

Two Tennessee papers reported trouble ahead for Sen. Estes Kefauver in getting his own state's support for the Democratic presidential nomination. The Memphis Commercial Appeal and the Nashville Banner said in dispatches from Washington that Tennessee Gov. Frank Clement will fight Kefauver's forces in seeking designation as a "favorite son" candidate.

The showdown will come in the state's Democratic convention in late April or May to name delegates to the national nominating convention.

Kefauver, in Washington, declined to comment on the report.

Eisenhower's return to Washington will bring him face to face with the problems of getting his program through a Democratic-controlled Congress.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader, said yesterday he expects a "business-like" Congress will approve a constructive legislative program despite any election year politics. Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, expressed a similar opinion.

Chairman Ellender (D-La) of the Senate Agriculture Committee called on Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson to "keep the new farm legislation out of partisan politics."

Eisenhower will send a special farm message to Congress tomorrow. He promised quick action [illegible] administration plan includes [illegible] best" recommendations of various groups concerned.

He pushed George into the Negroes' pick-up truck and fled.

Two miles outside town, he let George out and ordered him to stand still for five minutes. Then he sped over a hill in the truck.

gress have the sobering realization that actions on these problems is essential. Therefore it is likely that politics will not interfere with work—that the Congress will hammer out a program that meets the needs of the nation."

In this category, he listed disaster relief, aid for areas with unemployment problems, water conservation measures, a long-range highway program and federal aid for school construction.

He said the Senate had not had "much encouragement" from the Eisenhower administration to act last year on a House bill liberalizing Social Security coverage for women and handicapped persons.

"Action on Social Security can not be postponed much longer," he added.

He said Congress' failure to enact a highway bill last year "did not do much harm."

"But this year it is definitely in the 'must' category," he said. "The accidents and deaths over the holidays were a dramatic reminder of the need for modernizing highways but there are other pressing needs, too, including the economic development of our country."

He said that school construction "is another issue which must be faced if our country is to plan intelligently for the future."

Johnson said that so far as the Democratic leadership is concerned, every bill will be handled "without resort to personalities or bitter debate."

He said that the controversial bill to exempt natural gas producers from federal regulations, scheduled as the Senate's first major business, "will be discussed thoroughly and vigorously as it should be."

campaign, even if he isn't a candidate himself.

Eisenhower promised in a Dec. 1 message to the Republican National Committee to "do everything in my power next year to help you report the (Republican) record accurately and fully to the country."

Brownell was said to have told the finance committeemen, headed by investment banker Clifford Folger, that he believes 1956 will be a year in which all of the party's expectations will be fulfilled.

One of those who listened said that, while Brownell didn't make any direct reference to a second term bid, "he certainly didn't lean away from it all."

Blaze Damages Powell Avenue Grocery Store

A fire that broke out at the Powell Avenue Store, 910 Powell Ave., last night inflicted damage estimated at several hundred dollars before it was brought under control by the Monroe Fire Department.

Although the fire was confined to the attic at the rear of the building the heat damage to the merchandise in the rest of the building was extensive.

Firemen theorized that the blaze apparently started from defective wiring in the attic. However it was said that it would be necessary to conduct further investigation to be sure of the cause.

Owner of the building was listed as E. L. Morris and it was reported that the damage was partly covered by insurance.

Firemen Answer Call To Swamp Area Blaze

Shortly after making a run to the scene of a fire in a swampy area of timber and underbrush about two miles southeast of here around 9 o'clock last night, Monroe firemen reported that the blaze was under control and burning itself out.

The area affected, they said, covered around one square mile. The fire which brightly lighted the night skies attracted considerable attention from motorists driving in the area.

MONROE'S FINEST JEWELER'S

Solons Poll Leading U. S. Citizens For Opinions On Status Of Vice President

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 —UP— Congressional investigators have polled 60 of the nation's leading citizens, including former Presidents Hoover and Truman, in an effort to clear up a constitutional question brought into sharp focus by President Eisenhower's heart attack, it was learned Saturday.

The question is: What did the founding fathers mean when they provided in Article II of the Constitution that the vice president shall take over in case of the President's "inability to discharge executive powers?

The clause has never been invoked, although many historians believe it should have been when President Woodrow Wilson suffered a paralytic stroke that left him in invalid 17 months before his term expired.

Immediately after President Eisenhower's heart attack last Sept. 24, there was talk in political circles about the possibility of Vice President Richard M. Nixon assuming the chief executive's powers under the "inability" clause. But this was quickly squelched by a White House announcement that the President's regular "team" of advisers and Cabinet officers would carry on the government's business.

Mr. Eisenhower's subsequent rapid recovery has, of course, eliminated any consideration of applying the clause at present. But his illness nevertheless has underscored the necessity of defining the clause to avoid future constitutional crises.

The survey was the brainchild of Rep. Emanuel D. Celler (D-N. Y.), chairman of the House Judiciary committee. Celler hopes to make it public by the end of this month.

Questionnaires prepared by Celler's staff went out on Dec. 30 to a list of prominent citizens headed by former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Herbert C. Hoover. Others polled were former vice presidents John Nance Garner and Henry A. Wallace, all living former secretaries of state, and a cross-section of leading constitutional lawyers.

Spellman Leads Mass In Italy

The mass was attended by Adm. William B. Fechteler, commander of Allied forces in southern Europe as well as officers and personnel of the six NATO nations based in this port city.

Air Force Plane Traps Suspect In Attempt To Force $30,000 Payment

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. Jan. 7 —UP—A twin-engined Air Force plane trailed an intended extortion victim's car and sent a radio message that helped FBI agents and police in arresting a man who admitted the plot, federal authorities said Saturday.

The suspect, Norman Raymond Carver, 64, a former bowling alley operator now unemployed, signed a statement admitting the attempt to obtain $30,000 from H. Chase Stone, 56, president of the First National Bank of Colorado Springs, the FBI said.

Carver waived a preliminary hearing Saturday before U. S. Deputy Commissioner James C. Cates who set bond at $10,000. He was bound over for trial in federal district court at Denver.

The elaborate device to trap the extortionist was organized Friday after Stone had received the second of two letters demanding money.

The letter asked $30,000 and ordered Stone to drive along a 15-mile circuitous route in Colorado Springs and its environs and then throw the bundle of money out the window of his car at a designated spot.

Webb W. Burke, FBI special agent in charge at Denver, and Police Chief I. B. (Dad) Bruce of Colorado Springs organized the trap after enlisting the aid of the 44th Air Rescue Squadron at Lowry Air Force Base, Denver.

Stone's car was marked with luminous paint on its top surface so that the car would be visible from the air but not from anyone on the ground.

He followed the route while Maj. Marshall Frederickson, commanding officer of the squadron, and Colorado Springs Detective Capt. Homer Beattie observed progress of his car from an Air Force SA-16 amphibian search plane.

When the car reached the rendezvous and stopped the plane sent a radio message to agents and policemen on the ground.

However, no direct contact was made by the attempted extortionist Friday night, the FBI said. Carver was arrested after a check of license plates of automobiles in the area. Burke said the plates on Carver's car were observed twice, and the arrest followed.

Elopement Snags On Lost Address; Couple Jailed

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Jan. 7—UP —A young California couple, their elopement snagged by a forgotten address, languished in custody here Saturday awaiting arrival of the girl's parents and Navy authorities.

Jorgenson, 17, and Sandra Balch, 16, left their homes in Los Altus, Calif., Jan. 2 in the girl's father's 1951 automobile headed for Manchester, Pa., where Jorgenson has an aunt. The apprentice seaman was sure the aunt would cooperate with the marriage plans.

But during their long transcontinental ride the young seaman forgot the aunt's address, so he telegraphed his mother from here for instructions. The mother, instead, notified the Philadelphia Navy Yard, and officials there wired local police for help.

The young couple was arrested when they walked into a Western Union office to pick up the expected telegram from the youth's mother.

Swedish Member Of Commission In Korea Is Killed

MUNSAN, Korea, Sunday, Jan. 7 (AP) — A high-ranking Swedish member of the truce commission died Saturday after he "apparently slipped and fell beneath the wheels of a U.S. Army truck" in the demilitarized zone, the Allies announced.

Col. Nore Eriksson was pronounced dead about an hour after the accident near Panmunjom, said a statement from U.N. Military Armistice Commission headquarters.

Col. Eriksson was commander of the Panmunjom camp of the Swedish detachment of the four-nation Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission, charged with inspecting military movements in both North and South Korea.

Maj. Gen. L. O. M. Lunborg, chief Swedish delegate on the NNSC, said by telephone from Panmunjom that Eriksson was the first Swedish armistice inspector to die in Korea during the 2½-year truce, although others of his countrymen have died of illness contracted in Korea.

Crippled Plane Returns Safely To Hickam Field

HONOLULU, Jan. 7 —UP— A crippled C-124 Globemaster cargo plane with a crew of 10 aboard landed safely Saturday on Hickam Field after flying more than 5 1-2 hours over the Pacific on two engines, one of which had full power only part way.

Before the plane landed, however, the crew had to jettison a cargo of 25,000 pounds of aircraft maintenance equipment. The plane was escorted in to Hickam when two engines had to be feathered and a third engine threatened to fail.

When the pilot reported his difficulties, a spokesman for the Navy Research Rescue headquarters at Pearl Harbor reported the big four engined craft was flying "for all intents and purposes on one and a fraction engine."

Deputy Premier Of Ireland To Visit U. S. Cities

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 —UP — The State Department announced Saturday that Irish Deputy Prime Minister William Norton will visit 12 American cities in the next few weeks to promote Irish products and investments.

Between now and Feb. 2, Norton will visit New York, Washington, Wilmington, Del.; Albany, N. Y.; Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Sacramento. Los Angeles, Chicago, Detroit, Boston and Philadelphia.

Louisiana Mills Set Record For Grinding Of Cane

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 7—UP— Louisiana mills ground more sugar cane in 1955 than ever before, E.P. Barrios, agriculture agent, said Saturday.

He said that sucrose remained low during the harvest but increased yields more than offset the loss.

Barrios said that growers were able to harvest the 1955 crop with small loss due to ideal weather that prevailed during the harvesting. Most of the mills had completed grinding by Christmas.

As for the 1956 sugar cane crop Barrios said that the plant cane is up to fine stands and if there is a good growing season, good yields should result.

"It is too early to predict what the stubble crop will be but it is certain that only the best stubble cane will be kept for the 1956 crop," he said.

Barrios said the 1955 cotton crop was much better in northern Louisiana this year than last when that part of the state was in the grip of an extended drought.

However, in southwestern and central Louisiana, where excessive rain prevailed, yields were reduced to such an extent that many growers did not make any money from their cotton.

For this year, unless growers take every precaution, Barrios said low yields will result and many growers will find themselves in a bad way financially at the end of 1956.

In the sugar cane area, where rice follows stubble cane, Barrios said a considerable acreage of the stubble cane had been plowed under in preparation for rice planting. In southwestern Louisiana, a large acreage has been plowed and will be planted in early rice during the spring.

He said that low prices and adverse weather during the past few years probably will result in a smaller acreage of Irish potatoes being planted this year.

Favorable weather during late November and early December made it possible for growers to complete their sweet potato harvest before the cold weather damaged the late potatoes. Due to excessively dry weather, the potatoes did not come up to expected yields.

Barrios said that demand during December was brisk, making it possible for Louisiana growers and shippers to dispose of a considerable amount of sweet potatoes.

He said a good demand for shallots to take care of the Christmas trade kept shippers busy loading carlots during the second and third weeks of December. While the demand improved, prices remained low but growers were able to dispose of most of their old shallots.

Baton Rouge Has 20 '56 Burglaries On Unsolved List

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 7—UP—With 1956 only seven days old, Baton Rouge police already have about 20 unsolved burglaries on their records.

Lt. Jack Adams of the parish sheriff's force, said six separate break-ins were the most recent additions and netted the culprits $772.50.

Included among those unsolved cases is the burglary of the home of gubernatorial candidate Francis Grevemberg in which the house was thoroughly searched Wednesday night but only a $15 clock stolen.

Beating Victim Reported Critical

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 7—UP— The victim of a severe beating remained in critical condition Saturday as police investigated the baffling case of the man who was found near death at the rear of a cemetery here Friday night.

Police said the man, identified as Emory Brown Woolwine, 52, no known address, was beaten about the head and face with a three-foot iron bar found nearby.

Woolwine was found by a group of women on a sight-seeing tour through the historic Girod Street cemetery. No motive was advanced for the beating by officers as yet.

Prince Bernhard To Pay U. S. Visit

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands, Jan. 7—UP—Prince Bernhard, husband of Queen Juliana of The Netherlands, will go to the United States next week for a visit of two or three weeks, it was announced Saturday.

Following a visit to New York, the prince will go to Los Angeles where he will tour the Douglas and Lockheed aircraft factories. He will then stop in Texas and Washington before returning home.

Policeman Held In Armed Robbery

NEW YORK, Jan. 7—UP—A New York traffic cop who joined the force seven years ago after recovering from severe World War II wounds was arrested Saturday on charges of participating in the armed robbery of a men's clothing store.

Police said Joseph Brennan, 35, a Marine Corps veteran of Pacific campaigns, and two other men escaped with $360 after holding up a Lexington Avenue haberdashery shop.

Dixon-Yates

Special Counsel May Defend U. S. In Power Suit

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 — UP— Three Senate Democrats Saturday agreed to ask Congress to hire a special counsel to defend the government against the $3.5 million damage suit brought by the Dixon-Yates utility combine.

The Dixon-Yates group, which was to have built a controversial power plant at West Memphis, Ark., under a contract cancelled by President Eisenhower, has filed the suit in the U. S. Court of Claims.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D.-N. M.) announced that a resolution, requring the appointment of a special counsel will be filed "shortly." He previously had conferred with Sens. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.)

Anderson, who heads the congressional committee on atomic energy, said the three senators will act "as individual senators" in offering the resolution. Kefauver heads an Anti-Monopoly subcommittee which studied the Dixon-Yates contract and O'Mahoney is a member of the group.

The Anti-Monopoly subcommittee developed the issue which led to the government's refusal to pay cancellation costs under the contract. In the wake of the subcommittee's hearings the Atomic Energy Commission decided that a conflict of interest may have been involved in negotiation of the power agreement.

The subcommittee took testimony on the dual role of Adolphe H. Wendell, Budget Bureau consultant in conferences that led up to the contract, who also was a vice president in the First Boston Corp., which became the utility group's financial agent.

Solons Poll Leading U. S. Citizens For Opinions On Status Of Vice President

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 —UP— Congressional investigators have polled 60 of the nation's leading citizens, including former Presidents Hoover and Truman, in an effort to clear up a constitutional question brought into sharp focus by President Eisenhower's heart attack, it was learned Saturday.

The question is: What did the founding fathers mean when they provided in Article II of the Constitution that the vice president shall take over in case of the President's "inability to discharge executive powers?

The clause has never been invoked, although many historians believe it should have been when President Woodrow Wilson suffered a paralytic stroke that left him in invalid 17 months before his term expired.

Immediately after President Eisenhower's heart attack last Sept. 24, there was talk in political circles about the possibility of Vice President Richard M. Nixon assuming the chief executive's powers under the "inability" clause. But this was quickly squelched by a White House announcement that the President's regular "team" of advisers and Cabinet officers would carry on the government's business.

Mr. Eisenhower's subsequent rapid recovery has, of course, eliminated any consideration of applying the clause at present. But his illness nevertheless has underscored the necessity of defining the clause to avoid future constitutional crises.

The survey was the brainchild of Rep. Emanuel D. Celler (D-N. Y.), chairman of the House Judiciary committee. Celler hopes to make it public by the end of this month.

Questionnaires prepared by Celler's staff went out on Dec. 30 to a list of prominent citizens headed by former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Herbert C. Hoover. Others polled were former vice presidents John Nance Garner and Henry A. Wallace, all living former secretaries of state, and a cross-section of leading constitutional lawyers.

Spellman Leads Mass In Italy

The mass was attended by Adm. William B. Fechteler, commander of Allied forces in southern Europe as well as officers and personnel of the six NATO nations based in this port city.

Air Force Plane Traps Suspect In Attempt To Force $30,000 Payment

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. Jan. 7 —UP—A twin-engined Air Force plane trailed an intended extortion victim's car and sent a radio message that helped FBI agents and police in arresting a man who admitted the plot, federal authorities said Saturday.

The suspect, Norman Raymond Carver, 64, a former bowling alley operator now unemployed, signed a statement admitting the attempt to obtain $30,000 from H. Chase Stone, 56, president of the First National Bank of Colorado Springs, the FBI said.

Carver waived a preliminary hearing Saturday before U. S. Deputy Commissioner James C. Cates who set bond at $10,000. He was bound over for trial in federal district court at Denver.

The elaborate device to trap the extortionist was organized Friday after Stone had received the second of two letters demanding money.

The letter asked $30,000 and ordered Stone to drive along a 15-mile circuitous route in Colorado Springs and its environs and then throw the bundle of money out the window of his car at a designated spot.

Webb W. Burke, FBI special agent in charge at Denver, and Police Chief I. B. (Dad) Bruce of Colorado Springs organized the trap after enlisting the aid of the 44th Air Rescue Squadron at Lowry Air Force Base, Denver.

Stone's car was marked with luminous paint on its top surface so that the car would be visible from the air but not from anyone on the ground.

He followed the route while Maj. Marshall Frederickson, commanding officer of the squadron, and Colorado Springs Detective Capt. Homer Beattie observed progress of his car from an Air Force SA-16 amphibian search plane.

When the car reached the rendezvous and stopped the plane sent a radio message to agents and policemen on the ground.

However, no direct contact was made by the attempted extortionist Friday night, the FBI said. Carver was arrested after a check of license plates of automobiles in the area. Burke said the plates on Carver's car were observed twice, and the arrest followed.

Elopement Snags On Lost Address; Couple Jailed

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Jan. 7—UP —A young California couple, their elopement snagged by a forgotten address, languished in custody here Saturday awaiting arrival of the girl's parents and Navy authorities.

Jorgenson, 17, and Sandra Balch, 16, left their homes in Los Altus, Calif., Jan. 2 in the girl's father's 1951 automobile headed for Manchester, Pa., where Jorgenson has an aunt. The apprentice seaman was sure the aunt would cooperate with the marriage plans.

But during their long transcontinental ride the young seaman forgot the aunt's address, so he telegraphed his mother from here for instructions. The mother, instead, notified the Philadelphia Navy Yard, and officials there wired local police for help.

The young couple was arrested when they walked into a Western Union office to pick up the expected telegram from the youth's mother.

Swedish Member Of Commission In Korea Is Killed

MUNSAN, Korea, Sunday, Jan. 7 (AP) — A high-ranking Swedish member of the truce commission died Saturday after he "apparently slipped and fell beneath the wheels of a U.S. Army truck" in the demilitarized zone, the Allies announced.

Col. Nore Eriksson was pronounced dead about an hour after the accident near Panmunjom, said a statement from U.N. Military Armistice Commission headquarters.

Col. Eriksson was commander of the Panmunjom camp of the Swedish detachment of the four-nation Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission, charged with inspecting military movements in both North and South Korea.

Maj. Gen. L. O. M. Lunborg, chief Swedish delegate on the NNSC, said by telephone from Panmunjom that Eriksson was the first Swedish armistice inspector to die in Korea during the 2½-year truce, although others of his countrymen have died of illness contracted in Korea.

Crippled Plane Returns Safely To Hickam Field

HONOLULU, Jan. 7 —UP— A crippled C-124 Globemaster cargo plane with a crew of 10 aboard landed safely Saturday on Hickam Field after flying more than 5 1-2 hours over the Pacific on two engines, one of which had full power only part way.

Before the plane landed, however, the crew had to jettison a cargo of 25,000 pounds of aircraft maintenance equipment. The plane was escorted in to Hickam when two engines had to be feathered and a third engine threatened to fail.

When the pilot reported his difficulties, a spokesman for the Navy Research Rescue headquarters at Pearl Harbor reported the big four engined craft was flying "for all intents and purposes on one and a fraction engine."

Deputy Premier Of Ireland To Visit U. S. Cities

Between now and Feb. 2, Norton will visit New York, Washington, Wilmington, Del.; Albany, N. Y.; Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Sacramento, Los Angeles, Chicago, Detroit, Boston and Philadelphia.

Louisiana Mills Set Record For Grinding Of Cane

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 7—UP— Louisiana mills ground more sugar cane in 1955 than ever before, E.P. Barrios, agriculture agent, said Saturday.

He said that sucrose remained low during the harvest but increased yields more than offset the loss.

Barrios said that growers were able to harvest the 1955 crop with small loss due to ideal weather that prevailed during the harvesting. Most of the mills had completed grinding by Christmas.

As for the 1956 sugar cane crop Barrios said that the plant cane is up to fine stands and if there is a good growing season, good yields should result.

"It is too early to predict what the stubble crop will be but it is certain that only the best stubble cane will be kept for the 1956 crop," he said.

Barrios said the 1955 cotton crop was much better in northern Louisiana this year than last when that part of the state was in the grip of an extended drought.

However, in southwestern and central Louisiana, where excessive rain prevailed, yields were reduced to such an extent that many growers did not make any money from their cotton.

For this year, unless growers take every precaution, Barrios said low yields will result and many growers will find themselves in a bad way financially at the end of 1956.

In the sugar cane area, where rice follows stubble cane, Barrios said a considerable acreage of the stubble cane had been plowed under in preparation for rice planting. In southwestern Louisiana, a large acreage has been plowed and will be planted in early rice during the spring.

He said that low prices and adverse weather during the past few years probably will result in a smaller acreage of Irish potatoes being planted this year.

Favorable weather during late November and early December made it possible for growers to complete their sweet potato harvest before the cold weather damaged the late potatoes. Due to excessively dry weather, the potatoes did not come up to expected yields.

Barrios said that demand during December was brisk, making it possible for Louisiana growers and shippers to dispose of a considerable amount of sweet potatoes.

He said a good demand for shallots to take care of the Christmas trade kept shippers busy loading carlots during the second and third weeks of December. While the demand improved, prices remained low but growers were able to dispose of most of their old shallots.

Baton Rouge Has 20 '56 Burglaries On Unsolved List

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 7—UP—With 1956 only seven days old, Baton Rouge police already have about 20 unsolved burglaries on their records.

Lt. Jack Adams of the parish sheriff's force, said six separate break-ins were the most recent additions and netted the culprits $772.50.

Included among those unsolved cases is the burglary of the home of gubernatorial candidate Francis Grevemberg in which the house was thoroughly searched Wednesday night but only a $15 clock stolen.

Beating Victim Reported Critical

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 7—UP— The victim of a severe beating remained in critical condition Saturday as police investigated the baffling case of the man who was found near death at the rear of a cemetery here Friday night.

Police said the man, identified as Emory Brown Woolwine, 53, no known address, was beaten about the head and face with a three-foot iron bar found nearby.

Woolwine was found by a group of women on a sight-seeing tour through the historic Girod Street cemetery. No motive was advanced for the beating by officers as yet.

Prince Bernhard To Pay U. S. Visit

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands, Jan. 7—UP—Prince Bernhard, husband of Queen Juliana of The Netherlands, will go to the United States next week for a visit of two or three weeks, it was announced Saturday.

Following a visit to New York, the prince will go to Los Angeles where he will tour the Douglas and Lockheed aircraft factories. He will then stop in Texas and Washington before returning home.

Policeman Held In Armed Robbery

NEW YORK, Jan. 7—UP—A New York traffic cop who joined the force seven years ago after recovering from severe World War II wounds was arrested Saturday on charges of participating in the armed robbery of a men's clothing store.

Police said Joseph Brennan, 35, a Marine Corps veteran of Pacific campaigns, and two other men escaped with $360 after holding up a Lexington Avenue haberdashery shop.

Dixon-Yates

Special Counsel May Defend U. S. In Power Suit

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 — UP— Three Senate Democrats Saturday agreed to ask Congress to hire a special counsel to defend the government against the $3.5 million damage suit brought by the Dixon-Yates utility combine.

The Dixon-Yates group, which was to have built a controversial power plant at West Memphis, Ark., under a contract cancelled by President Eisenhower, has filed the suit in the U. S. Court of Claims.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D.-N. M.) announced that a resolution, requring the appointment of a special counsel will be filed "shortly." He previously had conferred with Sens. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.)

Anderson, who heads the congressional committee on atomic energy, said the three senators will act "as individual senators" in offering the resolution. Kefauver heads an Anti-Monopoly subcommittee which studied the Dixon-Yates contract and O'Mahoney is a member of the group.

The Anti-Monopoly subcommittee developed the issue which led to the government's refusal to pay cancellation costs under the contract. In the wake of the subcommittee's hearings the Atomic Energy Commission decided that a conflict of interest may have been involved in negotiation of the power agreement.

The subcommittee took testimony on the dual role of Adolphe H. Wendell, Budget Bureau consultant in conferences that led up to the contract, who also was a vice president in the First Boston Corp., which became the utility group's financial agent.

Starvation On Louisiana Farms

Many thousands of tenant farmers and sharecroppers in north and central Louisiana are hungry and without means to buy food, according to surveys made by state officials.

The entire state has been designated a disaster area.

The total of rural dwellers facing want and hunger in Louisiana apparently runs into the hundreds of thousands.

The St. Landry parish police jury is seeking government surplus food for 40,000 persons in 7,000 families. That is in only one parish.

"The first trainload of a 37-car order of surplus food valued at more than $1 million" will arrive in Baton Rouge within 10 days for distribution to about 40,000 poverty-stricken sharecroppers and tenant farmers, according to a press dispatch from the state capitol.

Dave Pearce, commissioner of agriculture, was quoted as saying that food distribution centers will be established in Monroe, Shreveport, Natchitoches and Winnsboro within ten days.

The food will be furnished free of charge by the United States Department of Agriculture, from its mountainous surpluses, and distributed at state and parish expense.

Similar food distribution centers undoubtedly will be set up soon in many other parishes.

Edward P. Dameron, public welfare commissioner, estimated that less than one per cent of those who are in acute distress on the farms are recipients of public welfare relief.

They are tenants and sharecroppers caught in a vicious squeeze that is starving them to death—proud, self reliant—helpless and hungry.

Here at the end of the most "prosperous year" in American history from the mass statistical standpoint, we find tenants and sharecroppers by many thousands starving to death.

The plight of these thrifty yoemen who hate doles and relief is tragic. It is not confined to Louisiana, but extends throughout the South, and into other agricultural regions.

It culminates 25 years of blundering, launched in the inception of Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal, to control farm economy and bring it under the dominance of the federal government.

It illustrates vividly the deadly danger incurred when the American State Department seized control of American farm economy, from an export and worldwide standpoint, and began its program of whittling down the American farmer and destroying his export market—a program pursued relentlessly to this day.

Louisiana farmers depend primarily upon cotton as a basic cash crop. Their cotton acreage has been shaved year after year, while the State Department has subsidized vast foreign competition to American cotton, all around the world, using our tax dollars to do the job—in seeding, and growing, and irrigation, and the building of warehouses and compresses, and docks and wharves; in the supplying of skilled soil experts and technicians of every stripe and hue.

Louisiana is an important rice producing state, yet its rice growing potential has been whittled down mercilessly in favor of foreign competitors, under the impetus of the State Department.

And Louisiana grows sugar as an important ingredient of its economy, yet the State Department has worked ceaselessly to subsidize foreign sugar production at the expense of that in America; and a new slap in the face was administered to Louisiana sugar growers a few days ago.

The chickens come home to roost; and the manifold blunders of the American government in dealing with farm economy—the net effect of which is a slow liquidation in favor of foreign competitors—the almost complete destruction of an export market in wide categories such as cotton —make themselves felt in want and misery and starvation on the farms.

The State Department is only one culprit. A supine Congress, bent on wasting like a prodigal son the American heritage, has ladeled out many billions of hard - earned American tax dollars to foreign governments, and vast funds supplied by our taxpayers have been used in fifty different categories to bolster foreign farm economy at the expense of the American farmer. In most instances, Congress never even received an accounting of where this profligate outpouring of our money went.

Do we wonder that Louisiana small farmers by many thousands are destitute and hungry, while our tax funds are poured in a never-ending stream into the competitive farm potential of countries such as Egypt, Israeli, India, Afghanistan and the Assyrian deserts?

To The Arctic

Missing from the news columns for weeks have been predictions — formerly so numerous—that this skyscraper civilization is about to be crushed by a southward turning of the polar ice cap. There was nothing wrong with this sort of crystal ball gazing, apparently, except that nature did not cooperate.

But the great minds of science propound an exactly opposite theory, and is that good? This home of the free, they say, may some day beat Gehenna in heat radiation, while everything north of Baffinland may come to rival the Garden of Eden. Apparently an air conditioner sticking out of every window will be of little avail.

To add plausibility to the prediction of hotter days to come are this summer's temperatures in many areas of the nation, and borings into the ages-old Greenland ice crust. The cores prove the glaciers are becoming anemic and the Arctic winter a has-been. Without benefit of automatic heat or other artificial aid, the pole is "entering a warm cycle."

In a way, this is not an unpleasant prospect. Northward there lies space unlimited, thus far unspoiled by man. Muskegs could become meadows where little lambs might gambol. There is a possibility that, given the right degree of climatic change, the once bleak tundra might present no real problem to the greenskeeper.

A few more summers like the current one in the East and the Southwest might see the populace gathering like lemmings and heading for the new northern paradise.

Public Forum

Christmas Eve Incident

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I would like to take this means of expressing my thanks to the Monroe police department, state police and Lincoln parish officers for the speedy return of my automobile which was stolen Christmas Eve night loaded with Santa Claus toys for my six and seven-year-old children.

The police were notified at 12:00 p.m. and at 1:00 a.m. the car was stopped in Ruston and my peace of mind was restored.

Thanks also to Howard Griffin for opening at 1:00 a.m. Christmas morning to replace toys, had they been destroyed.

REAGAN TARRANCE.

A Fifth Reason

Bastrop, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I have just now finished reading the New Year edition of the Morning World. As usual I first glance over the front page headlines, and next I read the Forum letters, because I am anxious to hear from my neighbors. The editorials are excellent, and thanks to Mr. T. A. Hilton, for his fine letter giving four reasons why troops will not be sent south. This letter broaches a subject that I have been studying for some time, and I wish to add a fifth reason.

Mississippi is populated with as fine people as there are in the world. They have their ritual of traditions, rules, and religion, just like all other good people. They are reasonably dignified, patriotic, honest, and a "God fearing" people. They will meet you half way on any proposition that will contribute to dignity or integrity but for goodness sakes don't stir them up; you may as well upset a hornet's nest. I was raised in Mississippi, I know those people.

Mississippi with all of its resources, is owned by white people who pioneered and built the state and have made it what it is. The white people in Mississippi, like white people everywhere else, have had to shelter, feed, clothe, and educate the resourceless Negroes and whites for the past four hundred years. Now, if this resourceless group, and that scallawag triumvirate in Washington, gets too smart, the owners of the country may sever economic relations with this smart aleck group, and in less than no time, there will be more people hungry than you can shake a stick at.

Now just a word about the Jezebel Congresswoman that blew into Mississippi, and said "A crisis is brewing in the south; I better go north, lest I get caught in a storm". Well, there would not be any likelihood of a crisis anywhere, if those jennets and jack-asses of her type, would stay at home, and attend to their own business, and stop "Fomenting" trouble.

B. W. MORGAN.

A "Modern Miracle"

New York, N. Y.

Editor, Morning World:

Through our press clipping service, your editorial of November 30th concerning the new Angola Penitentiary has come to my attention. May I take this opportunity to compliment you on its excellency and to extend the appreciation of this association for your editorial support of the Angola program.

Speaking as an individual, I have more than 42 years experience in the correctional field, and without hesitation am frank to state that the tremendous improvement in the Louisiana correctional system marks it as the "modern miracle of penology."

I have had opportunity of knowing many administrators of Louisiana institutions over the years, and it was not until Governor Kennon brought in such persons as Dr. Grant and his associate Reed Cozart and Warden Sigler that the infamous system of the past was transformed to the present outstanding facilities and program.

May I, on behalf of this association, urge your newspaper to exert every possible effort to assure the continuance of the present system to the extent that succeeding administration maintain and add to the remarkable progress made thus far. It would be disastrous indeed if the people of Louisiana were to permit a return to the dark days of the past.

Louisiana has every right to be proud of her accomplishments thus far, and I make this statement in full recognition of progress in other states, both North and South. It is only through the dynamic leadership of the press that this picture can be kept before the people, and a good share of the credit for the progress in Louisiana may be credited to the determination of the press to bring order out of chaos.

With renewed expressions of our appreciation and assurances of our support, I am,

E. R. CASS.

General Secretary, The American Correctional Association.

IN WASHINGTON

GOP Worried Over Candidates

The presidential year is upon us and with it the desirability of a realistic view of the running, shooting, whooping campaign which started with the opening of Congress.

Political veterans returning to Washington see two outstanding factors of major importance (1) a growing likelihood that President Eisenhower will not be a candidate (2) an increasing lead for Adlai E. Stevenson as the Democratic nominee.

A majority of them agree that it now appears that if the President runs he will probably be re-elected, even though he confires himself to television, that modern successor to the old "front porch" campaign - speeches. There is the possibility, they concede, that a great number of voters might regard an Eisenhower "front porch" campaign as a "sick room" campaign and in the end skepticism about his physical ability for another arduous four years in the White House might bring about his rejection at the polls. Then there are some Democrats who believe that if they win only two of four pivotal States — and they insist they have an even chance in all four — they will win, whether or not Eisenhower is the candidate.

An overwhelming preference for Stevenson by local and state Democratic leaders the country over supports the likelihood of his nomination, possibly on the first ballot. That depends on whether the South decides to back a favorite son on the early ballots.

While early polls are by no means conclusive, the fact that they have shown Stevenson preferred over Vice President Richard M. Nixon for President has concerned Republican leaders who have been convinced that Nixon can be built up to run on the record of the Eisenhower administration, in the event the President declines.

The harsh truth is that Republicans, returning from all over the U. S. for this final session of the 84th Congress, are privately discouraged over the crop of candidates now suggested as possible GOP candidates for President.

Including none more than 60 years old, these are, besides Nixon:

Senator William F. Knowland of California, young and vigorous Republican leader of the Senate, 47 years of age, who has learned his GOP politics at the feet of conservative Republicans could not inherit the Eisenhower mantle.

Governor Goodwin J. Knight of California, aged 59, who gave a sample of his political sagacity by delivering a ten minute stump speech before the East-West Shriners' charity football game at San Francisco 31 knowing that he had a nationwide audience. He was booed for holding up the game.

Governor Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts, aged 60, who resembles Stevenson in his manner and his background of wealth and breeding. Some commentators have said that if they were the nominees, you could scarcely tell who was running on which platform. The "Christian A. Herter for President in Case Eisenhower Doesn't Run Again Club" explains that for years he has been bothered by arthritis, but "his doctors assure him it is a non-progressive type and should be no handicap to his holding any office."

He was born in France, but courts would probably rule that did not bar him under the constitutional provision limiting the presidency to "natural born" citizens of the United States.

Former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota aged 48, who will re-establish his residence in that state after a long absence in Pennsylvania. He is locally referred to as the "disarmament" candidate, an issue not calculated to have predominant weight in the campaign. Like all perennial candidates his strength continues to diminish.

Twice beaten former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, who despite his upset by President Truman in 1948, probably could take over the Eisenhower mantle as capably as any of the Republican possibilities.

But the hope that President Eisenhower will run is now so widespread among the Republicans that his withdrawal would leave the party in a state of shock. Only once before in modern history has a President to whose re-election his party confidently looked forward stepped out. This was Calvin Coolidge.

But at the time the party the Republican party had many candidatorial possibilities with nationwide following, headed by Herbert Hoover and Charles Gates Dawes. A few of his intimates thought that his fear of a heart condition was the decisive factor in his decision. He did not live through the term to which he would undoubtedly have been elected had he desired to run. He died of a coronary thrombosis on January 5, 1933.

'CAN'T YOU SAY 'NO' FOR A CHANGE?'

News

By Paul Harvey

The Tender Rattletrap

Once upon a time, on the banks of the Mississippi in the city of St. Louis, Mo., a brash young newsman asked a pretty young school - teacher, "Do you have a car?"

Hesitantly she admitted she had.

"Then if you'll take me to the airport," he said, "I'll take you to dinner."

It was a beautiful car. An ivory coupe. Not cream colored. Sparkling ivory to match her Dresden complexion. She had insisted the garage man wash it with soap flakes. She provided the box to be sure he did. It was a lovely car.

Before they got to the airport to pick up his flying gear, his interest was diverted . . .

He says to her.

She says to the car.

But, as I remember, we never did get to the airport.

The ivory coupe was with us on many warm afternoons and romantic, moonlit nights and was waiting for us in Los Angeles when we returned from a Honolulu honeymoon to live happily ever after.

Into Montana, many miles and a repaint job later, the "car nicknamed Theophilus" carried the fledgling newshawk and his bride in quest of forest fires.

Theophilus was more than transportation then. Her snug sanctuary was a place apart . . . where newlyweds might isolate themselves and talk out the multitudinous compromises of those first mating years. And a place to make plans.

But one day the old car, her second coat of paint thinning now, carried us to the train station during one of those wars back there . . . and watched us part.

Theophilus was waiting when the train came back. And she wore a third coat of paint and many patches that day . . . when the over - age coupe . . . raced the stork down Chicago's Lake Shore Drive.

And won.

There was a car - crib on the seat between us when, one rainy day, those present and eligible to vote decreed that it was time for the old car to be turned out to pasture.

Floods Build Support For U. S. Insurance

WASHINGTON — Raging West Coast area flood waters, though washing away most everything else, have built up votes for federal disaster insurance.

Many California, Oregon, and Nevada lawmakers will chime in with East Coast counterparts who have been clamoring for disaster insurance since last August when floods smashed New England.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland, for one, told Congressional Quarterly: "The California floods certainly have pointed up the need for some kind of insurance protection; not just against floods but for earthquakes and other disasters." He predicted disaster insurance would get special attention from Congress in 1956, said he might submit a bill for it himself.

On the other coast, Sen. Herbert H. Lehman (D - N. Y.) said: "I hope we need no further tragedies in any other part of the country to demonstrate the urgent need for prompt and expeditious action on a federal disaster insurance program."

For reinforcements, the two-front assault on the disaster insurance problem has President Eisenhower and Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D Texas). Mr. Eisenhower Oct. 18 promised New England governors he would submit a disaster insurance plan to Congress in 1956 and Johnson put it on his 1956 legislative "must list."

Statistics, too, constitute powerful ammunition. The United States Weather Bureau expects the West Coast floods to push the flood damage toll well over the billion dollar mark for 1955. Only once — in 1951 — has recorded damage topped that amount.

Actuarial Arguments

Arguments for making Uncle Sam a disaster insurance agent can be — and have been — pitched in cold actuarial terms or political speeches. But the argument likely to succeed in the 1956 election year is the humanitarian one: private companies cannot afford to insure persons against disaster so the U. S. must.

Currently, the U. S. spends thousands of dollars in direct grants to states in repairing washed - out areas through such units as the Army Corps of Engineers, and in loans to help rebuild homes and factories. But there is no way for disaster victims, who often owe mortgage money on ruined buildings, to recoup their losses.

There are dozens of bills already drafted or in the works to help those disaster victims. The final measure, probably a compromise thrashed out in House and Senate committees, will have to answer these sticklers: What disasters should be covered? Should the U. S. write the insurance itself or encourage private companies to do so by agreeing to subsidize them for losses? Should insurance on a house along the Mississippi cost more than for a home atop a mountain? Should war damage be covered? Should the insurance be compulsory?

Four bills giving different answers will be introduced by Lehman, Sens. John F. Kennedy (D Mass.), Leverett Saltonstall (R Mass.), Frank Carlson (R Kan.), and Prescott Bush (R Conn.).

The Lehman bill would cover practically every type of disaster, including war; the Kennedy - Saltonstall joint measure would cover only floods and charge uniform premiums, regardless of risk; the Carlson bill would limit the government's role to subsidizing private companies which would write insurance against floods, tidal waves, earthquakes, and hurricanes; and the Bush bill, drafted by the Senate Banking and Currency Committee staff at his request, would be almost as broad in coverage as the Lehman proposal but also would pay one - half the losses suffered by flood victims in fiscal 1956.

None of the authors of the disaster insurance bills expects the government to make the program pay like G. I. Insurance does. But the economies will not cool their ardor. They and other lawmakers from disaster prone states want to tell their constituents that nature's worst blows cannot wipe them out.

Starvation On Louisiana Farms

Many thousands of tenant farmers and sharecroppers in north and central Louisiana are hungry and without means to buy food, according to surveys made by state officials.

The entire state has been designated a disaster area.

The total of rural dwellers facing want and hunger in Louisiana apparently runs into the hundreds of thousands.

The St. Landry parish police jury is seeking government surplus food for 40,000 persons in 7,000 families. That is in only one parish.

"The first trainload of a 37-car order of surplus food valued at more than $1 million" will arrive in Baton Rouge within 10 days for distribution to about 40,000 poverty-stricken sharecroppers and tenant farmers, according to a press dispatch from the state capitol.

Dave Pearce, commissioner of agriculture, was quoted as saying that food distribution centers will be established in Monroe, Shreveport, Natchitoches and Winnsboro within ten days.

The food will be furnished free of charge by the United States Department of Agriculture, from its mountainous surpluses, and distributed at state and parish expense.

Similar food distribution centers undoubtedly will be set up soon in many other parishes.

Edward P. Dameron, public welfare commissioner, estimated that less than one per cent of those who are in acute distress on the farms are recipients of public welfare relief.

They are tenants and sharecroppers caught in a vicious squeeze that is starving them to death—proud, self reliant—helpless and hungry.

Here at the end of the most "prosperous year" in American history from the mass statistical standpoint, we find tenants and sharecroppers by many thousands starving to death.

The plight of these thrifty yoemen who hate doles and relief is tragic. It is not confined to Louisiana, but extends throughout the South, and into other agricultural regions.

It culminates 25 years of blundering, launched in the inception of Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal, to control farm economy and bring it under the dominance of the federal government.

It illustrates vividly the deadly danger incurred when the American State Department seized control of American farm economy, from an export and worldwide standpoint, and began its program of whittling down the American farmer and destroying his export market—a program pursued relentlessly to this day.

Louisiana farmers depend primarily upon cotton as a basic cash crop. Their cotton acreage has been shaved year after year, while the State Department has subsidized vast foreign competition to American cotton, all around the world, using our tax dollars to do the job—in seeding, and growing, and irrigation, and the building of warehouses and compresses, and docks and wharves; in the supplying of skilled soil experts and technicians of every stripe and hue.

Louisiana is an important rice producing state, yet its rice growing potential has been whittled down mercilessly in favor of foreign competitors, under the impetus of the State Department.

And Louisiana grows sugar as an important ingredient of its economy, yet the State Department has worked ceaselessly to subsidize foreign sugar production at the expense of that in America; and a new slap in the face was administered to Louisiana sugar growers a few days ago.

The chickens come home to roost; and the manifold blunders of the American government in dealing with farm economy—the net effect of which is a slow liquidation in favor of foreign competitors—the almost complete destruction of an export market in wide categories such as cotton — make themselves felt in want and misery and starvation on the farms.

The State Department is only one culprit. A supine Congress, bent on wasting like a prodigal son the American heritage, has ladeled out many billions of hard - earned American tax dollars to foreign governments, and vast funds supplied by our taxpayers have been used in fifty different categories to bolster foreign farm economy at the expense of the American farmer. In most instances, Congress never even received an accounting of where this profligate outpouring of our money went.

Do we wonder that Louisiana small farmers by many thousands are destitute and hungry, while our tax funds are poured in a never-ending stream into the competitive farm potential of countries such as Egypt, Israeli, India, Afghanistan and the Assyrian deserts?

To The Arctic

Missing from the news columns for weeks have been predictions — formerly so numerous—that this skyscraper civilization is about to be crushed by a southward turning of the polar ice cap. There was nothing wrong with this sort of crystal ball gazing, apparently, except that nature did not cooperate.

But the great minds of science propound an exactly opposite theory, and is that good? This home of the free, they say, may some day beat Gehenna in heat radiation, while everything north of Baffinland may come to rival the Garden of Eden. Apparently an air conditioner sticking out of every window will be of little avail.

To add plausibility to the prediction of hotter days to come are this summer's temperatures in many areas of the nation, and borings into the ages-old Greenland ice crust. The cores prove the glaciers are becoming anemic and the Arctic winter a has-been. Without benefit of automatic heat or other artificial aid, the pole is "entering a warm cycle."

In a way, this is not an unpleasant prospect. Northward there lies space unlimited, thus far unspoiled by man. Muskegs could become meadows where little lambs might gambol. There is a possibility that, given the right degree of climatic change, the once bleak tundra might present no real problem to the greenskeeper.

A few more summers like the current one in the East and the Southwest might see the populace gathering like lemmings and heading for the new northern paradise.

Christmas Eve Incident

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I would like to take this means of expressing my thanks to the Monroe police department, state police and Lincoln parish officers for the speedy return of my automobile which was stolen Christmas Eve night loaded with Santa Claus toys for my six and seven-year-old children.

The police were notified at 12:00 p.m. and at 1:00 a.m. the car was stopped in Ruston and my peace of mind was restored.

Thanks also to Howard Griffin for opening at 1:00 a.m. Christmas morning to replace toys, had they been destroyed.

A Fifth Reason

Bastrop, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I have just now finished reading the New Year edition of the Morning World. As usual I first glance over the front page headlines, and next I read the Forum letters, because I am anxious to hear from my neighbors. The editorials are excellent, and thanks to Mr. T. A. Hilton, for his fine letter giving four reasons why troops will not be sent south. This letter broaches a subject that I have been studying for some time, and I wish to add a fifth reason.

Mississippi is populated with as fine people as there are in the world. They have their ritual of traditions, rules, and religion, just like all other good people. They are reasonably dignified, patriotic, honest, and a "God fearing" people. They will meet you half way on any proposition that will contribute to dignity or integrity but for goodness sakes don't stir them up; you may as well upset a hornet's nest. I was raised in Mississippi. I know those people.

Mississippi with all of its resources, is owned by white people who pioneered and built the state and have made it what it is. The white people in Mississippi, like white people everywhere else, have had to shelter, feed, clothe, and educate the resourceless Negroes and whites for the past four hundred years. Now, if this resourceless group, and that scallawag triumvirate in Washington, gets too smart, the owners of the country may sever economic relations with this smart aleck group, and in less than no time, there will be more people hungry than you can shake a stick at.

Now just a word about the Jezebel Congresswoman that blew into Mississippi, and said "A crisis is brewing in the south; I better go north, lest I get caught in a storm", Well, there would not be any likelihood of a crisis anywhere, if those jennets and jack-asses of her type, would stay at home, and attend to their own business, and stop "Fomenting" trouble.

A "Modern Miracle"

New York, N. Y.

Editor, Morning World:

Through our press clipping service, your editorial of November 30th concerning the new Angola Penitentiary has come to my attention. May I take this opportunity to compliment you on its excellency and to extend the appreciation of this association for your editorial support of the Angola program.

Speaking as an individual, I have more than 42 years experience in the correctional field, and without hesitation am frank to state that the tremendous improvement in the Louisiana correctional system marks it as the "modern miracle of penology."

I have had opportunity of knowing many administrators of Louisiana institutions over the years, and it was not until Governor Kennon brought in such persons as Dr. Grant and his associate Reed Cozart and Warden Sigler that the infamous system of the past was transformed to the present outstanding facilities and program.

May I, on behalf of this association, urge your newspaper to exert every possible effort to assure the continuance of the present system to the extent that succeeding administration maintain and add to the remarkable progress made thus far. It would be disastrous indeed if the people of Louisiana were to permit a return to the dark days of the past.

Louisiana has every right to be proud of her accomplishments thus far, and I make this statement in full recognition of progress in other states, both North and South. It is only through the dynamic leadership of the press that this picture can be kept before the people, and a good share of the credit for the progress in Louisiana may be credited to the determination of the press to bring order out of chaos.

With renewed expressions of our appreciation and assurances of our support, I am,

E. R. CASS.

General Secretary, The American Correctional Association.

GOP Worried Over Candidates

The presidential year is upon us and with it the desirability of a realistic view of the running, shooting, whooping campaign which started with the opening of Congress.

Political veterans returning to Washington see two outstanding factors of major importance (1) a growing likelihood that President Eisenhower will not be a candidate (2) an increasing lead for Adlai E. Stevenson as the Democratic nominee.

A majority of them agree that it now appears that if the President runs he will probably be re-elected, even though he confires himself to television, that modern successor to the old "front porch" campaign - speeches. There is the possibility, they concede, that a great number of voters might regard an Eisenhower "front porch" campaign as a "sick room" campaign and in the end skepticism about his physical ability for another arduous four years in the White House might bring about his rejection at the polls. Then there are some Democrats who believe that if they win only two of four pivotal States — and they insist they have an even chance in all four — they will win, whether or not Eisenhower is the candidate.

An overwhelming preference for Stevenson by local and state Democratic leaders the country over supports the likelihood of his nomination, possibly on the first ballot. That depends on whether the South decides to back a favorite son on the early ballots.

While early polls are by no means conclusive, the fact that they have shown Stevenson preferred over Vice President Richard M. Nixon for President has concerned Republican leaders who have been convinced that Nixon can be built up to run on the record of the Eisenhower administration, in the event the President declines.

The harsh truth is that Republicans, returning from all over the U. S. for this final session of the 84th Congress, are privately discouraged over the crop of candidates now suggested as possible GOP candidates for President.

Including none more than 60 years old, these are, besides Nixon:

Senator William F. Knowland of California, young and vigorous Republican leader of the Senate, 47 years of age, who has learned his GOP politics at the feet of conservative Republicans could not inherit the Eisenhower mantle.

Governor Goodwin J. Knight of California, aged 59, who gave a sample of his political sagacity by delivering a ten minute stump speech before the East-West Shriners' charity football game at San Francisco 31 knowing that he had a nationwide audience. He was booed for holding up the game.

Governor Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts, aged 60, who resembles Stevenson in his manner and his background of wealth and breeding. Some commentators have said that if they were the nominees, you could scarcely tell who was running on which platform. The "Christian A. Herter for President in Case Eisenhower Doesn't Run Again Club" explains that for years he has been bothered by arthritis, but "his doctors assure him it is a non-progressive type and should be no handicap to his holding any office."

He was born in France, but courts would probably rule that did not bar him under the constitutional provision limiting the presidency to "natural born" citizens of the United States.

Former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota aged 48, who will reestablish his residence in that state after a long absence in Pennsylvania. He is locally referred to as the "disarmament" candidate, an issue not calculated to have predominant weight in the campaign. Like all perennial candidates his strength continues to diminish.

Twice beaten former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, who despite his upset by President Truman in 1948, probably could take over the Eisenhower mantle as capably as any of the Republican possibilities.

But the hope that President Eisenhower will run is now so widespread among the Republicans that his withdrawal would leave the party in a state of shock. Only once before in modern history has a President to whose re-election his party confidently looked forward stepped out. This was Calvin Coolidge.

But at the time the party the Republican party had many candidatorial possibilities with nationwide following, headed by Herbert Hoover and Charles Gates Dawes. A few of his intimates thought that his fear of a heart condition was the decisive factor in his decision. He did not live through the term to which he would undoubtedly have been elected had he desired to run. He died of a coronary thrombosis on January 5, 1933.

The Tender Rattletrap

Once upon a time, on the banks of the Mississippi in the city of St. Louis, Mo., a brash young newsman asked a pretty young school - teacher, "Do you have a car?"

Hesitantly she admitted she had.

"Then if you'll take me to the airport," he said, "I'll take you to dinner."

It was a beautiful car. An ivory coupe. Not cream colored. Sparkling ivory to match her Dresden complexion. She had insisted the garage man wash it with soap flakes. She provided the box to be sure he did. It was a lovely car.

Before they got to the airport to pick up his flying gear, his interest was diverted . . .

He says to her.

She says to the car.

But, as I remember, we never did get to the airport.

The ivory coupe was with us on many warm afternoons and romantic, moonlit nights and was waiting for us in Los Angeles when we returned from a Honolulu honeymoon to live happily ever after.

Into Montana, many miles and a repaint job later, the "car nicknamed Theophilus" carried the fledgling newshawk and his bride in quest of forest fires.

Theophilus was more than transportation then. Her snug sanctuary was a place apart . . . where newlyweds might isolate themselves and talk out the multitudinous compromises of those first mating years. And a place to make plans.

But one day the old car, her second coat of paint thinning now, carried us to the train station during one of those wars back there . . . and watched us part.

Theophilus was waiting when the train came back. And she wore a third coat of paint and many patches that day . . . when the over - age coupe . . . raced the stork down Chicago's Lake Shore Drive.

And won.

There was a car - crib on the seat between us when, one rainy day, those present and eligible to vote decreed that it was time for the old car to be turned out to pasture.

Replaced by a shiny new 1950 model, the once blonde beauty mustered her last strength to wheeze and gasp and cough her way from Chicago to Reveille Ranch in the Missouri Ozarks.

Voters, Consumers Both Heavily Courted In Week

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)— Voters and consumers had much in common this week. Both were being assiduously courted.

The intermingling of government and business, of politics and economics, was dramatically apparent at several points.

The state of the nation's economic health began to unfold as the key political issue of 1956 almost from the moment the new session of Congress was called to order. As a starter, senators debated the pros and cons of channeling government relief funds into scattered areas pinched by unemployment.

Prosperity was the dominant theme of President Eisenhower's State of the Union message. Businessman interpreted his message this way: The government won't hesitate to spend freely on public works, "pump priming" and the like—or to cut taxes—if the boom shows signs of going bust. But as long as the boom and the national debt ride high, the administration will try to leave taxes pretty much where they are.

While the absence of any clear-cut promise to trim taxes was disappointing to some, many businessmen professed to see strong voter appeal in the President's call for a big program of federal spending. It would provide federal funds in generous amounts for new highways, new schools, military and civilian defense, foreign aid, and help of various kinds to the farmer.

With public officials of all shades wooing the voter, businessmen were making an equally ambitious effort to win the consumer's heart. All signs indicated that competition for the consumer's dollar would be hotter than ever.

"Sticky" sales of 1956 model automobiles, coupled with a record high in dealers' start-of-the-year inventories, were expected to touch off a new round of razzle-dazzle selling with liberal concessions to the willing buyer.

There were other indications, too, that despite promised price increases in some consumer lines a buyers' market would continue to prevail in '56.

Philip M. Talbott, president of the National Retail Dry Goods Assn., said intense competition among retailers this year should "soften any normal tendency" on the part of merchants to boost prices.

Cotton Futures Move Widely In Strong Finish

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—Cotton futures prices moved over a comparatively wide range this week and finished strong. Futures contracts traded on the New York Cotton Exchange closed at prices which ranged from 15 cents to $3.10 a bale higher than the week before, with the new crop months the biggest gainers.

The nearer months got off to a fast start on price fixing while the distant deliveries were under pressure of light hedge selling and scattered liquidation, but the pattern soon changed. Profit-taking whittled down the earlier advances in the nearby months, while the distant contracts moved up sharply. Biggest factor in the new crop advance was President Eisenhower's State of the Union message which was interpreted by traders as setting the stage for large-scale government aid to farmers.

A sharp decline in volume of cotton entering the government loan was reported by the Commodity Credit Corporation for the week ended Dec. 30. Loan entries were placed at only 278,000 bales, as against 407,000 the week before. Traders said the Christmas holiday accounted for only part of the decline.

The New York Cotton Exchange service bureau pointed out that loan entries for the Dec. 30 week averaged only 69,000 bales a day, against a daily average of 81,000 the previous week, 94,000 two weeks ago, and 101,000 three weeks earlier.

After allowing for rejections, net entries for the season through Dec. 30 came to approximately 5,516,000 bales, of which 84,000 were repossessed, leaving a net stock of 5,432,000, it was noted. The exchange said present indications are that entries for the full season will range between 6½ million and slightly more than 7 million bales.

Exports for the week ended Tuesday amounted to only 50,000 bales, according to an estimate by the New York Cotton Exchange service bureau. This compared with 35,000 a week ago and 89,000 in the like week a year ago.

The total for the season through Tuesday was placed at 720,000 bales vs. 1,657,000 at approximately the same time last season.

Compared with pre-war figures, the number of passengers carried on British Railways annually has risen 32 per cent and the ton miles of freight 40 per cent, while the total of passengers transported is over one billion.

The Monroe and West Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce announced Saturday the opening of its annual "Distinguished Service Award" nominations for the "Young Man of the Year" in the Twin Cities, according to Jerry Sugar, chairman.

Nominations from the Monroe and West Monroe public are invited by the Jaycees. It is suggested that the nomination blank printed in the Monroe Morning World be used. However, a written nomination of any form will be accepted.

Presentation of the award will be made on January 23. Deadline for nominations is January 19. Any resident of the Twin Cities, whether a Jaycee member or not, is eligible for the honor.

Judges, who will select the winner, will be announced at a future date. Winner of the award last year was W. L. "Jack" Howard.

Oil Wells Being Drilled Deeper, Faster; Costs Up

HOUSTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—Oil wells are being drilled deeper and faster but costs are up 97 per cent since 1941.

An annual report from the American Assn. of Oilwell Drilling Contractors indicates the average drilling time in days is only 56 per cent of the 1941 rate. The rate of penetration has increased 88 per cent in 14 years.

The average depth of wells has increased from 3,056 feet in 1941 to 4,044 in 1955, with per foot costs up from $7.25 to $13.50.

The association estimated labor costs in 1955 were 102 per cent above 1941, equipment costs 95 per cent higher, and other costs 94 per cent higher.

Brad Mills, executive secretary, said increased cost in completing wells has not been caused by higher prices received by drilling contractors. The report indicated the average contract cost per foot in 1955 was $4.90, compared to $5.10 in 1954, $5.85 in 1952 and $4.25 in 1941.

Mills said both the average drilling time in days and the rate of penetration remained almost the same in 1955 as during 1954. This, he said, resulted from the average number of rotary rigs in use for each million feet of hole drilled last year was comparable to the same ratio in 1954.

Average drilling time in days the past two years was 56 per cent of 1941, compared to 58 per cent in 1952, 75 per cent in 1949.

The rate of penetration in 1955 also was unchanged for 1954, but 1953 was 84 per cent higher than 1941. It was 82 per cent higher in 1952, only 50 per cent higher in 1949, and only 10 per cent higher in 1945.

Mills' group estimates a record of 57,500 wells were completed last year, compared to 53,650 in 1954, 43,204 in 1950, 26,649 in 1945, 32,510 in 1941 and 24,851 in 1935.

An average of 2,873 rotary rigs operated each month last year in the U.S. and Canada, compared to 2,657 in 1954. The 1941 average was only 788 per month.

Stock Market Opens Year In Quiet Decline

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—The stock market started the new year this week with a cautious decline.

There was a lot to be wary about. Forecasts said general business should do quite well for the first six months. After that, there was much less agreement on what was in store.

The stock market discounts the future through the composite estimates of all buyers and all sellers. Some figured that if the nation's economy is expected to hold at record levels in the first half of 1956 and the stock market already is at or near its peaks, then perhaps the market soon will start to discount the less enticing business outlook in the second half of the year.

The State of the Union message Thursday promised balanced budgets and continued heavy spending, but it didn't promise tax cuts.

The market wasn't buoyed by the message nor was it depressed. The market just about did nothing at all Thursday.

The most pronounced market reaction to Congress hit the aircrafts Tuesday when a House subcommittee promised to look at profits of aircraft companies. Prices of aircraft stocks slumped.

Another curious market factor was the offering of 10,200,000 shares of Ford common stock Jan. 18.

The Associated Press average this week declined 90 cents and closed at $179.30.

The five most active issues this week were General Motors off 1⅜, American & Foreign Power up ⅝, International Telephone up 1⅞, Westinghouse off 1⅝ and Electric & Musical Industries unchanged.

Suspension Of Duties Asked

North Carolina Boards Fail To Take Action In Segregated School Fight

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—Asurvey today indicated North Carolina committees set up to advise Boards of Education on segregation have done little but study the problem.

The survey covered 39 of the state's 174 county and city school units. Of these 39, 17 had set up special advisory groups and 14 had not. In the eight other units, the local school board, in whole or in part, was constituted as a study group. Many of the special committees include Negro members.

Status of advisory committees attracted statewide attention last week when W. W. Taylor, special counsel and executive secretary for the state advisory committee on education, wrote school superintendents, suggesting that work of the advisory groups be discontinued temporarily. Tom Pearsall of Rocky Mount, chairman of the state committee, said in one instance a local committee had "usupree" authority of a local school board and in other cases local school boards were passing on to the advisory committees matters which were a board responsibility.

The state committee said in a statement the suspension was asked while the state group drafts a set of proposed regulations on pupil assignment for the local school boards to consider.

The last Legislature gave the local boards full power to decide which school a pupil shall attend.

The most dramatic developments turned up by the survey were at Lexington where a 15-member advisory committee made recommendations which resulted in a big hassle.

Some of the committee's white members joined its five Negro members to approve three recommendations to the school board. They recommended that the board (1) seek to increase school "functions" between the races, (2) urge the city recreation commission to encourage interracial playground activities, and (3) exchange teachers between white and Negro schools on a voluntary basis.

When these recommendations resulted in public criticism, the committee met again and rescinded them. Only two of the Negro members attended this meeting. They were joined by two white members in opposing the action. The committee has held no further meetings.

'Kelly Not Amused'

Unknown Woman Startles Prince With Two Kisses

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—Who is the dark-haired beauty who twice kissed a startled prince in the presence of his blonde fiancee?

The woman was described in the New York Post as "a mysterious Latin-American stranger" who twice broke through guards to buss Prince Rainier III of Monaco at a high society ball last night.

It was the prince's first public date with actress Grace Kelly, his princess-to-be.

"Miss Kelly was not amused," said the Post. It quoted the prince as saying he did not know the brunette.

The newspaper said the woman first kissed the prince while he and Miss Kelly were walking to their box in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel ballroom.

"Miss Kelly gave the woman a piercing look and said nothing," the newspaper reported.

It said that later when they were leaving the box "the woman, dark-haired, pretty and swathed in a stiff, black net stole," again slipped through detectives and "planted a long kiss on the prince, leaving a lip-smear of lipstick on the royal cheek."

"Wipe that lipstick off your cheek," Miss Kelly said tartly to the prince.

He scrubbed himself with a handkerchief.

"Who is that woman?" Miss Kelly snapped.

The prince mumbled something inaudible to reporters nearby. "Do you know that girl?" one of them asked.

"No, I don't," the prince said testily.

The story continued that, as the prince and Miss Kelly left, three house detectives converged on the woman and told her "the prince sent us to find out who you are."

"He knows my name," the newspaper quoted her as replying. "I am an old acquaintance—he should remember me."

The Post said she told a reporter later she had known the prince "since he was 12 and I was 7" and that she kissed him because "this engagement burns me up—in six months, it will be all over. It won't last."

Councilman Jailed

Alleged 'Fence' Forcefully Taken From Court House

ARDMORE, Okla., Jan. 7—UP—Ardmore City Councilman Joe Taylor, alleged "fence" for a three-state burglary ring, was yanked out of a district judge's chambers by two State Crime Bureau agents Saturday while a deputy sheriff held off the councilman's friends with a shotgun.

District Judge John C. Caldwell, an eyewitness to the unexpected arrest, said he may issue a contempt citation against the state agents but not before Monday.

Taylor, charged on four counts of burglary in neighboring Garvin county, was taken to Pauls Valley, the county seat, and jailed.

County Attorney Raymond Burger said Taylor would be arraigned on a fifth charge later.

Taylor is one of seven suspects arrested in connection with hundreds of burglaries in Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas the past few months. He has charged he is the victim of a frame-up.

He was arrested twice Thursday and Friday but was freed each time on $2,000 appearance bond and ordered to appear before Judge Caldwell Saturday in a writ of habeas corpus hearing. Burger contended no hearing was justified since Taylor was already free on bond. He told the court the hearing was merely an effort to keep Taylor from being transported to Garvin county for arraignment.

The arrest came in the judge's office after Caldwell announced he would not rule on the writ until Monday.

Caldwell said his court had merely been recessed, and had not adjourned when the two agents, Golden Kennedy and Hubert Barlett, entered his office and dragged Taylor through the courtroom to an auto and headed for Pauls Valley.

Two carloads of Ardmore citizens including a wealthy businessman followed the car carrying Taylor to Pauls Valley and offered to post as high as $500,000 bail for his release.

Burger and State Crime Bureau Chief O. K. Bivins said they felt there were no grounds for contempt against the agents.

"Those agents served a warrant by request of the Garvin county attorney on the gentleman (Taylor) and he was arrested and taken to the county which had jurisdiction," Bivins said.

Burger said Taylor was not seized in the courtroom but after he had entered the judge's office.

The agents, together with Burger and Garvin County Deputy Sheriff Robert Holt, who waved a shotgun as a cover for them in their seizure of Taylor, arrived with their prisoner at Pauls Valley about 1 p. m. Taylor fought his captors before they forced him into the car, but the officers said he remained silent during the trip.

Frozen Body Of Missing Child Found Near Home

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 7—UP— A five-year-old girl, who disappeared Friday after talking to a strange man, was found frozen to death Saturday only a mile from her home.

Frozen tears were on her cheeks. Police said she died only an hour before she was found.

At first police believed Susan Cadieux was the victim of a kidnaper but after they found her body, they abandoned that theory.

A doctor who examined the body said the child died from exposure in temperatures that had hovered near zero since she was last seen by her two older brothers talking to a "strange man" in the St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church school yard.

Susan was wearing a short plaid coat, helmet, blue jeans and rubber boots. Police said her clothing had not been disarranged.

Nearly 1,000 volunteers joined police and soldiers in a thorough search of London before Susan's body was found near the Canadian Pacific Railway tracks that run through London.

Police said Susan apparently became lost. When darkness set in, they said, she probably crumpled to the ground in terror of the night and wept until she became unconscious.

There was no evidence that she had been hit by a train or been the victim of a sex-slaying, police said. Both of these theories were advanced earlier.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7—UP—Grace Kelly bids farewell to her real-life prince charming Saturday to go to Hollywood to finish a movie about a fictional girl who marries a European prince.

She leaves New York by train at 4:30 p.m. (CST) for a seperation of a few weeks from handsome Prince Rainier III of Monaco.

While 26-year-old Miss Kelly is hard at work before the movie cameras, Ranier will go to Florida for some deep sea fishing and skin diving and then tour the southern United States on his way to Hollywood.

After completing "The Swan," a movie version of Ferenc Molnar's famous play, Miss Kelly will make another picture—this one entitled "High Society." It is a remake of "The Philadelphia Story" which deals with society shennanigans in Miss Kelly's home town.

In "The Swan," first filmed with Lillian Gish as the star, Miss Kelly plays the role of an heiress who gets her prince. In real life, she is the heiress to a contracting fortune built by her father, John B. Kelly.

The movie queen and the 32-year-old prince have not announced a date yet for their wedding. They said only it would be after Easter when they disclosed their engagement Thursday in Philadelphia.

Rainier, who rules the country occupied almost entirely by the world gambling capital of Monte Carlo, has told friends he will spend most of February in Hollywood to be with Miss Kelly while she makes "High Society."

The couple stayed until 5 a.m. and then Miss Kelly got up Saturday morning in time for her daily voice lesson at 11 a.m. She hopes to be able to sing with Bing Crosby and Frank Sinatra, her co-stars in "High Society" and has taken lessons every day except Thursday, when she went to Philadelphia.

The U. S. pet population is estimated at 22,500,000 dogs, 26,500,000 cats, 9,000,000 parakeets and 6,000,000 canaries.

Morrison Says Others Copying Platform Ideas

BERWICK, Jan. 7 (Special) — Chep Morrison said here today "There is only one issue in this election—whether we want to go forward or backward in Louisiana."

"All of the other candidates in this race have attempted to cloud this issue with personal attacks and false issues. But we have stuck to a clean, constructive campaign in order to present to the people what we believe is the real stake—that is, more jobs, bigger payrolls, good government and a better day for all Louisiana."

Morrison said that early in the campaign the Morrison — Barham platform had included a plank of bringing new industry and bigger payrolls to the state.

"Since then," he asserted, "all the other four candidates have tried to copy our platform. But three of them have no record in public office at all, and we cannot judge what they will do. The other candidate who has twice been governor has a record alright—that is a record not of attracting industry and commerce but of running it out of our state by double taxing the spoils system, deducts and all the other evils of the oldline politicians. This same man has shown a complete lack of interest in going after industry.

"Another reason why he would drive industry away instead of attracting it is the fact that his word is not worth the paper it's written on.

Morrison continued to ask the question of why the former governor has yet to appear 'live' on television.

"A few days ago," he said, "my 11-year old boy appeared with me on a telecast and spoke a few words. When the program was over I said to him 'Son, you have just done something that the former governor has not yet had the courage to do although he is 61 years old. You have appeared on a live telecast.' "

Barham charged that Gov. Kennon "in an effort to elect his handpicked successor is attempting to trade the allocation of state projects for votes. I don't believe that is right," Barham said, "that is the very kind of thing we thought we had gotten rid of long ago."

Barham said "Gov. Kennon is suffering from mansionitis. That is a disease which afflicts governors who hate to give up those free meals and free rent and soft beds at the mansion, and attempt to pick their successor. But it won't work this time anymore than it did in 1952 when former Gov. Long tried unsuccessfully to dictate his successor."

Morrison continued to ask the question of why the former governor has yet to appear 'live' on television.

"A few days ago," he said, "my 11-year old boy appeared with me on a telecast and spoke a few words. When the program was over I said to him 'Son, you have just done something that the former governor has not yet had the courage to do although he is 61 years old. You have appeared on a live telecast.' "

Barham charged that Gov. Kennon "in an effort to elect his handpicked successor is attempting to trade the allocation of state projects for votes. I don't believe that is right," Barham said, "that is the very kind of thing we thought we had gotten rid of long ago."

Barham said "Gov. Kennon is suffering from mansionitis. That is a disease which afflicts governors who hate to give up those free meals and free rent and soft beds at the mansion, and attempt to pick their successor. But it won't work this time anymore than it did in 1952 when former Gov. Long tried unsuccessfully to dictate his successor."

Building Booms Here During Past Year; Outlook For '56 Shows Good Prospect

By PAUL JASPER
Of The News-Star Staff

Building boomed in the Twin City area during the year 1955, and prospects are bright that the rate of progress will continue this year.

In 1955, in Monroe and West Monroe alone, more than $8,000,000 were spent on all types of building, including dwelling units, businesses, and additions and repairs to buildings already here.

In addition, the Monroe Area Industrial Development Corp. reported that 20 industries both here and in the smaller towns in this area spent $8,815,974 in expanded plant activities during the year.

During the year, 517 residences—costing $4,501,693 — were constructed in Monroe alone, and $1,506,286 was spent in construction of non-residences.

In all, $7,040,393 in building permits were issued during the year, according to the annual report of Building Inspector S. H. Awl.

Among the non - residences constructed in Monroe during the year were two additions to Northeast Louisiana State College, costing a total of $359,709. Another building, costing more than $200,000, is scheduled to be constructed at the college during 1956.

Among the other important buildings constructed, or under construction at present, were additions to the Southern Bell Telephone Co. main headquarters, at a cost of $110,000; and the construction of a new telephone company business office at a cost of $65,000.

There were also additions to Lexington School, at $77,482, and at Orange Street school, at $53,933; and the construction of two physicians' offices at different places in the city at a total cost of $53,000.

Also in Monroe were the additions to Parkview Baptist church, at a cost of $99,403; and at St. Paul's Methodist church, at a cost of $72,554.

In addition, there were several remodeling jobs done on private businesses, at such costs as $49,475; $51,500; while remodeling at the Ouachita parish court house cost $68,855.

May was the best month for building in Monroe, with $1,219,446 in building permits issued, 56 of them for residences. In March, 91 permits for residences costing a total of $901,979 were issued.

The outlook for construction in 1956 was good, as the residence building appeared to be undiminished and several firms and public buildings announced plans for increased construction.

The Ouachita parish school system, for instance, passed in 1955 a $5,200,000 bond issue to be used for construction and additions to schools in the parish, and the city school board was also making plans for other buildings.

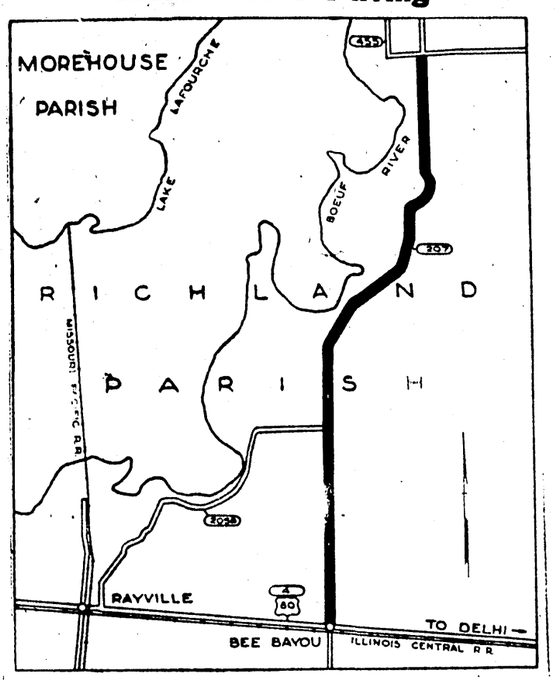

In West Monroe, the two McLemore brothers were still working on plans for a huge shopping center at Cypress and Crosley streets in West Monroe, expected to cost in the neighborhood of $250,000.

Columbia Carbon Co. has announced plans for the construction of laboratory buildings in the 1100 block of North 18th street in Monroe, with the low bid for the job made by Jesse Heard at a price of $345,550.

In West Monroe, according to Building Inspector C. E. Frost, there were 116 new residences, at a total cost of $832,100; and 121 additions to residences at $85,175.

Six warehouses were constructed in West Monroe at a total cost of $111,887; and four service stations at a cost of $45,000.

Board chairman Sam Short said the nine-mile Bee Bayou - Mann School Hwy. will be surfaced with asphalt concrete to a width of 20 feet. Supporters Hope To Get Gas Bill Approved Intact

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—The controversial House-passed bill to exempt natural gas producers from federal controls headed for a showdown in the Senate this month.

The Senate Democratic Policy Committee cleared the bill this week for Senate consideration. Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson (Tex) said the Senate may get to the gas bill the week of Jan. 16.

Supporters would like to get it through the Senate without amendment but they know the going will be rough. Any amendments added by the Senate, assuming it passes the bill in one form or another, would send it back to the House, where the bill barely squeaked through last year.

Battle lines formed as Senate debate approached. Former Mayor Alex Clark of Indianapolis, a Republican, became chairman of a new group entering the contest in support of the bill sponsored by Rep. Harris (D-Ark) and by Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark).

A committee of mayors from many gas-consuming areas and a group of gas distributing companies oppose the bill.

In a recent letter to members of the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America, Russell Brown, general counsel, welcomed Clark's willingness to "continue and broaden on his role in working with us and the other groups supporting the Harris-Fulbright Bill."

More than one million acres of tillable land go into non-agricultural use in the United States every year.

Preaus Asserts He's Now Seeking First Place Vote

WINNFIELD, Jan. 7 —(Special)—The Preaus - Moore gubernatorial team said here today that they are now fighting for first position in the January 17 Democratic primary election. Four weeks ago they said the Preaus - Moore team was battling for second place but today public opinion has pushed them into a fight for the top spot on the ballot.

Fred Preaus, candidate for governor, said Louisiana citizens have by now digested the platforms of the various candidates and have decided how to cast their ballots. The number of voters who have swung to the Preaus-Moore team during the past two weeks is indicative of the trend toward election of a gubernatorial combination who believe in teamwork and a truly Democratic state government.

A Brown Moore, candidate for lieutenant goxernor, said the Preaus - Moore team is battling former Gov. Earl Long for the top spot in the balloting. "The former governor believes the people have forgotten how he broke many campaign promises in 1948," Moore said. "He is going around in this campaign making the same kind of promises, but I don't believe the people will fall for them this time. They will not let that old political machine get back into Baton Rouge, nor will they promote a big city machine to the governor's office."

Salary increases for many state workers will be sought during the next four years, Preaus said here.

Reiterating a pledge made earlier in the campaign, Preaus said most of Louisiana's public employe are underpaid and deserve more money.

"Our state employes should at least receive the minimum wage of $1 an hour. There are many who are not receiving even this amount and I will do my utmost to see that the minimum is put in effect in Louisiana. There are still others who are making far too little in relation to the important work they perform. I will seek to remedy this situation because I believe state employes should be as well paid as our citizens in private industry."

Preaus said he singles out Louisiana school teachers as an example of the type of public workers who need more money because the future of the state's children is in their hands. Louisianans need teachers dedicated to their profession, he said and they must be provided with salaries attractive enough to induce them to remain teachers.

The former chairman of the Louisiana board of highways said when Louisiana's long - range highway program is put into operation the state will have one of the best road systems in the United States. He said his opponents in the current governor's branch have not made highways an issue because more roads have been hard-surfaced during the past three and one half years than during any previous administration.

Turning to the water conservation plank in his platform, Preaus said the construction of 20 new lakes throughout the state will provide fresh water needed for industry and serve as recreation spots.

Sunday Preaus appears on "dateline New Orleans" a 30 minute T.V. program on which he will be quizzed on various campaign issues by a panel of four political experts.

Airman Races Wrong Man On Indiana Roads

BRAZIL, Ind., Jan. 7—UP—The next time Airman Joseph Cormier thinks somebody is trying to "race" him on the highway he'll probably look twice before accepting the "challenge."

Cormier, 21, stationed at Tucson, Ariz., was arrested on U.S. 40 east of here Friday when his "challenger" notified authorities. State Trooper William Rodgers charged Cormier with speeding 90 miles an hour and 60 miles in a 30-mile zone. Cormier was released after paying a $30.50 fine in justice of the peace court.

"I didn't know that was the governor," said Cormier after paying the fine. "I thought it was somebody going to race me."

Livestock Advisory Group Holds Meeting

LAKE PROVIDENCE, Jan. 7 (Special)—The East Carroll Livestock Advisory Committee met at Stamboul Plantation recently with Harry Shields, in order to make plans for the extension livestock activities during 1956.

Later they surveyed the land leveling procedure in progress, preparatory to furrow irrigation of cotton growing. This method has been highly successful in East Carroll for the past several years, and was occasioned by the intense drought.

WILL RESPECT AGREEMENTS — Soviet release of American Airman M/Sgt. Mike Kliman, arrested by East German Communists, makes it clear Russians will respect four-power agreements on treatment of Western allied nationals in Berlin, American officials said. Action of Soviets in returning Kliman was seen as rebuff to East Zone Reds who labeled him a "drunken driver" and demanded his trial by a Communist court. Kliman was freed by Soviets 23 hours after his arrest by East German police following a traffic accident in East Berlin.

NAACP Raps Judge For Refusing To Obey Order Of U. S. Circuit Court

CINNATI, Jan. 7 (AP)—The state president of the National Assn., for the Advancement of Colored People today raised the question of a federal judge's "partiality" and "prejudice" in the Hillsboro school segregation controversy.

Charles J. Francis of Dayton, head of the Ohio branch of the NAACP, said Dist. Judge John H. Druffel "indicates a deep prejudice."

Druffel said he would not follow the edict of the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals to end "all racial segregation in the Hillsboro public schools" by September 1956 unless the school board was willing and able to comply with the order.

He said if the board felt an injunction would cause "chaos and confusion" in the school system, he would ask the board members to take the issue to the Supreme Court in his name.

"We fail to see how a judge without partiality could appeal to the Supreme Court," Francis said in a statement. "We wonder whether Judge Druffel himself isn't in contempt of the Circuit Court of Appeals."

Druffel dismissed Francis' statement this way:

"He asks such a good question he should supply the answer," and declined further comment.

"The judge indicates a deep prejudice in the matter before him and it seems the case should be withheld from his consideration due to his prejudice and another federal judge should be named to issue the order of the Circuit Court of Appeals and supervise its enforcement," Francis said.

The NAACP helped five Negro mothers to institute proceedings against the Hillsboro Board of Education. They sought an injunction which would permit their children to attend predominately white elementary schools instead of the all-Negro Lincoln school.

Druffel rejected the motion for an injunction Jan. 28, 1955. The Circuit Court overruled Druffel last Thursday and said the District Court "abused its discretion in refusing" to void a zoning ordinance which assigned Negro children "to segregated schools."

The junior and senior high schools are mixed racially and a few Negroes attend classes at two elementary schools, which had been all-white prior to September 1954.

About 65 children were assigned to the all-Negro Lincoln building but less than half were attending classes at the beginning of the school term. Many of the others have gone almost daily to the other schools but have been turned away.

Hillsboro, the county seat of Highland County in southwestern Ohio, is in the midst of a school building program. When it is completed, Supt. Paul Upp has said, Lincoln will be abandoned and all children will be in integrated classes.

Until the program is completed, he said, desegregation would cause overcrowding.

Louisiana Governor's Race

Percentage Vote In First Primary May Offer Key To Runoff Outcome

By JAMES MCLEAN

BATON ROUGE, Jan. 7 ¾—The way politicans see it, vote percentages in the Jan. 17 Democratic primary for governor will offer a key to the final outcome in a runoff.

Since 1940, runoff elections between the two top men have been necessary to decide the governor's race.

One of the five candidates this time would have to flash way ahead with a vote majority to skip a second primary.

Campaigns for governor nearly always have to make allowance for a Long candidate.

No matter who other office seekers are, the entry of a Long or a Long-picked candidate always is a factor other rivals can't overlook.

However, in the last 16 years, the Longs have been in the governor's mansion only four years—when Earl Long took charge in 1948-52.

In the 1956 contest, former Gov. Long insists he will win in the first primary. The four others in the race with him, New Orleans Mayor deLesseps Morrison, James M. McLemore, Francis Grevemberg and Gov. Robert Kennon's choice, Fred Preaus, early in the campaign sounded a common note. Each said he was the one who could beat Earl Long in a runoff. Kennon, taking the stump for Preaus, is pushing that theme.

The past vote percentages show the political reasoning each time—in 1940 and again in $948—when Long ran for governor, he led the field in the first primary.

Long lost the first time, won the second bid. He failed to win the governorship in 1952 for his handpicked choice, Judge Carlos Spaht, but Spaht led in the first primary.

One political theory often heard runs close to the view of Lt. Gov. C. E. Barham, Morrison running mate, who holds that Long has a set vote—it won't vary much either way, up or down.

When Long won the 1948 runoff, however, his ballot soared from 267,253 in the first primary, to 432,528, beating Sam Jones with his 223,971 runoff support.

In 1940, when Long bid for the office his first time after moving into it in 1939 while serving as lieutenant governor, he received 40.9 per cent of the first primary vote. Sam Jones polled 28 per cent, and won the showdown in the runoff.

In 1948, Long received 41.5 per cent of the first primary vote. Jones, again his nearest rival, had only 22.9 per cent and couldn't bridge the gap.

When Long backed Spaht in 1952, the political pattern was mixed up.

While Spaht led a nine-way field in the first primary—he received only 22.8 per cent of the total vote. He was only a whisper ahead of the runnerup, Kennon, who drew 21.5 per cent. U. S. Rep. Hale Boggs was third with 18.7 per cent. McLemore, fourth, received 15.3 per cent.

Elections vary. For instance, in the 1952 first primary with a crowded field of nine, some of them obviously had little chance.

In the 1956 primary, the field is nearly cut in half and each entry potentially commands a strong vote for various reasons.

This time, watch the size of the lead the top man gains over his runnerup for the second primary showdown.

Canada's Oil And Gas Boom Pushes Forward In 1956

CALGARY, Can. Jan. 7 (AP)—Western Canada's oil and gas boom, which continued at a record pace in 1955, is expected to gain more momentum in 1956.

The past year was highlighted by virtual go-aheads on two major natural gas pipelines, expanded markets, substantial increases in oil and natural gas reserves and increased activity in the petrochemical field.

Western Canada's oil reserves, which rose from almost nothing in 1946 to 2,416,000,000 barrels in 1950, now are rated at about 2,900,000,000 barrels.

During 1955 oil companies poured a record 440 million dollars into exploration and development, apart from refineries and pipeline construction or expansion, in the four western provinces and the Northwest territories. At present half a billion will be spent on this phase in 1956.

This country's natural gas industry, still in its infancy, received an important boost during 1955. Recent U.S. approval of imports of Canadian gas into the U.S. Pacific Northwest pushed away the last obstacle to the West Coast Transmission Co. pipeline project. The company has started building its 650-mile 142-million-dollar gas pipeline from the Peace River area of Alberta and British Columbia to Southern B.C. and the U.S.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

Clarence Cook, a high school champion at Oak Grove, a Golden Gloves king for Mississippi, and a military champ for Fort Hood, is finally making a move toward the front in professional boxing ranks and certainly he has many of his supporters hoping he can go all the way there, too.

Cook, currently a Bastrop mill worker, has been dated for a January 19 fight at Dallas, Tex., with Virgil Atkins, the No. 3 ranked world's welterweight in the current issue of Ring magazine. If Cook can pass the Atkins test he'll certainly be right on the heels of Welterweight Champion Carmen Basilio and Tony DeMarco.

CLARENCE COOK

This time a year ago Clarence's backers were talking a match with Del Flanagan, then ranked seventh, but the Flanagan bout never developed although it came pretty close a couple of times. Even a fading Flanagan could have made a good match for Cook, but against Atkins, the Louisiana puncher will be striving to squeeze right in at the head of the class. It's a great opportunity for the Oak Grove-Bastrop belter. If he can win or make a good showing, he may be on his way.

Coach J. L. McKenzie of Oak Grove High School in West Carroll parish launched Cook on his fistic career as a lightweight for his Tiger mittmen in 1947, and Cook came up with his first state championship. He missed the title in 1948, his first year as a welter, but won state prep crowns the next two seasons.

Then it was off to the army for the tall, lean youngster and he spent two years in service. In addition to his military duties he won the Fort Hood welter title and was runner-up for the Fourth Army crown.

Coming out of the army, Cook turned pro, losing his opener to Norris Ray at Bastrop by a sixth round knockout in a fight that still has Bastrop fans arguing. Cook got a rematch to avenge the loss at Gus Kallio's Arena here a few weeks later, and since then he has been undefeated, showing a string of 20 victories, more than half of them by knockouts. His victims include such as Lupe La Funties, James Barrentine, Robert Martinez, Paul Valdes, Ray Sherbert, Babe Vance, Clyde Mayberry, Vic Cordell, Joe Vasquez, Tino Longoria, Guy Guerette, Babe Garcia, Pete Sanchez, Alex Cidillio, Perrin Vega, Al Villereal, and Ted Agapiou, the latter a second round KO victim in Cook's last fight here.

For the last two and a half years Cook has been employed as a "plugger" by the International Paper Company's mill at Bastrop where he now makes his home with his wife, the former Miss Dorothy Lee Irby of Oak Grove, and their three children, ages three and two years, and a five-month-old baby.

He has just turned 25 years old, stands six feet tall and fights either as a welter or middleweight as his poundage ranges between 147 (for the welter class) and 151 as a middle.

For his big chance against Atkins, the International Paper Company has granted Cook a leave of absence to put in intensive training for the bout. Although serving as his own manager now, Cook has been helped by Gus Kallio, local promoter, and has worked out twice here this week, meeting four sparmates over 12 rounds Wednesday, and five sparring partners another twelve Thursday. Friday and yesterday, he drilled at Bastrop. Today he is scheduled for afternoon work at the Ouachita Valley Fair Grounds in West Monroe.

The fact that Cook, with a natural ability to box, is taking his training so seriously for the Dallas show indicates he plans to be at the best of his career if possible. A victory could launch him into title contention.

M'Farland Tallies 20 Indian Points In 2nd Half Rout

By TED HECKATHORN

The Northeast State basketball Indians, after a nip-and-tuck first half, broke loose for 57 points in the second, and rolled over the Arkansas State five last night at the Ouachita gymnasium, 97-70.

The Indians trailed during the first few moments of the game, but caught the red-clads at the 12-point mark. From then on it was first one, then the other in front until four minutes before intermission when the home team pulled ahead to stay.

All during the first half the Indians displayed their chief weakness that helped cost them their first conference game Friday against Northwestern, when poor passing and poor ball handling by the pivot man under the enemy basket resulted in seven Arkansas interceptions.

The play of outstanding Tribe rebound man Lloyd Crocker featured the tight first half; and Bobby Hicks, Arkansas guard, was the main interceptor and floor hawk for the visitors.

In the second half, Melvin MacFarland, who was held scoreless all during the first, hit for four consecutive swishers to give the Indians a long lead, and add to his team-high point total of 20. Bill Bradley who displayed for a few moments his sharpshooting form of last season; and Stan Shaneyfelt, were the next high Tribe scorers, with 15 a piece.

Game high point honors went to guard Billl Gatlin of Arkansas State, with a total of 27.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

Clarence Cook, a high school champion at Oak Grove, a Golden Gloves king for Mississippi, and a military champ for Fort Hood, is finally making a move toward the front in professional boxing ranks and certainly he has many of his supporters hoping he can go all the way there, too.

CLARENCE COOK

This time a year ago Clarence's backers were talking a match with Del Flanagan, then ranked seventh, but the Flanagan bout never developed although it came pretty close a couple of times. Even a fading Flanagan could have made a good match for Cook, but against Atkins, the Louisiana puncher will be striving to squeeze right in at the head of the class. It's a great opportunity for the Oak Grove-Bastrop belter. If he can win or make a good showing, he may be on his way.

Coach J. L. McKenzie of Oak Grove High School in West Carroll parish launched Cook on his fistic career as a lightweight for his Tiger mittmen in 1947, and Cook came up with his first state championship. He missed the title in 1948, his first year as a welter, but won state prep crowns the next two seasons.

Then it was off to the army for the tall, lean youngster and he spent two years in service. In addition to his military duties he won the Fort Hood welter title and was runner-up for the Fourth Army crown.

Coming out of the army, Cook turned pro, losing his opener to Norris Ray at Bastrop by a sixth round knockout in a fight that still has Bastrop fans arguing. Cook got a rematch to avenge the loss at Gus Kallio's Arena here a few weeks later, and since then he has been undefeated, showing a string of 20 victories, more than half of them by knockouts. His victims include such as Lupe La Funties, James Barrentine, Robert Martinez, Paul Valdes, Ray Sherbert, Babe Vance, Clyde Mayberry, Vic Cordell, Joe Vasquez, Tino Longoria, Guy Guerette, Babe Garcia, Pete Sanchez, Alex Cidillio, Perrin Vega, Al Villereal, and Ted Agapiou, the latter a second round KO victim in Cook's last fight here.

For the last two and a half years Cook has been employed as a "plugger" by the International Paper Company's mill at Bastrop where he now makes his home with his wife, the former Miss Dorothy Lee Irby of Oak Grove, and their three children, ages three and two years, and a five-month-old baby.

He has just turned 25 years old, stands six feet tall and fights either as a welter or middleweight as his poundage ranges between 147 (for the welter class) and 151 as a middle.

For his big chance against Atkins, the International Paper Company has granted Cook a leave of absence to put in intensive training for the bout. Although serving as his own manager now, Cook has been helped by Gus Kallio, local promoter, and has worked out twice here this week, meeting four sparmates over 12 rounds Wednesday, and five sparring partners another twelve Thursday. Friday and yesterday, he drilled at Bastrop. Today he is scheduled for afternoon work at the Ouachita Valley Fair Grounds in West Monroe.

The fact that Cook, with a natural ability to box, is taking his training so seriously for the Dallas show indicates he plans to be at the best of his career if possible. A victory could launch him into title contention.

M'Farland Tallies 20 Indian Points In 2nd Half Rout

By TED HECKATHORN

The Northeast State basketball Indians, after a nip-and-tuck first half, broke loose for 57 points in the second, and rolled over the Arkansas State five last night at the Ouachita gymnasium, 97-70.

The Indians trailed during the first few moments of the game, but caught the red-clads at the 12-point mark. From then on it was first one, then the other in front until four minutes before intermission when the home team pulled ahead to stay.

All during the first half the Indians displayed their chief weakness that helped cost them their first conference game Friday against Northwestern, when poor passing and poor ball handling by the pivot man under the enemy basket resulted in seven Arkansas interceptions.

The play of outstanding Tribe rebound man Lloyd Crocker featured the tight first half; and Bobby Hicks, Arkansas guard, was the main interceptor and floor hawk for the visitors.

In the second half, Melvin MacFarland, who was held scoreless all during the first, hit for four consecutive swishers to give the Indians a long lead, and add to his team-high point total of 20. Bill Bradley who displayed for a few moments his sharpshooting form of last season; and Stan Shaneyfelt, were the next high Tribe scorers, with 15 a piece.

Game high point honors went to guard Billl Gatlin of Arkansas State, with a total of 27.

Father Of 'Sanity Code' Visions Better Policing

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7 (AP)—The nation's colleges are accepting the task of policing their own athletic programs "to a much greater degree," the man who enforced the unpopular "sanity code" said today.

Clarence P. (Pop) Houston of Tufts College, president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, made the comment as the organization prepared to open its 50th annual convention.

Houston was chairman of the N.C.A.A. compliance committee which had charge of enforcing the sanity code from 1948 until its abolishment in 1951. At the time, only five years ago, he held the title of "most unpopular" man in the collegiate athletic field. A year ago he was named N.C.A.A. president and probably will be re-elected to a second term next week.

"The sanity code was too strong at the time of its adoption," Houston admitted today. "The colleges weren't ready for it and wouldn't accept it.

"Today there is a trend, growing steadily, toward individual policing of the athletic problem. I think it's a good thing, a sign that the college sports picture is bright."

Scheduled for presentation to the convention, which opens full sessions Monday, is an amendment to the bylaws which would tighten up on the recruiting of high school athletes. It would limit the "expenses paid" visits of prep athletes to one at any campus, regardless of whether the host school or a "booster coub" picked up the tab.

"That's another good sign," Houston said. "The schools recognize the problem of young athletes 'shopping' and are taking the matter into their own hands."

Houston said he didn't want to talk about the sanity code because it "opened up a lot of old sores." The code, adopted Jan. 10, 1948, attempted to place control of collegiate athletics on a nationwide basis and provided the N.C.A.A. with enforcement machinery to punish violators. Houston, as chairman of the committee in charge, was head of the policing activities.

"I probably was the most disliked man in college athletics," he said. "But only a year ago I was elected N.C.A.A. president by a unanimous vote, and the man who worked with me on the sanity code enforcement, Ralph Aigler of the University of Michigan, became secretary treasurer the same way. Times change."

The recruiting amendment, which will put a damper on booster club activities, will be discussed at separate panel meetings of athletic directors and faculty representatives Monday afternoon. The full N.C.A.A membership will vote on the amendment at a Wednesday session.

Duscussion of a 1956 program for football television is scheduled tomorrow. The 1955 program set up eight national and five regional telecasts throughout the country.

The third major item on the convention agenda is a suggestion to split the N.C.A.A. basketball tournament inti two divisions, university and college.

Childress Scores Both Touchdowns In Senior Battle

By STAN ATKINS

Mobile, Ala., Jan. 7 (AP)—Fullback Joe Childress of Auburn plunged over for touchdowns in the first and fourth periods as the South defeated the North 12-2 in the seventh annual Senior Bowl game today.

The North, directed by quarterbacks Jerry Reichow of Iowa and Jim Haluska of Wisconsin, drove deep into South territory three times in the second half, but was never able to carry over.

The Yankees' two points came on a safety in the third period when a snap by South center Bob Scarbrough of Auburn sailed over the head of punter George Herring of Mississippi Southern and out of the South end zone.

The South offensive and defensive lines handled the Yankees with ease in the first half. But the North came back after the intermission and moved deep into scoring territory.

Tony Sardisco, Tulane guard, set up the second South touchdown when he recovered a fumble by Gary Lowe of Michigan State on the North 37 on a runback of a kick.

Don McIlhenny of Southern Methodist burst through for 20 yards and Childress went nine more. Childress went over four plays later. Bob Hardy of Kentucky missed the try for point.

Big Don Goss of Southern Methodist, biggest man on the field at 260 pounds, was named outstanding player. The agile Texan was a tower on defense along with tackle M. L. Brackett of Auburn.

Childress was voted the most outstanding back for the South and Bill Murakowski of Purdue the best of the North backs. End Harold Burnine of Missouri was picked as the best Yankee lineman.

The South offensive line showed tremendous power in the Rebels' first quarter touchdown drive that covered 56 yards in 15 plays.

Coach Paul Brown's defensive platoon had demonstrated almost as much power moments earlier in throwing the Northerners back 10 yards on the opening series of plays following the kickoff.

Hardy threw only one pass in the touchdown drive, a fourth-down toss to All-America end Howard Schnellenberger of Kentucky good for seven to the North 14.

Childress slashed to the two five plays later with 10 minutes gone in the half and then went over for the score. Fob James of Auburn fumbled the pass from center on the try for point and Hardy was unable to make the attempt for conversion.

Reichow drove the North down to the South four midway in the second quarter but the ball went over when he failed to gain on a keep play.

A 19-yard pass from Reichow to Bob Moss of West Virginia was the longest gain of the drive.

Estimated attendance was 35,000. The win gave the South a 4-3 edge in the series.

The north got 11 first downs to the South's 10. The Rebels rushed for 165 yards and completed two of five passes attempted for 12 yards.

Reichow and Haluska got 131 yards on 13 completions of 32 passes attempted by the North. The Yankees moved the ball on the ground 68 yards.

McIlhenny was the leading ground gainer with 58 yards on 10 carries. Childress was next with 55 on 19 tries, and Murakowski got 53 on 11.

Managers Bolt Boxing Guild For Helfand Triumph

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—Al Weill, manager of Heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano, bolted the New York Managers Guild today, opening the dikes for a cascade of other withdrawals which appeared to give state athletic commissioner Julius Helfand an undisputed victory in the boxing "war."

"The guild is broken," said Helfand, militant chairman of the state athletic commission. "This minute. Right now. The news if wonderful."

Weill announced in Los Angeles that he was pulling out of the New York guild, an affiliate of the International Boxing Guild, which threatened to defy a commission directive ending in effect the guild's usefulness after Jan. 16.

"Today I sent my resignation to the New York Managers Guild," Weill said. "I am going along with Julius Helfand and the New York state boxing commission.

"I wanted to do it. I have no other comment. The action speaks for itself."

Minutes after Weill's announcement, Chick Wergeles, an associate, said he, too, had sent his resignation into the manager's group.

Then other managers, waiting for a big break, made similar moves. Hymie Wallman, Bobby Gleason and Eddie Walker announced that they would fulfill any requirements demanded by Helfand.

Another, who declined to be identified at this time, said: "the back of the organization is broken. I'm going out, too. I live in New York. Here's where I make my living I have to get along."

"Weill has the heavyweight champion, he's the bell-cow," added another. "There'll be a wholesale break for the doors now. Everybody's going to want to get right with the commissioner."

The first real break in the ring war between the New York managers and commissioner Helfand came yesterday when Jim Norris, of the powerful International Boxing Club, announced he would continue promoting fights in New York and "would back Helfand 100 per cent."

Later in the day Tex Sullivan and Willie Gilzenberg, promoters of the Monday night fights at St. Nick's who had pulled up stakes and headed for Baltimore, received another blow from Gov. Theodore McKeldin and the Maryland commission. At the governor's insistence, the commission revoked a license given the promoters earlier for Baltimore fights.

"If we had known Mr. Norris' stand I doubt if we would have comtemplated a move," said Sullivan today. "But under the conditions we had no other choice."

"If Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Gilzenberg, Sullivan's associate, want to reconsider, we'll be glad to hear them at the commission. As I have said, it's now a matter of their association with criminals or not."

Helfand has mentioned criminal associations without making any specific charges.

The commissioner exploded the current controversy when he outlawed the New York guild, declaring that after Jan. 16 managers belonging to the organization would be acceptable for fights in the state.

The New York guild voted 66-0 last Thursday night to defy Helfand's edict and not disband. It appeared momentarily as if big-time fighting in New York might be dead for a long time.

Then came the back-breaking moves of Norris and later Weill.

Managers of the lesser known fighters, the preliminary boys, are almost compelled to give in now that Norris has announced a pro-Helfand stand. They wouldn't be able to take their boys out of the state for the purses offered.

Tatum Remains Uncertain About Next Coaching Job

By BOB SERLING

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Jan. 7—UP—Coach Jim Tatum of Maryland, whose future plans have been bouncing around like an unrecovered fumble, declared Saturday he hasn't the slightest idea where he will be when the football season begins next fall.

It could be any one of at least three places.

This is the way he outlined it Saturday:

1. He has received no specific offer from North Carolina despite a conference with Tar Heel officials Friday, but is "definitely interested in the North Carolina situation."

2. He has an appointment to discuss another coaching offer at the coach's convention in Los Angeles next week, but refused to say whether it involves a college or professional team.

3. He will give a lot of thought to leaving Maryland, which has offered him what amounts to a lifetime job.

"I honestly haven't made up my mind," Tatum said "I'm not trying to act coy, I just don't know what I'm going to do. North Carolina has not made a definite offer. I'm going to talk to someone in Los Angeles next week about a coaching job outside the Atlantic Coast Conference but I can't say if it's from a college or pro team because that would be giving it away."

That latter remark apparently backed up reports that the Philadelphia Eagles, who fired Jim Trimble a few weeks ago, are after Tatum. But Tatum declined to confirm this and emphasized there was at least a "50-50" chance he would stay at Maryland.

From university sources it was learned that influential Maryland alumni are putting tremendous pressure on Tatum to stay with the Terrapins.

Tatum's reason for considering a coaching post elsewhere boils down to a possibility that Maryland may reduce its football scholarships from 22 to 18 a year.

Montgomery Gets Dick Bartell As Pilot Of Rebels

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 7—(AP)—Dick Bartell, 47-year-old former major league baseball star, has been signed to manage the Montgomery Rebels of the South Atlantic League this year.

Bartell's appointment as manager was announced today by William G. Purnhage, general manager of the Rebels.

The new Montgomery skipper, a veteran of 17 years as a player and six years as a coach in the majors, was assigned to Montgomery by the Cleveland Indians under their working agreement.

For the past two years Bartell was coach of the Cincinnati Redlegs and from 1949 through 1953 he served on the Detroit Tiger staff. He managed Sacremento of the Pacific Coast League in 1947 and Kansas City of the American Association in 1948.

During his playing days, Bartell was ranked as one of the fanciest fielding shortstops ever to hit the majors. He played with the Philadelphia Phils, New York Giants, Chicago Cubs and Detroit from 1928 to 1946.

Tech's Anderson Gets Recognition As All-American

RUSTON, La., Jan. 7—(Special)—A second member of Louisiana Tech's Gulf States Conference championship football team for 1955 has received All-America recognition.

Bulldog end Charles Anderson, senior from Plain Dealing, has been named by the Williamson Rating System on its Mid-Bracket All - America second team. Earlier this week it was announced that halfback Russell Rainbolt, Rayville senior, won a position on the All-American team selected by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Anderson and Rainbolt were co-captains of Tech's powerhouse team last fall that went undefeated in G.S.C. competition and racked up a 9-1 season record.

Anderson is the only gridder in the state of Louisiana to gain a spot on one of Williamson's first three Mid-Bracket All - American teams. The Mid-Bracket is a division between the "Big" and the "Little" All - American selections.

The 218-pound end was chosen to All-Gulf States Conference first teams by both the Associated Press and the Louisiana Sports Writers Association. He also received honorable mention on the Little All - American team named by the Associated Press.

Three other Techmen who received honorable mention for Williamson's All-American team include quarterback Milford Andrews Delhi senior; guard Bobby Stone, Tifton, Ga., junior; and halfback Russell Rainbolt, Rayville senior.

The final rating for the 1955 football season by the Williamson System puts the Tech team 81st in the nation among all teams. This places the Bulldogs ahead of such big-name schools as University of Kansas, University of Missouri and University of Alabama.

Happy Go Lucky Home 1st In Old Hickory Handicap

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 7 (AP) — H. G. Bockman's Happy Go Lucky opened his 1956 campaign today with stirring victory in the $5,000 Old Hickory Handicap at the Fair Grounds.

The seven-year-old son of Halpal, whose last triumph was in the Clark Handicap at Churchill Downs' fall meeting, stayed with the pacesetting By Far in the early running and was a length in front as they crossed the finish line.

Happy Go Lucky, a 9-5 favorite with the crowd of 13,581 returned $5.20, $3.60 and $3.00. By Far paid $6.20 and $4.20, and Lebanon Lad returned $4.00.

The Old Hickory commemorates Gen. Andrew Jackson's victory over the British in the Battle of New Orleans on Jan. 8, 1815.

By Far, from T. A. Grissom stable took the lead in the mile and a sixteenth feature as the seven-horse field left the gate. Happy Go Lucky took up the chase as they swept past the grandstand for the first time. The two raced heads apart through the back stretch.

Jockey L. Cook steered Happy Go Lucky into the lead as the field swung into the stretch, but By Far stuck with him. The two roared down the stretch leaving the field strung out behind. Lebanon Lad, flying the colors of the Maggio-Gregory stable was a well beaten third, four lengths behind By Far.

Happy Go Lucky toured the distance in a creditable 1:45 3-5, a little more than one second off the track record.

The Old Hickory heralds the big purse portion of the Fair Grounds 83-day meeting. The $10,000 added Pelleteri Handicap comes up Jan. 28 and the $50,000 New Orleans Handicap and $40,000 Louisiana Derby are scheduled near the end of the meeting.

Mon-Pharo from the Reverie Knoll Farm scored a half-length victory in the secondary feature the $2,500 Covington purse. Mon-Pharco, who showed an unproductive on Chicago tracks, returned $30.40, $14.40 and $7.60.

Dixiana Stables' Blue Hawaii finished second and returned $18.20 and $9.40. French Bleu paid $5.20 to show.

Scarr, Mystery Mate Vs. Curtis Tag Team

Jack and George Curtis return as a tag team Tuesday night at Gus Kallio's Arena, when they meet the Red Scarr - mystery partner combine. The tag relay main is over the 90-minute time limit, and will require two of three falls to win.

It will be preceded by two short bouts, each of which will have a ten-minute time limit and require two of three falls to win.

The Curtis brothers won the feature match last week here, defeating Scarr and Joe McCarthy, but were challenged after the match by the white-hooded Scarr, who felt that he could bring a partner of his own choosing this Tuesday who could handle the popular Vicksburgers.

Jack accepted the challenge for he and his brother, and, as a result, Scarr brings a grappler of his own choosing Tuesday. One, whom he claims has a style and technique neither Curtis will know how to contend with.

This remains to be seen, for there are few pro grapplers in the southeast who haven't tangled with the Curtis brothers here and there.

Managers Bolt Boxing Guild For Helfand Triumph

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—Al Weill, manager of Heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano, bolted the New York Managers Guild today, opening the dikes for a cascade of other withdrawals which appeared to give state athletic commissioner Julius Helfand an undisputed victory in the boxing "war."

"The guild is broken," said Helfand, militant chairman of the state athletic commission. "This minute. Right now. The news if wonderful."

Weill announced in Los Angeles that he was pulling out of the New York guild, an affiliate of the International Boxing Guild, which threatened to defy a commission directive ending in effect the guild's usefulness after Jan. 16.

"Today I sent my resignation to the New York Managers Guild," Weill said. "I am going along with Julius Helfand and the New York state boxing commission.

"I wanted to do it. I have no other comment. The action speaks for itself."

Minutes after Weill's announcement, Chick Wergeles, an associate, said he, too, had sent his resignation into the manager's group.

Then other managers, waiting for a big break, made similar moves. Hymie Wallman, Bobby Gleason and Eddie Walker announced that they would fulfill any requirements demanded by Helfand.

Another, who declined to be identified at this time, said: "the back of the organization is broken. I'm going out, too. I live in New York. Here's where I make my living I have to get along."

"Weill has the heavyweight champion, he's the bell-cow," added another. "There'll be a wholesale break for the doors now. Everybody's going to want to get right with the commissioner."

The first real break in the ring war between the New York managers and commissioner Helfand came yesterday when Jim Norris, of the powerful International Boxing Club, announced he would continue promoting fights in New York and "would back Helfand 100 per cent."

Later in the day Tex Sullivan and Willie Gilzenberg, promoters of the Monday night fights at St. Nick's who had pulled up stakes and headed for Baltimore, received another blow from Gov. Theodore McKeldin and the Maryland commission. At the governor's insistence, the commission revoked a license given the promoters earlier for Baltimore fights.

"If we had known Mr. Norris' stand I doubt if we would have comtemplated a move," said Sullivan today. "But under the conditions we had no other choice."

"If Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Gilzenberg, Sullivan's associate, want to reconsider, we'll be glad to hear them at the commission. As I have said, it's now a matter of their association with criminals or not."

Helfand has mentioned criminal associations without making any specific charges.

The commissioner exploded the current controversy when he outlawed the New York guild, declaring that after Jan. 16 managers belonging to the organization would be acceptable for fights in the state.

The New York guild voted 66-0 last Thursday night to defy Helfand's edict and not disband. It appeared momentarily as if big-time fighting in New York might be dead for a long time.

Then came the back-breaking moves of Norris and later Weill.

Managers of the lesser known fighters, the preliminary boys, are almost compelled to give in now that Norris has announced a pro-Helfand stand. They wouldn't be able to take their boys out of the state for the purses offered.

Happy Go Lucky Home 1st In Old Hickory Handicap

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 7 (AP) — H. G. Bockman's Happy Go Lucky opened his 1956 campaign today with stirring victory in the $5,000 Old Hickory Handicap at the Fair Grounds.

The seven-year-old son of Halpal, whose last triumph was in the Clark Handicap at Churchill Downs' fall meeting, stayed with the pacesetting By Far in the early running and was a length in front as they crossed the finish line.

Happy Go Lucky, a 9-5 favorite with the crowd of 13,581 returned $5.20, $3.60 and $3.00. By Far paid $6.20 and $4.20, and Lebanon Lad returned $4.00.

The Old Hickory commemorates Gen. Andrew Jackson's victory over the British in the Battle of New Orleans on Jan. 8, 1815.

By Far, from T. A. Grissom stable took the lead in the mile and a sixteenth feature as the seven-horse field left the gate. Happy Go Lucky took up the chase as they swept past the grandstand for the first time. The two raced heads apart through the back stretch.

Jockey L. Cook steered Happy Go Lucky into the lead as the field swung into the stretch, but By Far stuck with him. The two roared down the stretch leaving the field strung out behind. Lebanon Lad, flying the colors of the Maggio-Gregory stable was a well beaten third, four lengths behind By Far.

Happy Go Lucky toured the distance in a creditable 1:45 3-5, a little more than one second off the track record.

The Old Hickory heralds the big purse portion of the Fair Grounds 83-day meeting. The $10,000 added Pelleteri Handicap comes up Jan. 28 and the $50,000 New Orleans Handicap and $40,000 Louisiana Derby are scheduled near the end of the meeting.

Mon-Pharo from the Reverie Knoll Farm scored a half-length victory in the secondary feature the $2,500 Covington purse. Mon-Pharco, who showed an unproductive on Chicago tracks, returned $30.40, $14.40 and $7.60.

Dixiana Stables' Blue Hawaii finished second and returned $18.20 and $9.40. French Bleu paid $5.20 to show.

Scarr, Mystery Mate Vs. Curtis Tag Team

Jack and George Curtis return as a tag team Tuesday night at Gus Kallio's Arena, when they meet the Red Scarr - mystery partner combine. The tag relay main is over the 90-minute time limit, and will require two of three falls to win.

It will be preceded by two short bouts, each of which will have a ten-minute time limit and require two of three falls to win.

The Curtis brothers won the feature match last week here, defeating Scarr and Joe McCarthy, but were challenged after the match by the white-hooded Scarr, who felt that he could bring a partner of his own choosing this Tuesday who could handle the popular Vicksburgers.

Jack accepted the challenge for he and his brother, and, as a result, Scarr brings a grappler of his own choosing Tuesday. One, whom he claims has a style and technique neither Curtis will know how to contend with.

This remains to be seen, for there are few pro grapplers in the southeast who haven't tangled with the Curtis brothers here and there.

NAACP Urged To Drop Efforts For School Bill Riders

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 —UP— Mrs. Agnes E. Meyer, prominent educator and sociologist, urged Saturday that the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People drop its efforts to write an anti-segregation clause into a federal school building bill.

Failure to do this, she implied, will kill federal aid to school construction despite an otherwise unfavorable outlook.

"You cannot desegregate schools that do not exist," Mrs. Meyer told the Washington branch of the American Association of University Women in a prepared speech.

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-N. Y.), one of three Negro congressmen, has said he will offer an amendment to the pending House school aid bill to prohibit use of federal funds in school districts holding fast to segregation.

Powell claims enough support for adoption of the proposal. It was defeated in the House Education and Labor committee last year.

The aid bill is now in the House Rules committee awaiting clearance for floor action. Opponents of Powell's plan are hoping the committee will send the measure to the floor with a ban against amendments. However, even if it passes the House, it faces big hurdles in the Senate where there is no rule against amendments and no debate limitation.

A southern filibuster is certain if there are no safeguards against mingling the races.

reply, "Mrs. Brown pays me a half dollar for an afternoon's work. Then next day, Sunday, the minister expects me to put it in the collection plate. When next Saturday comes, Mrs. Brown puts this fifty cent piece in my hand.

"Well what about that" the friend asked.

"I figure it out that neither I or the Lord aint making a cent and I have all that work to do" he replied.

Suddenly becoming an oil millionaire, he went into a music store to purchase the best violin in the place. A handsome time-worn old violin was produced and he was told that it was made in the year 1730.

'Made in 1730?" the customer interrogated.

"Yes that is correct."

"Well tell me is the company in business yet?"

"Of course that can not be expected now," was the reply.

"Well that wont serve me. What would I ever do for spare parts?" he concluded.

Once again in a row, there will be another Monday holiday, this time on January 9, which followed in immediate sequence holidays on December 26 and January 2.

It has all come about this time by the fact that the Battle of New Orleans is being observed, the date of January 8, being on Sunday the next day January 9, is a holiday.

Banks and courts will observe the day and dont look for mail. Louisiana is the only state that bothers about observing the Battle of New Orleans.

Jesse S. Heard Jr. age 10, son of Judge Jesse S. Heard has already demonstrated his skill as hunter. He shot a deer at the Rogers - Howard camp on the Tensas River and now he will have a deer head, antlers and all, in his bedroom.

"Buzz" - that's his nickname, has hunted and fished at the side of his father ever since he learned to walk.

His playmates may be a bit jealous, but they will recover from it and it was quite an achievement for a 10-year-old.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Russell will next month observe the first anniversary of their marriage. As all know, he is unfortunate in that he has a crippled leg and his wife is totally blind, but they are happy just the same and they are residing in a Louis Lock apartment 14-B.

Bob Harmon is trying to decide whether or not to venture to Boston in February at a group meeting he wants badly to attend.

"Gets mighty cold there in February, and I know that full well when I played professional ball, I used to get to Boston several times each winter," he declared.

Max Kulcke was quite interested in the story in this column about the German girl who wants to emigrate to the United States if she get a sponsor.

'Her letter reads like she is worth helping out," Max Kulcke said. Also he says she lives in the same city where his sister is now making her home.

GIVE CONCERT — Mary Louise Boehm, pianist, and Kees Kooper, violinist, will be heard in concert Friday at 8:15 p.m. in Brown Auditorium on the Northeast State campus. The internationally known musicians are appearing under sponsorship of the college's Eta Iota chapter of a national professional music fraternity.

2 Internationally Known Musicians Will Appear Here

Two internationally known musicians will be presented in concert at Northeast State Friday at 8:15 p.m. in Brown Auditorium. The feature, which is open to the public without cost, is under sponsorship of the college's Eta Iota chapter of Phi Mu Aalpha Sinfonia, national professional music fraternity.

Kees Kooper, violinist, and Mary Louise Boehm, pianist, will be heard in concert. Both have won wide recognition in the United States and abroad.

Kooper, a native of Amsterdam, Holland, studied for several years with the famous teacher Oskar Back, and later went to Paris, where he worked with the noted violin virtuoso Rene Benedetti.

The artist has played many recitals, as well as radio and orchestra performances in the Netherlands, Belgium, France and the United States. Teaching and a great number of lecture-recitals are among his professional experiences.

Honors for Kooiper have included scholarships and awards from the French and Dutch governments, and the Prince Bernhard Foundation. In 1951 he was a prize winner in the International Queen Elizabeth of Belgium Contest, held in Belgium.

The young Hollander came to the United States in 1951 on a scholarship from Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., where he also received the master of music degree. He presently is a member of the music faculty of Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.

Miss Boehm, also a member of the Peabody College music faculty, concertizes extensively throughout the United States. Her appearances this season in Europe mark her third tour of that country. She will play in London, Paris, Amsterdam. After a brilliant and wide concert tour of Spain during the fall season, Miss Boehm will return for a second time. Praise was unlimited, for critics acclaimed her as one of the outstanding pianists of her generation.

The artist's training has been of highest order. Born in Iowa, she began the study of piano with her mother, herself an accomplished pianist. Later she attended Northwestern University, and after graduation she continued for three years to study with the eminent pianist Robert Casadesus, both in the United States and France. Private study culminated in two years of work with the great German pianist, Walter Gieseking, and Stephen Stein in Paris. Her years of study came as a result of being awarded two years in succession the Wolley Fellowship and the Fullbright Travel Grant.

Sugar Marketing Quota Hike Seen

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 —Sen. Wallace Bennett (R-Utah) predicted today Congress would enact quickly a bill to increase marketing quotas for sugar producers of the United States.

Bennett, whose home state of Utah is a major producer of beet sugar, has been one of the leaders in the fight, begun early last year, for a larger share of the U. S. market for producers in domestic areas.

"Since the Senate Finance Committee has called public hearings on the measure starting Monday, Jan. 16, it is quite possible the measure will be ready for action by the Senate Jan. 23," the senator said.

"The likelihood of prompt action is particularly good since all domestic sugar producers, both cane and beet, and the refiners, are in substantial agreement with the administration position on sugar legislation."

GIVE WHEAT TO PAKISTAN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 — UP— The International Co-operation Administration announced Saturday that 2,240,000 bushels of surplus U. S. wheat will be shipped to Pakistan for relief of flood victims.

Democrats Seek Majority Vote Among Negroes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 —UP— Democratic party strategists are banking on majority support of the Negro vote in the November presidential election, it was learned Saturday.

The party wooed and won the colored vote in the depression years of the 1930s. The Democratic national committee is now completing surveys which spokesmen believe will show that the non-white population, mostly Negro, is still loyal to the party.

They say the studies prove the Negro's support of Democratic candidates and policies "is not just on civil rights and civil liberties, but also in the economic sense."

In 1950, the year of the last census, there were 15,042,286 Negroes in a population of 150,697,361. While current figures are not available, Census Bureau officials say the Negro population has increased steadily, which means its voting potential also has increased.

The current overall population is more than 166 million. In the 1952 election, 61,552,000 popular votes were cast. President Eisenhower got 33,779,000 or about 55 per cent. Adlai E. Stevenson got 27,315,000.

The studies, which Democratic planners consider reasonably reliable, indicate the Negro is voting in increasing numbers in relation to the whites and that he votes more consistently for Democratic candidates.

Two Birmingham Negroes Plan To Enter Ala. Univ.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 7 (AP) —Two Birmingham Negro women plan to complete registration at the University of Alabama Jan. 31, their attorney said today.

A U. S. district court injunction directing the university to admit the women to the school was upheld last week by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans. If enrolled they would be the first members of their race to be accepted as students.

University attorneys have asked the appeals court to withhold enforcement of the injunction until a rehearing of the order.

The court of appeals action paved the way to opening the school to other Negroes by upholding the ruling of U. S. Dist. Judge Hobart Grooms that the case is a class action.

That means that the court order applies not only to the women but to all others similarly situated.

The women are Arthurine Lucy and Polly Anny Myers Hudson, both graduates of Miles College, a church-supported Negro school in Birmingham.

Northeast State Spring Semester Registration Set

Registration for the spring semester at Northeast State is scheduled February 1 and 2, with classes holding their first regular meetings on February 3, the registrar's office announced Saturday.

Enrollment for special Saturday morning classes is set for February 4. Information regarding courses offered during the late afternoon, evening and Saturday will be released at an early date.

High school graduates who plan to enter Northeast at the opening of the spring term are requested to bring their high school transcripts of credits. Students transferring from other colleges should also have transcripts of work done in order to enroll without any delay, according to the director of admissions.

Men and women who intend to attend Northeast under the G. I. Bill of Rights are requested to bring their certificates of eligibility to facilitate registration.

Curricula offered during the second semester provide enough beginning courses to make entrance at this time practical for the high school student graduating at midterm or planning to begin college work at this period.

The variety of courses also permits a wide choice for persons who do not plan to work toward a degree, but who are interested in continuing study in a particular field.

Special classes offered on Saturday and in the late afternoon and night have become popular with persons in numerous professions. Many in-service teachers are taking advantage of these schedules to continue work on the bachelor's degree. Others are enrolling for subjects to make them eligible to become certified in certain fields of work.

NAACP Urged To Drop Efforts For School Bill Riders

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 —UP— Mrs. Agnes E. Meyer, prominent educator and sociologist, urged Saturday that the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People drop its efforts to write an anti-segregation clause into a federal school building bill.

Failure to do this, she implied, will kill federal aid to school construction despite an otherwise unfavorable outlook.

"You cannot desegregate schools that do not exist," Mrs. Meyer told the Washington branch of the American Association of University Women in a prepared speech.

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-N. Y.), one of three Negro congressmen, has said he will offer an amendment to the pending House school aid bill to prohibit use of federal funds in school districts holding fast to segregation.

Powell claims enough support for adoption of the proposal. It was defeated in the House Education and Labor committee last year.

The aid bill is now in the House Rules committee awaiting clearance for floor action. Opponents of Powell's plan are hoping the committee will send the measure to the floor with a ban against amendments. However, even if it passes the House, it faces big hurdles in the Senate where there is no rule against amendments and no debate limitation.

A southern filibuster is certain if there are no safeguards against mingling the races.

reply, "Mrs. Brown pays me a half dollar for an afternoon's work. Then next day, Sunday, the minister expects me to put it in the collection plate. When next Saturday comes, Mrs. Brown puts this fifty cent piece in my hand.

"Well what about that" the friend asked.

"I figure it out that neither I or the Lord aint making a cent and I have all that work to do" he replied.

Suddenly becoming an oil millionaire, he went into a music store to purchase the best violin in the place. A handsome time-worn old violin was produced and he was told that it was made in the year 1730.

'Made in 1730?" the customer interrogated.

"Yes that is correct."

"Well tell me is the company in business yet?"

"Of course that can not be expected now," was the reply.

"Well that wont serve me. What would I ever do for spare parts?" he concluded.

Once again in a row, there will be another Monday holiday, this time on January 9, which followed in immediate sequence holidays on December 26 and January 2.

It has all come about this time by the fact that the Battle of New Orleans is being observed, the date of January 8, being on Sunday the next day January 9, is a holiday.

Banks and courts will observe the day and dont look for mail. Louisiana is the only state that bothers about observing the Battle of New Orleans.

Max Kulcke was quite interested in the story in this column about the German girl who wants to emigrate to the United States if she get a sponsor.

'Her letter reads like she is worth helping out," Max Kulcke said. Also he says she lives in the same city where his sister is now making her home.

GIVE CONCERT — Mary Louise Boehm, pianist, and Kees Kooper, violinist, will be heard in concert Friday at 8:15 p.m. in Brown Auditorium on the Northeast State campus. The internationally known musicians are appearing under sponsorship of the college's Eta Iota chapter of a national professional music fraternity.

2 Internationally Known Musicians Will Appear Here

Two internationally known musicians will be presented in concert at Northeast State Friday at 8:15 p.m. in Brown Auditorium. The feature, which is open to the public without cost, is under sponsorship of the college's Eta Iota chapter of Phi Mu Aalpha Sinfonia, national professional music fraternity.

Kees Kooper, violinist, and Mary Louise Boehm, pianist, will be heard in concert. Both have won wide recognition in the United States and abroad.

Kooper, a native of Amsterdam, Holland, studied for several years with the famous teacher Oskar Back, and later went to Paris, where he worked with the noted violin virtuoso Rene Benedetti.

The artist has played many recitals, as well as radio and orchestra performances in the Netherlands, Belgium, France and the United States. Teaching and a great number of lecture-recitals are among his professional experiences.

Honors for Kooper have included scholarships and awards from the French and Dutch governments, and the Prince Bernhard Foundation. In 1951 he was a prize winner in the International Queen Elizabeth of Belgium Contest, held in Belgium.

The young Hollander came to the United States in 1951 on a scholarship from Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., where he also received the master of music degree. He presently is a member of the music faculty of Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.

Miss Boehm, also a member of the Peabody College music faculty, concertizes extensively throughout the United States. Her appearances this season in Europe mark her third tour of that country. She will play in London, Paris, Amsterdam. After a brilliant and wide concert tour of Spain during the fall season, Miss Boehm will return for a second time. Praise was unlimited, for critics acclaimed her as one of the outstanding pianists of her generation.

The artist's training has been of highest order. Born in Iowa, she began the study of piano with her mother, herself an accomplished pianist. Later she attended Northwestern University, and after graduation she continued for three years to study with the eminent pianist Robert Casadesus, both in the United States and France. Private study culminated in two years of work with the great German pianist, Walter Gieseking, and Stephen Stein in Paris. Her years of study came as a result of being awarded two years in succession the Wolley Fellowship and the Fullbright Travel Grant.

Sugar Marketing Quota Hike Seen

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 —Sen. Wallace Bennett (R-Utah) predicted today Congress would enact quickly a bill to increase marketing quotas for sugar producers of the United States.

Bennett, whose home state of Utah is a major producer of beet sugar, has been one of the leaders in the fight, begun early last year, for a larger share of the U. S. market for producers in domestic areas.

"Since the Senate Finance Committee has called public hearings on the measure starting Monday, Jan. 16, it is quite possible the measure will be ready for action by the Senate Jan. 23," the senator said.

"The likelihood of prompt action is particularly good since all domestic sugar producers, both cane and beet, and the refiners, are in substantial agreement with the administration position on sugar legislation."

GIVE WHEAT TO PAKISTAN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 — UP— The International Co-operation Administration announced Saturday that 2,240,000 bushels of surplus U. S. wheat will be shipped to Pakistan for relief of flood victims.

Democrats Seek Majority Vote Among Negroes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 —UP— Democratic party strategists are banking on majority support of the Negro vote in the November presidential election, it was learned Saturday.

The party wooed and won the colored vote in the depression years of the 1930s. The Democratic national committee is now completing surveys which spokesmen believe will show that the non-white population, mostly Negro, is still loyal to the party.

They say the studies prove the Negro's support of Democratic candidates and policies "is not just on civil rights and civil liberties, but also in the economic sense."

In 1950, the year of the last census, there were 15,042,286 Negroes in a population of 150,697,361. While current figures are not available, Census Bureau officials say the Negro population has increased steadily, which means its voting potential also has increased.

The current overall population is more than 166 million. In the 1952 election, 61,552,000 popular votes were cast. President Eisenhower got 33,779,000 or about 55 per cent. Adlai E. Stevenson got 27,315,000.

The studies, which Democratic planners consider reasonably reliable, indicate the Negro is voting in increasing numbers in relation to the whites and that he votes more consistently for Democratic candidates.

Two Birmingham Negroes Plan To Enter Ala. Univ.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 7 (AP) —Two Birmingham Negro women plan to complete registration at the University of Alabama Jan. 31, their attorney said today.

A U. S. district court injunction directing the university to admit the women to the school was upheld last week by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans. If enrolled they would be the first members of their race to be accepted as students.

University attorneys have asked the appeals court to withhold enforcement of the injunction until a rehearing of the order.

The court of appeals action paved the way to opening the school to other Negroes by upholding the ruling of U. S. Dist. Judge Hobart Grooms that the case is a class action.

That means that the court order applies not only to the women but to all others similarly situated.

The women are Arthurine Lucy and Polly Anny Myers Hudson,both graduates of Miles College, a church-supported Negro school in Birmingham.

Northeast State Spring Semester Registration Set

Registration for the spring semester at Northeast State is scheduled February 1 and 2, with classes holding their first regular meetings on February 3, the registrar's office announced Saturday.

Enrollment for special Saturday morning classes is set for February 4. Information regarding courses offered during the late afternoon, evening and Saturday will be released at an early date.

High school graduates who plan to enter Northeast at the opening of the spring term are requested to bring their high school transcripts of credits. Students transferring from other colleges should also have transcripts of work done in order to enroll without any delay, according to the director of admissions.

Men and women who intend to attend Northeast under the G. I. Bill of Rights are requested to bring their certificates of eligibility to facilitate registration.

Curricula offered during the second semester provide enough beginning courses to make entrance at this time practical for the high school student graduating at midterm or planning to begin college work at this period.

The variety of courses also permits a wide choice for persons who do not plan to work toward a degree, but who are interested in continuing study in a particular field.

Special classes offered on Saturday and in the late afternoon and night have become popular with persons in numerous professions. Many in-service teachers are taking advantage of these schedules to continue work on the bachelor's degree. Others are enrolling for subjects to make them eligible to become certified in certain fields of work.

BELMONT DRIVE

TALK about a "sight for sore eyes" . . . take a few minutes this p.m. and let us show you this stunning new brick with 1460 sq. feet! It's situated on an acre and a quarter that's loaded with trees . . . has 3 large bedrooms and a paneled den . . . the 13x17 living room has an impressive fireplace and wall-to-wall carpeting . . . has 2 complete baths . . . central heating . . . attic fan . . . double attached garage with large "hobby shop" in rear and loads of other features!

ADA

IT'S THE most! It's got trees on the lot, it's only a year old and has three nice bedrooms; 9x13 dining area; kitchen loaded with cabinets; masonite bath; carport with storage, attic fan and central heating. It's right in back of the new Highland Park school — and how 'bout a look? $600 down on a G. I. loan including closing costs makes the move.

LEE AVENUE

CAN you imagine — EIGHT rooms — and selling for only $9,989 ($1,539 down) and only 6 years old! You can really live in this three bedroom, separate dining room, 8x28 enclosed back porch, 8½x14 breakfast room home! There's a single detached garage with storeroom; hardwood floors; 48" attic fan and the lot has trees!

STUART STREET

GRANT

FIRST TIME on the market — and only $925 (including closing costs) buys this two bedroom home located on a 60x200 lot (and just ½ block from the bayou)!! Nice size living room (air conditioner in wall goes with the house); separate dining room; good closet space; central heating; and asphalt tile floors. Will show at your convenience.

HALSELL DRIVE

HOW WOULD you like an acre literally covered with stately oak trees and a matchless year-old 3-bedroom home snuggled up under them? Well . . . we've "got the goods" and what goods! Among the roomy sq. footage are 3 good-sized bedrooms; an imposing pine - paneled living room; also a pine-paneled dining area; well - arranged kitchen with built-in breakfast nook; has a screened breezeway opening off the kitchen; carport with storage and a 12'x18' workshop that's new! We'll gladly show today!

HUDSON LANE

HERE'S a reasonably priced and well located home on the northside with that "elusive" separate dining room as well as these features: recently completely re-modeled; a pleasing shade of green asbestos siding; 2 large bedrooms (one's 18x11 with double closets); has roomy 13x24 living room; and a host of other features that we'll gladly show today! It's on a corner lot, and priced at only $10,500.

DICK TAYLOR

YOU'LL BE glad you called when you see this above—the—average 2 bedroom white siding home with more than 950 sq. ft. of well arranged living area with its sparkling oak floors, fenced yard, and fig trees. Only 5 blocks to school.

ARKANSAS ROAD

UNCONSCIOUSLY, or consciously, you've probably admired this "show place" in the past while driving past! And for good reasons, for its 1604 sq. feet of living area contain many an exciting feature! Such as: 3 unusually large bedrooms; a spacious 25x14 living room; a well-arranged 10x20 kitchen with washer plumbing, outlet for electric and gas stove; American Kitchen cabinets; the bath is a pleasing pink ceramic tile; the floors are glistening oak; it's only 3 years old; has a huge double attached garage with overhead doors that would make one splendid "rumpus" room with just a little effort! It's all on a 100'x150' corner lot in a wonderful neighborhood and only $2700 down makes the move on an FHA loan or only $750 down on a G. I. loan!

HAMILTON

WHAT COULD be finer than to own your own home? And, if it's West Monroe you are thinking about — think about this one, 'cause it's only $8,500 and $925 (including ALL) buys it! It's on a corner lot and has 2 bedrooms, handy kitchen, separate dining room, living room and enclosed garage with overhead door. Also, hardwood floors, Venetian blinds, attic fan, and floor furnace. Youngsters can walk to school! Will show at your beck and call!

SOUTH 2ND

THE APPRAISAL on this is $9,500 but, . . . but, it's selling for $8,600!! Here's a little info about it: 13x17 living room; separate dining room; nice kitchen; 2 big bedrooms; breakfast room; front screened porch; detached garage; attic fan and floor furnace; and . . . it's got a fenced in back yard with trees! Just $1,225 (including "all") will handle it. We've got the key in case you're interested!

Police Jury In East Carroll Receives $30,000

LAKE PROVIDENCE, Jan. 7 (Special) — The East Carroll Parish Police Jury has received $30,000 from the state treasurer for gravel surfacing of roads which had been approved by Senator A. L. Sevier and Representative Vail M. Delony.

This $30,000 is a part of the annual allotment of $50,000. Twenty thousand dollars comes directly from state contract and the $30,000 to the parish treasury.

The police jury has plans to open a road down Bayou Macon, beginning just south of the Corbin Ferry road and intersecting close to the Elmwood loop road, which is to be blacktopped.

Representative Delony states that the state has surfaced, during 1955, the Monticello - Waverly road, a distance of approximately six miles, at a cost of $119,000 and has under contract the Elmwood loop road, a distance of eight miles at $150,000.

Plans Made For Defense Tower

LAKE PROVIDENCE, Jan. 7 (Special) — Dr. Carl A. Kelly, East Carroll parish director of Civil Defense, reports that an observation tower will be erected on the levee, just off the business district, at a cost of $600.

The contract has been awarded to the East Carroll Lumber company. King Trieschmann, deputy director of the Ground Observer Corps and Crawford A. Rose, director, are completing plans for the erection of this tower, the first of its kind in this area. The work is to begin about January 15 and will be completed in about two weeks.

Permission for the erection of the tower on the levee has been secured from both the Fifth District Levee Board and the U. S. Engineers, Vicksburg, Miss.

The parish police jury has contributed $300 of the amount, and a polling of town councilmen seems to assure a like amount from that group.

Rifle Team At N.S.C. Sets Match

NATCHITOCHES, Jan. 7 (Special) — The Northwestern State College ROTC Rifle team will compete in a shoulder-to shoulder firing match against the Centenary College ROTC at 1 p.m. Monday on the ROTC rifle range located in the NSC ROTC Armory.

Dedication Set Early On Sunday At Church Here

A typographical error in the paper told that Bishop Paul Martin would lay the cornerstone at Memorial Methodist church at 8:30 p.m. Sunday. It should have read at 8:30 a.m. Sunday.

After this exercise, the Bishop will go to Oak Ridge and officiate in the dedication of a new unit for the Methodist church there.

As the bishop also dedicated a rectory at the Claiborne Methodist church near West Monroe Saturday night, he has had a full week end of exercises.

Elizabeth Brannum Trass is director of the Colored March of Dimes.

Gilfoil announced that the dates for the 1956 drive are January 2 through January 31, with no specified parish quota being given.

As a stopgap measure to meet this community's acute need for funds to continue care of polio patients, a check for $6,200 from March of Dimes headquarters in New York was received here this week by the local chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

"This money," explained Sam Rubin, Jr., chapter chairman, "is an advance supplied by chapters operating in the black. When it was realized that more than 1,200 chapters would exhaust the March of Dimes funds available to them, National Foundation headquarters called in funds from chapters which had surpluses."

The check received by the Ouachita parish chapter will help meet long overdue bills for providing treatment and equipment for 34 polio patients in this area, he said. Rubin predicted that because many of these patients will continue to need help, the chapter would be forced to ask for additional funds in the near future.

Ouachita parish in September, 1955 received an advance of $7,775 from the national foundation. The check received this week for $6,200 will pay bills for the month of December.

R. Q. Cole, treasurer of the Ouachita Parish chapter, said that during 1955 a total of $32,054.05 was spent in Ouachita parish on polio cases.

The 1956 March of Dimes drive got underway in Ouachita parish on January 3 and will continue through January 31. This year's financial drive is headed by John Luffey.

Miss. Governor To Speak In Rayville Jan. 20

RAYVILLE, Jan. 7 (Special) — Two state governors will be included on the Distinguished Service Awards banquet here January 20 under the sponsorship of the Rayville Junior Chamber of Commerce.

J. P. Coleman, newly elected governor of Mississippi, will be the principal speaker for the banquet. He will be inaugurated on January 18.

Governor Robert F. Kennon will make the introduction of Governor Coleman.

Leroy Jordan, banquet chairman, said that "Young Man of the Year Award" will also be a highlight of the affair.

Centenary Band To Give Concert

SHREVEPORT, Jan. 7 (Special) —The Centenary College band, directed by B. P. Causey, will present two concerts in Monroe and West Monroe Thursday morning and afternoon.

Causey said the aggregation will present a 45-minute concert at 10:10 a.m. in the auditorium of the Ouachita Parish High School and an hour-long concert at 2 p.m. in the auditorium of West Monroe High School. Both concerts will include varied selections of classical, semi-classical and martial music.

The band also will play during half-time ceremonies at the Centenary - Louisiana Tech basketball game during the evening at the Tech gymnasium. The group will travel by chartered bus and will return to Shreveport immediately after the basketball game.

BELMONT DRIVE
TALK about a "sight for sore eyes" . . . take a few minutes this p.m. and let us show you this stunning new brick with 1460 sq. feet! It's situated on an acre and a quarter that's loaded with trees . . . has 3 large bedrooms and a paneled den . . . the 13x17 living room has an impressive fireplace and wall-to-wall carpeting . . . has 2 complete baths . . . central heating . . . attic fan . . . double attached garage with large "hobby shop" in rear and loads of other features!
ADA
IT'S THE most! It's got trees on the lot, it's only a year old and has three nice bedrooms; 9x13 dining area; kitchen loaded with cabinets; maasote bath; carport with storage, attic fan and central heating. It's right in back of the new Highland Park school — and how 'bout a look? $600 down on a G. I. loan including closing costs makes the move.
LEE AVENUE
CAN you imagine — EIGHT rooms — and selling for only $9,989 ($1,539 down) and only 6 years old! You can really live in this three bedroom, separate dining room, 8x28 enclosed back porch, 8½x14 breakfast room home! There's a single detached garage with storeroom; hardwood floors; 48" attic fan and the lot has trees!
STUART STREET
GRANT
FIRST TIME on the market — and only $925 (including closing costs) buys this two bedroom home located on a 60x200 lot (and just ½ block from the bayou)!! Nice size living room (air conditioner in wall goes with the house); separate dining room; good closet space; central heating; and asphalt tile floors. Will show at your convenience.
HALSELL DRIVE
HOW WOULD you like an acre literally covered with stately oak trees and a matchless year-old 3-bedroom home snuggled up under them? Well . . . we've "got the goods" and what goods! Among the roomy sq. footage are 3 good-sized bedrooms; an imposing pine - paneled living room; also a pine-paneled dining area; well - arranged kitchen with built-in breakfast nook; has a screened breezeway opening off the kitchen; carport with storage and a 12'x18' workshop that's new! We'll gladly show today!
HUDSON LANE
HERE'S a reasonably priced and well located home on the northside with that "elusive" separate dining room as well as these features: recently completely re-modeled; a pleasing shade of green asbestos siding; 2 large bedrooms (one's 18x11 with double closets); has roomy 13x24 living room; and a host of other features that we'll gladly show today! It's on a corner lot, and priced at only $10,500.
DICK TAYLOR
ARKANSAS ROAD
UNCONSCIOUSLY, or consciously, you've probably admired this "show place" in the past while driving past! And for good reasons, for its 1604 sq. feet of living area contain many an exciting feature! Such as: 3 unusually large bedrooms; a spacious 25x14 living room; a well-arranged 10x20 kitchen with washer plumbing, outlet for electric and gas stove; American Kitchen cabinets; the bath is a pleasing pink ceramic tile; the floors are glistening oak; it's only 3 years old; has a huge double attached garage with overhead doors that would make one splendid "rumpus" room with just a little effort! It's all on a 100'x150' corner lot in a wonderful neighborhood and only $2700 down makes the move on an FHA loan or only $750 down on a G. I. loan!
HAMILTON
WHAT COULD be finer than to own your own home? And, if it's West Monroe you are thinking about — think about this one, 'cause it's only $8,500 and $925 (including ALL) buys it! It's on a corner lot and has 2 bedrooms, handy kitchen, separate dining room, living room and enclosed garage with overhead door. Also, hardwood floors, Venetian blinds, attic fan, and floor furnace. Youngsters can walk to school! Will show at your beck and call!
SOUTH 2ND
THE APPRAISAL on this is $9,500 but, . . . but, it's selling for $8,600!! Here's a little info about it: 13x17 living room; separate dining room; nice kitchen; 2 big bedrooms; breakfast room; front screened porch; detached garage; attic fan and floor furnace; and . . . it's got a fenced in back yard with trees! Just $1,225 (including "all") will handle it. We've got the key in case you're interested!

Police Jury In East Carroll Receives $30,000

LAKE PROVIDENCE, Jan. 7 (Special) — The East Carroll Parish Police Jury has received $30,000 from the state treasurer for gravel surfacing of roads which had been approved by Senator A. L. Sevier and Representative Vall M. Delony.

This $30,000 is a part of the annual allotment of $50,000. Twenty thousand dollars comes directly from state contract and the $30,000 to the parish treasury.

The police jury has plans to open a road down Bayou Macon, beginning just south of the Corbin Ferry road and intersecting close to the Elmwood loop road, which is to be blacktopped.

Representative Delony states that the state has surfaced, during 1955, the Monticello - Waverly road, a distance of approximately six miles, at a cost of $119,000 and has under contract the Elmwood loop road, a distance of eight miles at $150,000.

Plans Made For Defense Tower

LAKE PROVIDENCE, Jan. 7 (Special) — Dr. Carl A. Kelly, East Carroll parish director of Civil Defense, reports that an observation tower will be erected on the levee, just off the business district, at a cost of $600.

The contract has been awarded to the East Carroll Lumber company. King Trieschmann, deputy director of the Ground Observer Corps and Crawford A. Rose, director, are completing plans for the erection of this tower, the first of its kind in this area. The work is to begin about January 15 and will be completed in about two weeks.

Permission for the erection of the tower on the levee has been secured from both the Fifth District Levee Board and the U. S. Engineers, Vicksburg, Miss.

The parish police jury has contributed $300 of the amount, and a polling of town councilmen seems to assure a like amount from that group.

Rifle Team At N.S.C. Sets Match

Dedication Set Early On Sunday At Church Here

A typographical error in the paper told that Bishop Paul Martin would lay the cornerstone at Memorial Methodist church at 8:30 p.m. Sunday. It should have read at 8:30 a.m. Sunday.

After this exercise, the Bishop will go to Oak Ridge and officiate in the dedication of a new unit for the Methodist church there.

As the bishop also dedicated a rectory at the Claiborne Methodist church near West Monroe Saturday night, he has had a full week end of exercises.

As a stopgap measure to meet this community's acute need for funds to continue care of polio patients, a check for $6,200 from March of Dimes headquarters in New York was received here this week by the local chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

"This money," explained Sam Rubin, Jr., chapter chairman, "is an advance supplied by chapters operating in the black. When it was realized that more than 1,200 chapters would exhaust the March of Dimes funds available to them, National Foundation headquarters called in funds from chapters which had surpluses."

The check received by the Ouachita parish chapter will help meet long overdue bills for providing treatment and equipment for 34 polio patients in this area, he said. Rubin predicted that because many of these patients will continue to need help, the chapter would be forced to ask for additional funds in the near future.

Ouachita parish in September, 1955 received an advance of $7,775 from the national foundation. The check received this week for $6,200 will pay bills for the month of December.

R. Q. Cole, treasurer of the Ouachita Parish chapter, said that during 1955 a total of $32,054.05 was spent in Ouachita parish on polio cases.

The 1956 March of Dimes drive got underway in Ouachita parish on January 3 and will continue through January 31. This year's financial drive is headed by John Laffey.

Governor Robert F. Kennon will make the introduction of Governor Coleman.

Leroy Jordan, banquet chairman, said that "Young Man of the Year Award" will also be a highlight of the affair.

Centenary Band To Give Concert

SHREVEPORT, Jan. 7 (Special) —The Centenary College band, directed by B. P. Causey, will present two concerts in Monroe and West Monroe Thursday morning and afternoon.

Causey said the aggregation will present a 45-minute concert at 10:10 a.m. in the auditorium of the Ouachita Parish High School and an hour-long concert at 2 p.m. in the auditorium of West Monroe High School. Both concerts will include varied selections of classical, semi-classical and martial music.

The band also will play during half-time ceremonies at the Centenary - Louisiana Tech basketball game during the evening at the Tech gymnasium. The group will travel by chartered bus and will return to Shreveport immediately after the basketball game.

News From The Public Library

The librarian and the staff of the Ouachita Parish Public Library wish to take this opportunity to wish to each of our patrons a very happy New Year and to extend to those of you who are not familiar with the services of the library, a cordial invitation to make use of it during the coming year. We hope that many of you have made a New Year's resolution to read more during the year of 1956.

New books continue to arrive at the library. There are books for every taste and every type of reader. Among the new books of fiction received within the past week "Tender Victory" by Taylor Caldwell will undoubtedly be the most popular. This is the story of a young preacher who manages to inspire an entire community with religious and humanitarian and civic zeal. It is an inspiring story and teaches the lesson that tolerance is not confined to Protestant, Catholic or Jew, but is stronger for tolerance and cooperation. An ingratiating novel of modern New Delhi swirls about the matter of marriage by love or parental arrangement. It is a good family story and pictures well a changing society.

A friendly story of the Florida back country is "A Clear Place in the Sky" by Mary Freels Rosborough. It is the story of a group of people, all damaged in one way or another by the war who win back their sanity and understanding through helping one another. It has an interesting romance running through it. Readers of mystery stories will welcome another by the Lockridges called "Let Dead Enough Alone." If you want a very light love story, read "The Jeweled Sword" by Ruth Livingston Hill.

In the non-fiction field there is a great variety of new material. Devotees of the theatre will be interested in the play "Plain and Fancy" by Joseph Stein. This was a hit on the New York stage and makes interesting reading. "Prize Stories of 1956" by Paul Engle is a collection of the best short stories written during the year 1955. It contains some very fine writing.

Garden club members will be interested in two titles. One is called "Make Your Own Corsage, You Don't Need Orchids" by Dora Maud Aldridge. The other is titled "Bellingrath and Other Famous Gardens" by Katherine MacLeod.

In the field of science there are two new books "The Flying Saucer Conspiracy" by Donald Kehoe. The author is firmly convinced as to the existence of flying saucers and he is out to convince the public. Read the book and make your own decision. "Prospecting for Atomic Minerals" by Alvin W. Knoeer is another of the books written for the layman who wants to search for uranium and allied minerals. Who knows you might find them.

There are two delightful biographies, one very humorous and the other serious. The humorous one is called "I Love Her, That's Why" and is written by George Burns. It is the story of his life and of his love for his wife, Gracie Allen. Be sure to read this. The other is a biography of Julius Caesar written by Manuel Kmoroff. It gives a new light to the career of this interesting man.

Teachers will be especially interested in a new book called "Restoration of Learning" written by Arthur Eugene Bestor. This is a sequel to his earlier "Educational Wastelands" and is a more hopeful book.

"Questions Older People Ask" by Henriette Kish is a book that should be helpful to everyone who has older people in their families.

A perfectly beautiful book is "Newbery Medal Books; 1922-1955." This gives the history and acceptance papers of the authors of all of the Newbery medal books written during this period of years. This book should be especially interesting to students of children's literature.

The books mentioned in this article are typical of the material received each week at the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Visit us often and broaden your interests and knowledge.

Miss Williams Is Bride Of Jesse Ray Lee

An impressive nuptial ceremony, beautifully enhanced by the Christmas theme, was the Yuletide marriage of Miss Jo Ann Williams to Jesse Ray Lee, which was solemnized in the early evening hours of Tuesday, December twentieth. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Williams, of Mangham. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Lee of Alto, and is presently stationed in Germany with the United States Army.

MR. AND MRS. JESSE RAY LEE

A gleaming mass of candles illuminated the altar, where baskets of white gladioli and graceful white pine flanked the nuptial scene. White sprayed pine and magnolia leaves formed a bridal Christmas arrangement at the baptistry, with the soft light of gleaming tapers at each window also giving soft light.

A prenuptial concert was given by Sidney McKay, who sang "I Love You Truly," "How Do I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Miss Rennie Sanderson. Serving as candle lighters were Donnie Westor and James W. Lee, with "Cookie" Young, gowned in floor-length white taffeta, serving as flower girl. A Christmas bell of silver wire held her flowers.

The bride was given in marriage by Bennie Lee Williams, and was radiant in a formal bridal gown of white satin and chantilly lace. A crown of seed pearls held her veil of silk illusion, and she carried a white velvet covered prayer book surmounted by a white orchid, and a cluster of tiny white bells and satin ribbon steamers.

She was preceded down the aisle by her maid of honor, Miss Jerrene Bishop, who wore a waltz length gown of blue taffeta and net. A silver Christmas bell fashioned of wire net held her bouquet of feathered pink carnations, with fluffs of tulle and satin ribbon streamers.

The bridesmaids were Miss Peggy Sue Brown and Miss Eleanor Lee, both wearing gowns identical to that of the maid of honor. Their bouquets also were held in silver bells of wire net.

Attending the groom as best man was John David Boughton. Donnie Weston and James W. Lee served as ushers.

The mother of the bride was becomingly gowned in a faille dress of fall brown, accented by a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Lee chose for her son's wedding a fall model of blue crepe, with which she wore a corsage of white carnations.

A bridal reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the social rooms of the Lone Cherry Church. Arrangements of white sprayed pine throughout the reception rooms carried out the Christmas theme, and the bride's table was a lovely combination of the Christmas and bridal themes, where white poinsettias and white pine were flanked by gleaming white tapers. The wedding cake was beautifully decorated in the holiday theme.

Miss Jerrene Bishop presided at serving of the cake, and Mrs. H. L. Brown was in charge of the punch service. Mrs. Gladys Heath invited guests to sign the bride's book.

Serving as hostess at the bridal reception was Mrs. Leon Brown, who was charming in a becoming model of pink brocaed, with which she wore black accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

The young couple left immediately following the reception for a wedding trip to the south part of the state. For her going away ensemble, Mrs. Lee chose a suit of dark tweed, fashioned with a tux type jacket, and accented by hat and gloves of mauve pink. Her shoes and bag were black.

The bride attends the Bish Mathis Business Institute in Monroe. The groom is a member of the United States Army, stationed in Germany.

News From The Public Library

The librarian and the staff of the Ouachita Parish Public Library wish to take this opportunity to wish to each of our patrons a very happy New Year and to extend to those of you who are not familiar with the services of the library, a cordial invitation to make use of it during the coming year. We hope that many of you have made a New Year's resolution to read more during the year of 1956.

New books continue to arrive at the library. There are books for every taste and every type of reader. Among the new books of fiction received within the past week "Tender Victory" by Taylor Caldwell will undoubtedly be the most popular. This is the story of a young preacher who manages to inspire an entire community with religious and humanitarian and civic zeal. It is an inspiring story and teaches the lesson that tolerance is not confined to Protestant, Catholic or Jew, but is stronger for tolerance and cooperation. An ingratiating novel of modern New Delhi swirls about the matter of marriage by love or parental arrangement. It is a good family story and pictures well a changing society.

A friendly story of the Florida back country is "A Clear Place in the Sky" by Mary Freels Rosborough. It is the story of a group of people, all damaged in one way or another by the war who win back their sanity and understanding through helping one another. It has an interesting romance running through it. Readers of mystery stories will welcome another by the Lockridges called "Let Dead Enough Alone." If you want a very light love story, read "The Jeweled Sword" by Ruth Livingston Hill.

In the non-fiction field there is a great variety of new material. Devotees of the theatre will be interested in the play "Plain and Fancy" by Joseph Stein. This was a hit on the New York stage and makes interesting reading. "Prize Stories of 1956" by Paul Engle is a collection of the best short stories written during the year 1955. It contains some very fine writing.

Garden club members will be interested in two titles. One is called "Make Your Own Corsage, You Don't Need Orchids" by Dora Maud Aldridge. The other is titled "Bellingrath and Other Famous Gardens" by Katherine MacLeod.

In the field of science there are two new books "The Flying Saucer Conspiracy" by Donald Kehoe. The author is firmly convinced as to the existence of flying saucers and he is out to convince the public. Read the book and make your own decision. "Prospecting for Atomic Minerals" by Alvin W. Knoeer is another of the books written for the layman who wants to search for uranium and allied minerals. Who knows you might find them.

There are two delightful biographies, one very humorous and the other serious. The humorous one is called "I Love Her, That's Why" and is written by George Burns. It is the story of his life and of his love for his wife, Gracie Allen. Be sure to read this. The other is a biography of Julius Caesar written by Manuel Kmoroff. It gives a new light to the career of this interesting man.

Teachers will be especially interested in a new book called "Restoration of Learning" written by Arthur Eugene Bestor. This is a sequel to his earlier "Educational Wastelands" and is a more hopeful book.

"Questions Older People Ask" by Henriette Kish is a book that should be helpful to everyone who has older people in their families. A perfectly beautiful book is "Newbery Medal Books; 1922-1955." This gives the history and acceptance papers of the authors of all of the Newbery medal books written during this period of years. This book should be especially interesting to students of children's literature.

The books mentioned in this article are typical of the material received each week at the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Visit us often and broaden your interests and knowledge.

Miss Williams Is Bride Of Jesse Ray Lee

An impressive nuptial ceremony, beautifully enhanced by the Christmas theme, was the Yuletide marriage of Miss Jo Ann Williams to Jesse Ray Lee, which was solemnized in the early evening hours of Tuesday, December twentieth. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Williams, of Mangham. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Lee of Alto, and is presently stationed in Germany with the United States Army.

MR. AND MRS. JESSE RAY LEE

A gleaming mass of candles illuminated the altar, where baskets of white gladioli and graceful white pine flanked the nuptial scene. White sprayed pine and magnolia leaves formed a bridal Christmas arrangement at the baptistry, with the soft light of gleaming tapers at each window also giving soft light.

A prenuptial concert was given by Sidney McKay, who sang "I Love You Truly," "How Do I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Miss Rennie Sanderson. Serving as candle lighters were Donnie Westor and James W. Lee, with "Cookie" Young, gowned in floor-length white taffeta, serving as flower girl. A Christmas bell of silver wire held her flowers.

The bride was given in marriage by Bennie Lee Williams, and was radiant in a formal bridal gown of white satin and chantilly lace. A crown of seed pearls held her veil of silk illusion, and she carried a white velvet covered prayer book surmounted by a white orchid, and a cluster of tiny white bells and satin ribbon steamers.

She was preceded down the aisle by her maid of honor, Miss Jerrene Bishop, who wore a waltz length gown of blue taffeta and net. A silver Christmas bell fashioned of wire net held her bouquet of feathered pink carnations, with fluffs of tulle and satin ribbon streamers.

The bridesmaids were Miss Peggy Sue Brown and Miss Eleanor Lee, both wearing gowns identical to that of the maid of honor. Their bouquets also were held in silver bells of wire net.

Attending the groom as best man was John David Boughton. Dounie Weston and James W. Lee served as ushers.

The mother of the bride was becomingly gowned in a faille dress of fall brown, accented by a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Lee chose for her son's wedding a fall model of blue crepe, with which she wore a corsage of white carnations.

A bridal reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the social rooms of the Lone Cherry Church. Arrangements of white sprayed pine throughout the reception rooms carried out the Christmas theme, and the bride's table was a lovely combination of the Christmas and bridal themes, where white poinsettias and white pine were flanked by gleaming white tapers. The wedding cake was beautifully decorated in the holiday theme.

Miss Jerrene Bishop presided at serving of the cake, and Mrs. H. L. Brown was in charge of the punch service. Mrs. Gladys Heath invited guests to sign the bride's book.

Serving as hostess at the bridal reception was Mrs. Leon Brown, who was charming in a becoming model of pink brocaed, with which she wore black accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

The young couple left immediately following the reception for a wedding trip to the south part of the state. For her going away ensemble, Mrs. Lee chose a suit of dark tweed, fashioned with a tux type jacket, and accented by hat and gloves of mauve pink. Her shoes and bag were black.

The bride attends the Bish Mathis Business Institute in Monroe. The groom is a member of the United States Army, stationed in Germany.

Dining Hall At Tech To Be Named Irene Tolliver

RUSTON, Jan. 7 (Special) — Acceptance of a proposal that the dining hall at Louisiana Tech be named the Irene Tolliver Dining Hall has been made by the State Board of Education, President R. L. Ropp has announced.

The state board has approved the naming of the structure after the former superintendent of dining halls at Tech in compliance with a resolution submitted by the Louisiana Tech Alumni Association. The resolution is as follows:

"Whereas, it is fitting and appropriate that each of the many buildings which adorn the campus of Louisiana Tech be properly named in memory of some individual who has contributed much to the advancement of the school as well as to the college life of the students, and

'Whereas, the first full - time dietitian of Louisiana Tech not only served the college well and was a friend of the many students with whom she came in contact, but also served her country in time of war during World War II;

"Therefore, be it resolved that the members of the Louisiana Tech Alumni Association at its regular meeting October 29, 1955, recommend to the President of Louisiana Tech, President R. L. Ropp, and to the members of the State Board of Education, that the main dining hall of Louisiana Tech be named the Irene Tolliver Dining Hall in memory of Irene Tolliver; and that a copy of this resolution be presented to the family of the late Irene Tolliver."

The former chief dietitian at Tech died on March 3, 1955.

SWIMMING BOBCAT

LINCOLN, Me. — A Maine game warden - pilot, William Snow, has ended the controversy over whether bobcats can swim. Snow landed on Spednic Lake to find out what kind of an animal was swimming across it. He cut his engine and drifted close, and the animal — a bobcat — tried to climb onto a pontoon. The warden gunned the motor and left the bobcat in the lurch, fearing that its claws might tear the plane's fabric.

'55 Was Big Year In School Expansion For Ouachita, City And Northeast State

Ouachita parish educational facilities have been greatly increased by school building construction during the past year with long range programs undertaken by both public school systems, the Ouachita parish and Monroe City schools, Northeast Louisiana State College, Louisiana Training Institute, and to a lesser extent, the Catholic parochial schools.

In dealing with several diverse groups of schools, concerning their building progress during a definite period, it is necessary for clarity and distinction to treat each individual system separately. It must also be remembered that many of the buildng programs extend for much longer spans than one year, thus, new buildings alone during this brief period cannot fully explain the construction aims of the school.

Ouachita Parish Schools

The only new building completed by the parish school system during 1955 was the Shady Grove Elementary School, an 18-room structure, built at a cost of $328,000. It was the last building to be constructed out of the $5,200,000 bond issue voted in March 1950 and opened in September of last year.

Ouachita Parish High School was completely renovated at a cost of $300,000, the second principal outlay by the parish schools during the year. Among the improvements were new furnishings and equipment and installation of new auditorium seats. The school's heating system was extensively worked over and modern lighting fixtures added throughout the building. It also came from the 1950 bond issue.

Other projects that came out of this 1950 bond issue included six new Negro schools and a number of other buildings, as the past year closed out the expenditure of funds of that program. The Negro schools, all new, include: Boley High School, West Monroe; Central High School, Calhoun; Myles High School, Sterlington; Terzia High School, south of Monroe; Booker T. Washington Elementary school, Monroe; and Swayze Elementary School, Bourg-Jones Lane. Other new buildings included, West Monroe High School, a $1,750,000 project alone; Swartz Elementary School; Highland, Woodlawn and Lenwil Elementary schools, all of West Monroe; Okaloosa and Calhoun Elementary schools. Other improvements included an addition to the A. L. Smith Junior High School at Sterlington, a new cafeteria at Crosley School, and cafetoriums at Millsaps and Ransom, all of West Monroe.

A second $5,200,000 bond issue was approved by parish voters on October 11, 1955, and sale of one-half of this amount was made January 4 (Wednesday) to a New Orleans investment company. With this sale of $2,600,000 of the new bonds, the parish school board has set a special meeting January 18 to open bids for new elementary school buildings at Lakeshore subdivision and at Ki-Ro-Li Woods. Each will have 18 classrooms and be constructed from the same plan.

Two junior high schools are also on tap for construction, one to be located on east side of the Ouachita river, and the other on the west side. The site on the west side has already been obtained, although some difficulty has been met in finding a suitable location on the east side. These schools will be of similar construction, with 30 classrooms, library, visual education room, cafetoriums, and other modern facilities to accomodate their 1000-student capacity.

Monroe City Schools

A classroom shortage that presented itself last year in the city's elementary schools for both white and Negro children, was remedied by the timely construction of additions to Lexington Avenue School in north Monroe, Plum Street School in south Monroe, and Carver School for Negroes.

Six classrooms were added to the Plum Street and Carver Schools and eight to the Lexington School. Contract costs, including architect's fees, were: Lexington, $82,130.92; Plum, $58,529.25; and Carver, $59,736.11, making a total of $200,396.28, for the three additions.

Looking to the future, a new Negro elementary school on Renwick street, adjacent to Carroll High School, has been contracted for about $224,000, excluding architect's fees. The 20-room school will contain a large cafeteria and kitchen, and be equipped with adequate rest room facilities and other modern furnishings.

The city school system has also announced plans for the construction of two large junior high schools, one on the north and a second on the south side of Monroe. Bids will be opened January 24 by the Monroe City School Board for construction of the south side junior high school, which will be located on South Seventh at Pecan streets.

The south side structure will be "L" shaped and of two stories, with seven classrooms, a library, study hall and other offices on the first floor, and 12 classrooms on the second. Locker facilities for 670 students, a cafeteria that will accommodate 200 per lunch shift, an auditorium-gymnasium, whose stage has four dressing rooms and a band room, round out its design.

The building will be a steel skeleton, with curtain walls with glass and porcelain panels in the classrooms and overall dimensions of 300 feet length by 148 feet width.

These three schools, which it is hoped will be completed by next Stepember, will be paid for out of the recent $1,200,000 bond issue, voted by the people of Monroe. Most of the furnishings for these schools, and the other contemplated junior high, will be paid for out of the surplus of the school system's general fund. Land acquired for future school expansion will also be bought with these revenues.

A thorough renovation of the Lida Benton, Georgia Tucker and Barkdull Faulk elementary schools was made during 1955 by the maintenance department of the city schools. Among general work done was rewiring, installing new light fixtures, painting interiors, repairing broken plaster, repairing roofs, replacing worn doors and other improvements. Covered walkways were installed at Barkdull Faulk and extensive repairs made at Georgia Tucker on portions of the school destroyed by termites.

Steel bleachers were installed on the east side of the Neville football field, opposite the stadium, and these seats cover the area between each of the five yard markers. An additional row of lights had been added to the field.

Among the Catholic parochial schools, St. Matthews Grammar and High School made the most extensive improvements, although none of the schools reported the construction of new buildings.

A complete renovation of the school cafeteria and kitchen facilities was made last year at St. Matthew's. This included the installing of a new circular washfountain, an automatic dish washing machine, stainless steel kitchen equipment and steam table and the painting of the school interior. An asphalt tile floor was put in the school basement. Among the adding of equipment was that of new arm - desk chairs, new typewriters, three of which were electric, to the commercial department, and other improvements, all at a total cost of about $10,000, said Msgr. J. C. Marsh, pastor of St. Matthew's Church.

About $950 was spent at Our Lady of Fatima elementary school for new desks, cafeteria improvements and new playground equipment. St. Paschal's school in West Monroe reported that about $1,000 had been spent on improving the gymnasium, expanding it to include roller skating, plays, dances, gymnasium, and general assembly purposes. No major improvements were reported by the Little Flower High and Grammar schools of Monroe and the St. Charles grammar school, both colored parochial schools.

Northeast Louisiana State College

Monroe's new four - year college, which has just been fully accredited as a senior educational institution, increased its physical plant considerably during the last year and is in the process of a major expansion program.

A new women's dormitory was completed and immediately put into use in the summer of 1955. This "H" shaped structure is located on the eastern fringe of the campus, opposite College avenue. It is a modern fireproof building having the same exterior appearance as the other college buildings.

A dormitory for men was begun early in 1955 and was nearing completion at the end of the year. It is located on the north side of the campus near College avenue.

Construction is planned of still another dormitory for women in the near future and also a second men's residence hall, to keep pace with the growing enrollment.

A large classroom and office building that will house the administrative offices of the college, is in the process of construction, and is expected to be completed early in 1956. The classroom wing of the structure extends for nearly a city block in length. The entire building is modern in every detail and harmonizes in appearance with the other structures, although its long extended wing and sweeping dome-shaped side, is a new innovation to the campus.

Other additions planned during the year include an enlargement to the cafeteria and student center building and to the Fine Arts building. The latter structure will have a wing added to the rear of the present building, which should double its facilities. Planned for the speech and music departments, it has also been used for other classes because of crowded conditions.

Louisiana Training Institute

Construction of a new administration building, a new cottage, or dormitory for young boys of 12 years of age and under, and a new vocational educational building, has been accomplished at LTI, during 1955.

Other new structures include a Protestant chapel, woodworking shop, auto mechanics shop and two apartment houses of two units each.

The administration building contains a reception room for visitors, about 12 offices, a conference room and library, and is U-shaped in design.

Featured in the Protestant chapel are Sunday school rooms and a study for the chaplain.

All of the buildings are made of brick except the woodworking shop and the auto mechanics shop, which are of tin.

NSC Library To Be Completed Late In October

NATCHITOCHES, Jan. 7 (Special- — Librarians at Northwestern State College are counting the days here lately as construction on the expansion of the NSC library continues at a steady pace. Completion of the project, to cost $331,224, is set for October, 1956.

When completed, the addition will give Northwestern the equivalent of a new library, one of the most up-to-date buildings in the state, according to Dr. Eugene Watson, head librarian at the college.

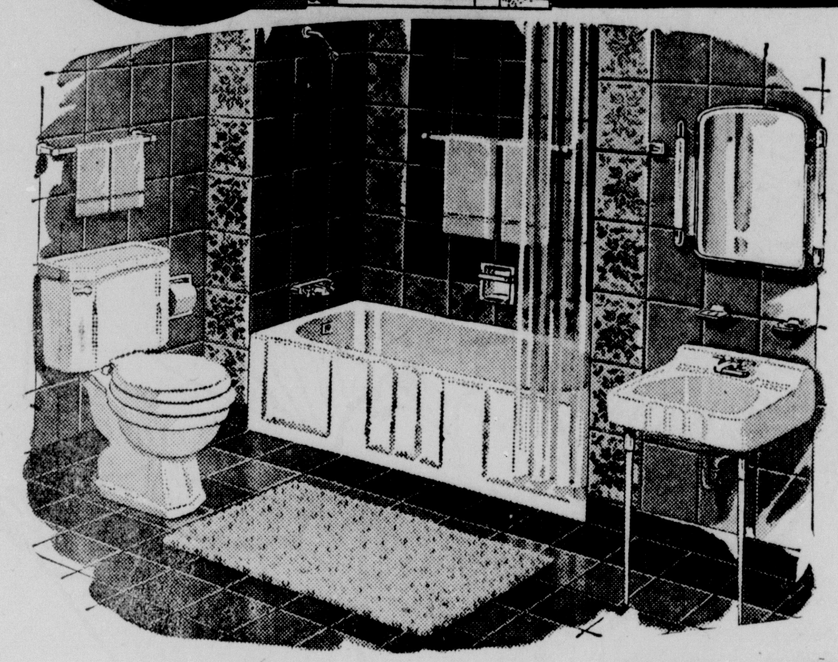

With additional measurements of 127 feet in width and 73 feet in depth, the completed structure will house a fully air - conditioned, comfortable library from entrance to exit. Abandoning the conventional approach to libraries, Dr. Watson has laid plans to combine the "stacks" and reading rooms inside the building, making for greater use of the library as a whole.

With the recent inauguration of Northwestern's graduate program in education, college officials felt it necessary to provide bigger and better facilities for both undergraduate and graduate students enrolled here. An increase in graduate school enrollment is expected with each new semester, college officials say.

Dining Hall At Tech To Be Named Irene Tolliver

RUSTON, Jan. 7 (Special) — Acceptance of a proposal that the dining hall at Louisiana Tech be named the Irene Tolliver Dining Hall has been made by the State Board of Education, President R. L. Ropp has announced.

The state board has approved the naming of the structure after the former superintendent of dining halls at Tech in compliance with a resolution submitted by the Louisiana Tech Alumni Association. The resolution is as follows:

"Whereas, it is fitting and appropriate that each of the many buildings which adorn the campus of Louisiana Tech be properly named in memory of some individual who has contributed much to the advancement of the school as well as to the college life of the students, and

"Whereas, the first full - time dietitian of Louisiana Tech not only served the college well and was a friend of the many students with whom she came in contact, but also served her country in time of war during World War II;

"Therefore, be it resolved that the members of the Louisiana Tech Alumni Association at its regular meeting October 29, 1955, recommend to the President of Louisiana Tech, President R. L. Ropp, and to the members of the State Board of Education, that the main dining hall of Louisiana Tech be named the Irene Tolliver Dining Hall in memory of Irene Tolliver; and that a copy of this resolution be presented to the family of the late Irene Tolliver."

SWIMMING BOBCAT

LINCOLN, Me. — A Maine game warden - pilot, William Snow, has ended the controversy over whether bobcats can swim. Snow landed on Spednic Lake to find out what kind of an animal was swimming across it. He cut his engine and drifted close, and the animal — a bobcat — tried to climb onto a pontoon. The warden gunned the motor and left the bobcat in the lurch, fearing that its claws might tear the plane's fabric.

Year-End Agricultural Report Points Out

Economic Pinch Felt On Area Farms

By FRANK NOONAN
(Morning World Farm Editor

The year 1955 was one of economic pinch for farmers in the northeast district, as well as in the rest of the state.

Farmers were caught in a cost-price squeeze. The cost of things they bought — already at a high level — continued to climb, while the prices they received for their products sagged lower and lower.

An indication of the gravity of the situation was given several days ago by agriculture commissioner Dave Pearce, who estimated that Louisiana farm income plunged some $40-million last year because of price - squeeze, acreage controls, increased production costs, and mounting farm surpluses.

Federal and state governments arranged for distribution of surplus foods to tenant farmers suffering hardships, and also made them available to other persons certified as being in need of them.

Associate Ouachita parish county agent, W. B. Aycock, Jr., observed that, "During the past year farmers have suffered tremendously from economic troubles.

"Many tenants and small land owners," he added, "have ceased to work their lands and are now commuting to and from town to work in industry. In the hill sections of the area many farmers have temporarily ceased farming their lands, obtained jobs in local industries and are reverting their lands back to pine timber."

The agent said that a large amount of land which was being row - cropped a few years ago is now being put in pine trees in the hill sections while fewer acres are being cultivated.

In the alluvial areas, he said, land still is being kept in cultivation, but much of it is being leased by large farm operators. Consequently a few operators control larger acreages than before, but their profits per acre are less.

Aycock's view is that the outlook for 1956 indicates little change in the farmers' plight.

'Because of acreage controls program of basic crops," he said, "growers will have to get more production per acre in order to survive."

Agricultural officials in the district noted an increasing use of fertilizers and lime, and a surge toward various soil conservation practices.

In areas where insects and weather elements did not work agains crops, high yields were reported in cotton, corn, oats, sorghum, sweet potatoes and hay, indicating, agriculturists said, the increased use of improved farming practices.

In the fall, Reid Grigsby, marketing specialist for Louisiana State University reported the larges number of cattle on record being placed on feed for fattening and finishing in the state.

This was attributed to the large grain and hay crop harvests, which sent commercial prices for corn, oats and hay to their lowest levels since 1941.

But livestock prices sagged in the state during the year, and as Agent Aycock pointed out, the drop in feed prices resulting from bumper grain crops produced by the farmers actually gave them a smaller gross return on their investments. Many chose to market crops through livestock.

Swin prices dropped sharply during the year, but the state pig crop was estimated at 633,000 head, or 22 per cent more than the total for 1954. The number of sows farrowing in the fall was 20 per cent above the previous fall, and the average of 6.1 pigs saved per litter was 0.1 above the 1954 fall average.

In the spring, 54,000 sows farrowed, and in the fall, 48,000, making a total of 102,000 for the year compared to 85,000 in 1954. For the 1956 spring crop, reports on breeding intentions indicate 64,000 sows will farrow in the state, an increase of 18 per cent over last spring, according to the Louisiana Crop Reporting Service.

Agriculture extension service representatives reported that more farmers are trying to employ better management methods in handling beef herds, since they are realizing that it takes "better management, better breeding and better feeding to produce the grade of cattle that are in demand in order to survive or realize an income in the highly competitive cattle industry."

Acreage controls on cotton failed to ease the problem of surpluses, but in many sections of the northeast district, the boll weevil clan made a strong bid at that goal.

The Louisiana Crop Reporting Service last month estimated state cotton production in 1955 at 585,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight. This was 13,000 bales or two per cent larger than the 1954 production of 572,000 bales. Acreage harvested was reduced to 65,000 acres in 1955, compared to 688,000 harvested in 1954. This was a reduction of 11 per cent.

Although reports from at least two district parishes told of special cases in which yields of cotton averaged three bales an acre, there were some growers who were virtually unable to salvage anything after boll weevil hordes had swept through their fields.

The boll weevil build-up came after a season of rains which bolstered early crops and pastures. set up conditions which were favorable for such situation. After the weevils appeared, weather conditions hampered attempts in many areas to apply insecticides.

Eventually the sturdy boll weevils seemed to build up a strong immunity to most of the insecticides, and few growers were able to free their fields of the pests. The top crop was hardest hit. Costs of insect control mounted unusually high. Many growers made more than 20 applications of poison to stands of cotton, others bowed to the invader, defoliated and harvested early.

Some sections reported exceptional yields, while in fields nearby production was very low. One farmer harvested a total of three bales from 14 acres.

Some large farm operators, set back by slashes in cotton acreage and losses through adverse weather conditions and insect invasions, have spoken of retiring from agricultural operations. Many large operators were forced to dip into financial reserves built up in previous years to keep going. Small farmers often had no where to dip.

The cotton acreage allotment for the state this year is 610,891 acres The allotment last year was 648,442 acres.

In some areas farmers with land taken out of cotton by controls, declined to shift to other crops, while others tried soybeans and corn and pastures, and entered into a program of increased crop rotation.

Nineteen fifty-five probably will be long remembered as the year of the devastating spring freeze which wiped out northeast Louisiana's peach crops — as well as those in other southern states — and nipped early vegetable crops.

There were reports of freeze damage to pecans, but by late summer these were countered somewhat by growers in the district who said that losses were much less than had been thought earlier. The crop was considered as generally fair.

The year also will be remembered as the year of the rainmakers in northeast Louisiana. Cloud seeding by a weather group was done by means of generators which channeled silver iodide into air currents. Money was subscribed from farmers and businessmen from throughout the district for the project. The debate over its effectiveness was never settled in the minds of most area's residents.

However, the rains descended—man - made or otherwise — and for awhile met with general approval. Early vegetables flourished, and pastures produced an abundance of forage for grazing and storage as hay and silage. But the rains continued and some vegetable crops that had flourished earlier were cut short in some areas by excessive moisture.

Excessive rain caused the spread of the destructive disease, anthracnose, among watermelon crops, and also dissipated the flavor of melons untouched by the ailment. Added to these woes the crows also did considerable feasting in many melon patches.

Sweet potato growers in the state expressed considerable concern over the spread of internal cork disease in yams, and weevils. However, the year drew to a close on a bright note for the growers, indicated by a Louisiana Sweet Potato Commission report.

In November, Louisiana moved 1,090,542 bushels of yams, marking the fifth year that the November shipments topped the million-bushel total. This was the largest November shipment since 1952, when 1,115,933 bushels moved, and was 70,000 bushels more than November of 1954.

On the basics of figures compiled December 15, a total of 3,672,648 bushels of yams were moved during the shipping season, or about 70,000 bushels behind the total for the same period of the previous year.

The state's 1955 production of commercial vegetables dropped in volume and value under the totals reported for the previous year.

According to estimates of the Louisiana Crop Reporting Service, a total value of $8,137,000 was placed on the 1955 production of commercial vegetables for fresh market and processing. The valuation was 24 per cent below the value of $10,724,000 on yields of 1954.

The decrease in value of the commercial vegetable crops last year, according to the reporting service, was caused by less production. The decline was 34 per cent or 66,000 equivalent tons.

The reporting service's summary continued, "Production of value totaled 60,500 tons as an estimated 5,500 tons were not marketed because of low prices and other economic factors. Except for shallots and watermelons, production of fresh market crops was about the same or lower than in 1954."

The report stated further, "Production of strawberries, Irish potatoes and spring beans was down sharply. Vegetables grown for processing, estimated at 1,600 tons, were about one - fourth less than in 1954. Harvested acreage of all commercial vegetables for which estimates are made, including strawberries, watermelons and early Irish potatoes, totals 36,950 acres in 1955 or eight per cent less than the 40,160 acres harvested in 1954. Shallots, watermelons and fall beans are the only crops showing increase in acreage harvested . . ."

Agricultural agents noted in 1955 a continuing trend toward more processing of meats, fruits and vegetables for deep freeze storing in farm homes.

Commercial vegetable marketing programs are gaining in various sections of the district, largely patterned after one which has been worked successfully in the Oak Grove area. The state department of agriculture assigned personnel to help in encouraging such programs.

As the year ended an experiment in producing winter commercial vegetable crops of spinach and turnips was well under way in Concordia parish near Vidalia, and hope had been expressed that the parish's production of winter vegetable crops will soon outvalue that of the summer field crops.

Soil Conservation work continued at a fast pace in the district during the past year. Pond building reached a high level after weather conditions made it possible for workmen and Soil Conservation Service technicians to get into fields. Conservation work on grasslands continued at a moderate pace and there were more stands of crimson clover and bermuda grass combination planted to conserve soil as well as to build it up.

Although irrigation systems came in for little use in most sections of the northeast district during the past year because of the heavy amount of rainfall, farmers continued to install large numbers of supplementary watering systems as insurance against future drouths.

Extensive work also was done in terracing, drainage, timber stand improvement and stocking of ponds with fish. Most of these practices were carried out with government cost sharing obtained through the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation offices in the district. Liming and use of fertilizer, were also practices in which cost sharing was provided. Both showed considerable increase. Pasture improvement held its own.

As the year ended, the demand for seedling pines to plant on district farms was greater than the supply. The Louisiana Forestry Commission based its nursery stock on the planting situation which prevailed during the drouth year of 1954 which was unfavorable to seeding of pine trees. Weather conditions, however, changed and by planting time in 1955, a more favorable outlook prevailed and demand for seedlings soared. Many orders could not be filled.

An increase in the number of persons turning to scientific means of determining soil needs was noted. Samples of soil from points around farm lands being tested, were sent through local county agents to the soil testing laboratory at Baton Rouge. Reports on nutritional needs of soil were returned following tests.

Land clearing continued at a moderate pace, but also continuing was the encroachment of new housing projects upon land once used for farming. Land taken from cultivation provided sites for homes and industries, while new land for cultivation of row crops was taken from wooded areas.

A new program in the state, sponsored by the Louisiana Agricultural Extension Service, known as Farm and Home Development, was inaugurated in additional parishes. Through it farmers are advised on means of obtaining more efficient production on their farms by utilizing necessary elements. Available to the farmers for consultation are experts in various fields of agriculture and finance.

Parishes where the program has been in operation for a year or more report gains through more efficient farming practices.

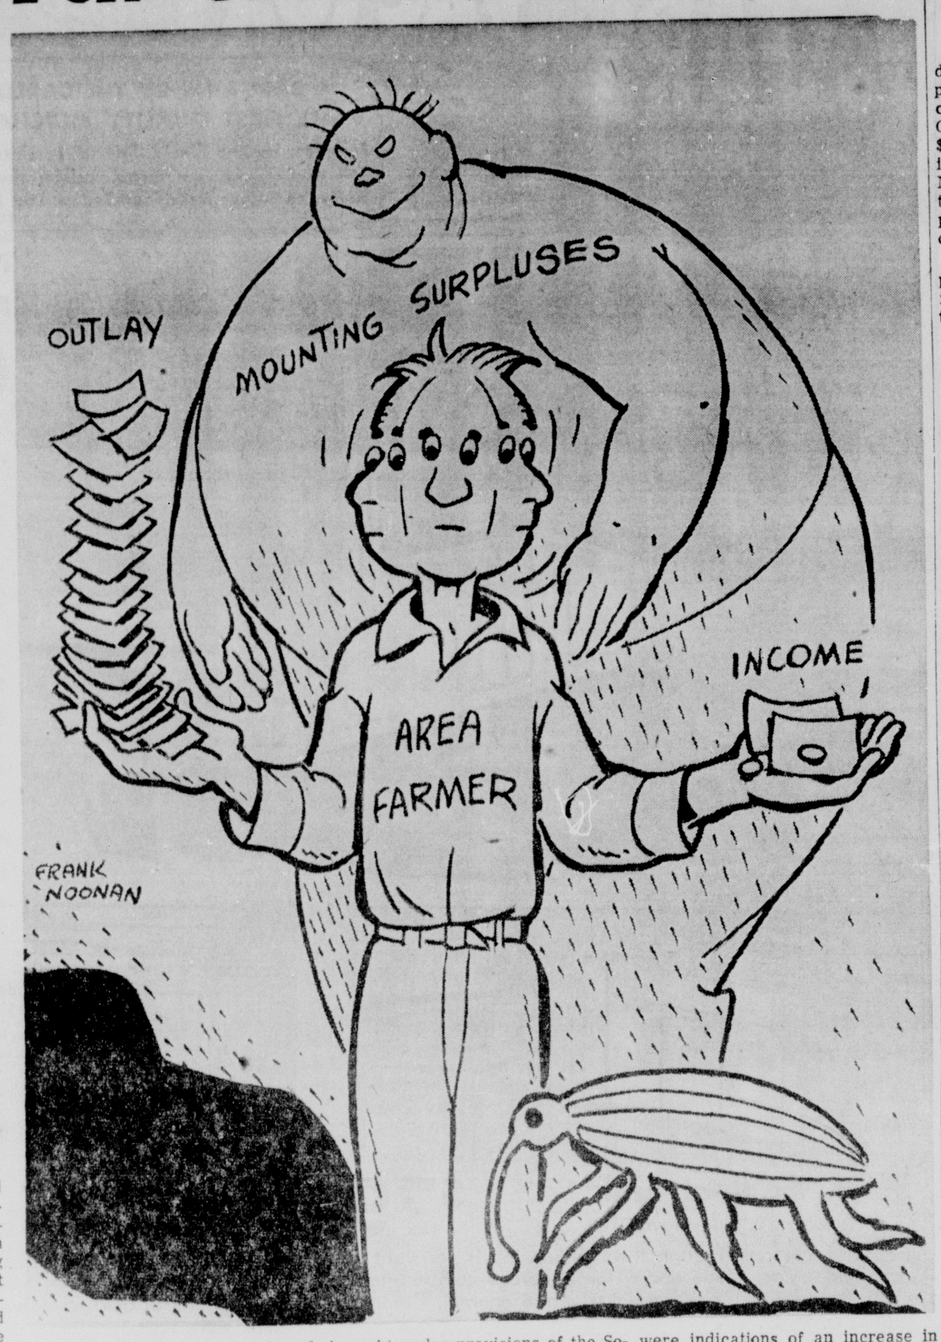

For the first time in 1955 many self - employed farmers were brought under provisions of the Social Security law, and as the new year dawned they were getting ready to file reports covering the period.

Future Farmers of America and 4-H Club members in the district made good showings with their various projects during the year. It was the younger set that helped spark the move to sheep raising as a supplementary source of income. The move was gaining at the year's end with a number of large and small farm operators. And the outlook is for more sheep projects this year.

Some 4-H officials said that there were indications of an increase in membership being recorded for the past year, but pointed out that an official membership count will not be made until around March 1.

The first large district fat calf sale under sponsorship of the State Extension Service and various other groups, was staged at Delhi last fall, attracting buyers from several states. A successful feeder pig sale of large proportions was held under extension sponsorship at Bastrop last summer, and a beef calf sale at Ruston, brought many buyers.

The Northeast Louisiana District Livestock Show held last March at Delhi, was the largest in the history of that annual exposition in which junior and senior exhibitors take part, indicating a growing interest in the livestock industry.

Street Improvement Picture Improved During Past Year In Cities And Parish

By BOB RUSSELL
Of The News-Star Staff

About one-quarter of a million dollars of contracts for street improvements was completed by the city of Monroe, during 1955, while Ouachita parish spent more than $40,000 for asphalt surfacing of parish roads, and the city of West Monroe, spent $3,500 for street intersections, to about 30 blocks paved and paid for by property-owners, during the same period.

In considering the particular expenditures for street and highway improvements, it is best to take them individually.

Monroe

The city of Monroe has completed about 30 miles of paved streets at a cost of $416,425.01, projected over a three - year period, that began October 1952 and ended at the close of 1955, Commissioner of Streets and Parks Wayne Huckaby, has announced.

During 1955, about one-quarter of a million dollars of the above projects were completed and $159,543.10 more in contracts was under construction. At the beginning of the new year, bids had been let for $64,579.80 of construction slated for 1956. All these were asphalt paved streets.

The following streets were surfaced with asphalt paving in projects, completed last year: Magnolia street — DeSiard to Railroad; Victoria — Spencer to Lexington; Frances Place — Spencer to Kentwood; Harn — Pope to Roberts; North 18th and North 17th — each Breard to Louisville; North 16th — Pine to Louisville; Arkansas avenue — 14th to 18th; Pine — 12th to 18th; South Seventh — Orange to Magnolia; Wilmuth — Pope to Roberts; Alabama — Magnolia to Winnsboro road; Frin — Seventh to Eighth; Garden drive — Roberts to Mo-Pac Railroad; South Eighth — Plum to Winnsboro road; Olive — Walnut to Sixth; Breard — Walnut to Sixth; Louise Anne avenue — Eighth to 14th; Harrison — Sherrouse to Gilbert; Armand — Sterlington road to College.

Olive — 18th to 21st; North 16th — Pine to Breard; Eason Place—Pope to Spencer; Harn — Roberts to Highland; Milton avenue — Orell to North; North 18th — Louisville to Forsythe; Harn — Pope to Spencer; Saratoga — Lexington to Frances; Morris avenue — Fourth to Fifth; South Sixth — Pecan to Winnsboro road; Spencer avenue—Elm to Lexington; Kentwood—Forsythe to Lexington; Frances Place —Sholars to 440 North; Florida—Peach to Pear; Orell Place — Park avenue to Lexington; Spencer avenue — Kentwood to North line Sholars addition; Sholars — Lexington to Spencer; Lexington — Orell to Sholars; South Sixth — Orange to Plum; Orange — Fifth to Seventh; South Fifth — Orange to Texas; Magnolia — Fourth to Fifth; Cedar — DeSiard to Railroad; Lafourche street.

Beauregard — Sixth to Eighth; Spurgeon drive — Sherrouse to Gilbert; Madison — Sterlington road to College avenue; Ouachita — South Eighth to South 13th; South Ninth — Ouachita to Texas; South 11th — Layton to Texas; South 12th — Stone to Orange; Peach—South Fourth to South Fifth; Armond — Sterlington road to College avenue; and Orange — South Seventh to South 14th.

During 1955, about five miles of paved streets were finished, two miles more were under bid and contracts had been proposed for about nine miles more. The City of Monroe also reported that about 60 miles of streets had been gravelled or resurfaced exclusive of paving, during the 1952-55 period.

West Monroe

Superintendent of Streets L. L. Wood said that the city of West Monroe paid out $3,588.36 for street intersections that were paved during the past year. Paving in the city is paid for by property-owners and the following blocks were coated with a 2½ inch coat of blacktopping by the Coastal Asphalt Company, at a cost of one dollar per foot.

Pine, Clayton and Mill — Each street paved from North Eighth to North Ninth; Wood — North Fifth to North Ninth; North Seventh — Wood to Natchitoches.

Coleman avenue was paved for one block off the old Ouachita river traffic bridge by the Louisiana Highway Department. The department also did a major renovation of the bridge during the year, at no expense to the Twin Cities.

Other streets paved, all in the McGuire addition, include: Auburn — Arkansas road to White's Ferry Road, 7 blocks; North Eighth — White's Ferry Road to 11th, 3 blocks; North Ninth White's Ferry Road to 11th; Carter's Drive — Warren Drive around in a circle, 5 blocks; and Carter's street to Carter's drive, 2 blocks.

Maintenance work, such as gravelling, widening and leveling off of the streets, is done by the city.

Ouachita Parish

During 1955, the Ouachita highway department completed eight or 10 miles of construction work, but concentrated mostly on improving surfacing of existing roads.

Last summer, 16.5 miles of road was paved with asphalt, at a cost of $41,250. This paving brings the total miles of parish roads that are blacktopped to 90; 546 more miles are graveled and 89 are graded, for a total of 725 miles.

This asphalt program took about 250 days of motor grader work during the year, said G. M. Harris, parish engineer, for the preparing of a suitable foundation for the pavement.

About $25,000 more was spent in constructing 10 new wooden bridges totaling 260 feet in length, and repair of 30 other bridges, of a total 960 feet.

Parish roads, their location and length of paving, includes: Guthrie road, ward 1, 1.07 miles; Morgan Hare road, ward 2, 1 mile; Stanfer subdivision, ward 3, .69 miles; Blankston road, ward 4, 1 mile; Tuberculosis Sanitarium drives and Tony Bayou road, ward 5, 1.7 miles; Claiborne and Beulah church roads, ward 6, 1.9 miles; Caples and Crowell roads, ward 7, 1.9 miles; Cables, Philpot and Lapine roads, ward 8, 4.4 miles; Cypress school, Joe Wheat and Redcut roads, ward 9, 2 miles and Broadmoor place, Payton and Deber drives and Camelia street, ward 10, 1 mile. The total was 16.66 miles of asphalt surfacing.

Construction on the Wall Lake road and Coker road has been completed and will soon be finished on the McMellon road number two. All are located in wards 5 and 6, said Harris, who also revealed that right-of-way had been obtained on the Hickory Bend road in ward 5 and that construction would be resumed soon.

The installing of driveway culverts, of which about 225 were put in in the first nine months of 1955, is one that brings the highway department closest to the public, the parish engineer said. He also reported that two miles of new canal drainage had been built in ward 1 and about 15 miles of old canals reworked in other wards.

About 57,283 yards of dirt and gravel were hauled during the year by the parish highway department. This was used for the backfilling of culverts, bridges, wash places, patching and regraveling. About 20,000 yards of State-Aid gravel was also hauled by the parish.

EXPLOSION EXPLAINED

JONESBORO, Jan. 7 (Special)—The unexplained explosion heard here New Year's night may have been the one that occurred at the Southern Advance Bag and Paper Company, although it seems improbable that such a small explosion could be heard over such a wide area.

A 14 inch steam valve exploded, but no one happened to be in the room at the time.

'55 Was Big Year In School Expansion For Ouachita, City And Northeast State

Ouachita parish educational facilities have been greatly increased by school building construction during the past year with long range programs undertaken by both public school systems, the Ouachita parish and Monroe City schools, Northeast Louisiana State College, Louisiana Training Institute, and to a lesser extent, the Catholic parochial schools.

In dealing with several diverse groups of schools, concerning their building progress during a definite period, it is necessary for clarity and distinction to treat each individual system separately. It must also be remembered that many of the buildng programs extend for much longer spans than one year, thus, new buildings alone during this brief period cannot fully explain the construction aims of the school.

Ouachita Parish Schools

The only new building completed by the parish school system during 1955 was the Shady Grove Elementary School, an 18-room structure, built at a cost of $328,000. It was the last building to be constructed out of the $5,200,000 bond issue voted in March 1950 and opened in September of last year.

Ouachita Parish High School was completely renovated at a cost of $300,000, the second principal outlay by the parish schools during the year. Among the improvements were new furnishings and equipment and installation of new auditorium seats. The school's heating system was extensively worked over and modern lighting fixtures added throughout the building. It also came from the 1950 bond issue.

Other projects that came out of this 1950 bond issue included six new Negro schools and a number of other buildings, as the past year closed out the expenditure of funds of that program. The Negro schools, all new, include: Boley High School, West Monroe; Central High School, Calhoun; Myles High School, Sterlington; Terzia High School, south of Monroe; Booker T. Washington Elementary school, Monroe; and Swayze Elementary School, Bourg-Jones Lane. Other new buildings included, West Monroe High School, a $1,750,000 project alone; Swartz Elementary School; Highland, Woodlawn and Lenwil Elementary schools, all of West Monroe; Okaloosa and Calhoun Elementary schools. Other improvements included an addition to the A. L. Smith Junior High School at Sterlington, a new cafeteria at Crosley School, and cafetoriums at Millsaps and Ransom, all of West Monroe.

A second $5,200,000 bond issue was approved by parish voters on October 11, 1955, and sale of one-half of this amount was made January 4 (Wednesday) to a New Orleans investment company. With this sale of $2,600,000 of the new bonds, the parish school board has set a special meeting January 18 to open bids for new elementary school buildings at Lakeshore subdivision and at Ki-Ro-Li Woods. Each will have 18 classrooms and be constructed from the same plan.

Two junior high schools are also on tap for construction, one to be located on east side of the Ouachita river, and the other on the west side. The site on the west side has already been obtained, although some difficulty has been met in finding a suitable location on the east side. These schools will be of similar construction, with 30 classrooms, library, visual education room, cafetoriums, and other modern facilities to accomodate their 1000-student capacity.

Monroe City Schools

A classroom shortage that presented itself last year in the city's elementary schools for both white and Negro children, was remedied by the timely construction of additions to Lexington Avenue School in north Monroe, Plum Street School in south Monroe, and Carver School for Negroes.

Six classrooms were added to the Plum Street and Carver Schools and eight to the Lexington School. Contract costs, including architect's fees, were: Lexington, $82,130.92; Plum, $58,529.25; and Carver, $59,736.11, making a total of $200,396.28, for the three additions.

Looking to the future, a new Negro elementary school on Renwick street, adjacent to Carroll High School, has been contracted for about $224,000, excluding architect's fees. The 20-room school will contain a large cafeteria and kitchen, and be equipped with adequate rest room facilities and other modern furnishings.

The city school system has also announced plans for the construction of two large junior high schools, one on the north and a second on the south side of Monroe. Bids will be opened January 24 by the Monroe City School Board for construction of the south side junior high school, which will be located on South Seventh at Pecan streets.

The south side structure will be "L" shaped and of two stories, with seven classrooms, a library, study hall and other offices on the first floor, and 12 classrooms on the second. Locker facilities for 670 students, a cafeteria that will accommodate 200 per lunch shift, an auditorium-gymnasium, whose stage has four dressing rooms and a band room, round out its design.

The building will be a steel skeleton, with curtain walls with glass and porcelain panels in the classrooms and overall dimensions of 300 feet length by 148 feet width.

These three schools, which it is hoped will be completed by next Stepember, will be paid for out of the recent $1,200,000 bond issue, voted by the people of Monroe. Most of the furnishings for these schools, and the other contemplated junior high, will be paid for out of the surplus of the school system's general fund. Land acquired for future school expansion will also be bought with these revenues.

A thorough renovation of the Lida Benton, Georgia Tucker and Barkdull Faulk elementary schools was made during 1955 by the maintenance department of the city schools. Among general work done was rewiring, installing new light fixtures, painting interiors, repairing broken plaster, repairing roofs, replacing worn doors and other improvements. Covered walkways were installed at Barkdull Faulk and extensive repairs made at Georgia Tucker on portions of the school destroyed by termites.

Steel bleachers were installed on the east side of the Neville football field, opposite the stadium, and these seats cover the area between each of the five yard markers. An additional row of lights had been added to the field.

Among the Catholic parochial schools, St. Matthews Grammar and High School made the most extensive improvements, although none of the schools reported the construction of new buildings.

A complete renovation of the school cafeteria and kitchen facilities was made last year at St. Matthew's. This included the installing of a new circular washfountain, an automatic dish washing machine, stainless steel kitchen equipment and steam table and the painting of the school interior. An asphalt tile floor was put in the school basement. Among the adding of equipment was that of new arm - desk chairs, new typewriters, three of which were electric, to the commercial department, and other improvements, all at a total cost of about $10,000, said Msgr. J. C. Marsh, pastor of St. Matthew's Church.

About $950 was spent at Our Lady of Fatima elementary school for new desks, cafeteria improvements and new playground equipment. St. Paschal's school in West Monroe reported that about $1,000 had been spent on improving the gymnasium, expanding it to include roller skating, plays, dances, gymnasium, and general assembly purposes. No major improvements were reported by the Little Flower High and Grammar schools of Monroe and the St. Charles grammar school, both colored parochial schools.

Northeast Louisiana State College

Monroe's new four - year college, which has just been fully accredited as a senior educational institution, increased its physical plant considerably during the last year and is in the process of a major expansion program.

A new women's dormitory was completed and immediately put into use in the summer of 1955. This "H" shaped structure is located on the eastern fringe of the campus, opposite College avenue. It is a modern fireproof building having the same exterior appearance as the other college buildings.

A dormitory for men was begun early in 1955 and was nearing completion at the end of the year. It is located on the north side of the campus near College avenue.

Construction is planned of still another dormitory for women in the near future and also a second men's residence hall, to keep pace with the growing enrollment.

A large classroom and office building that will house the administrative offices of the college, is in the process of construction, and is expected to be completed early in 1956. The classroom wing of the structure extends for nearly a city block in length. The entire building is modern in every detail and harmonizes in appearance with the other structures, although its long extended wing and sweeping dome-shaped side, is a new innovation to the campus.

Other additions planned during the year include an enlargement to the cafeteria and student center building and to the Fine Arts building. The latter structure will have a wing added to the rear of the present building, which should double its facilities. Planned for the speech and music departments, it has also been used for other classes because of crowded conditions.

Louisiana Training Institute

Construction of a new administration building, a new cottage, or dormitory for young boys of 12 years of age and under, and a new vocational educational building, has been accomplished at LTI, during 1955.

Other new structures include a Protestant chapel, woodworking shop, auto mechanics shop and two apartment houses of two units each.

The administration building contains a reception room for visitors, about 12 offices, a conference room and library, and is U-shaped in design.

Featured in the Protestant chapel are Sunday school rooms and a study for the chaplain.

All of the buildings are made of brick except the woodworking shop and the auto mechanics shop, which are of tin.

NSC Library To Be Completed Late In October

NATCHITOCHES, Jan. 7 (Special- — Librarians at Northwestern State College are counting the days here lately as construction on the expansion of the NSC library continues at a steady pace. Completion of the project, to cost $331,224, is set for October, 1956.

When completed, the addition will give Northwestern the equivalent of a new library, one of the most up-to-date buildings in the state, according to Dr. Eugene Watson, head librarian at the college.

With additional measurements of 127 feet in width and 73 feet in depth, the completed structure will house a fully air - conditioned, comfortable library from entrance to exit. Abandoning the conventional approach to libraries, Dr. Watson has laid plans to combine the "stacks" and reading rooms inside the building, making for greater use of the library as a whole.

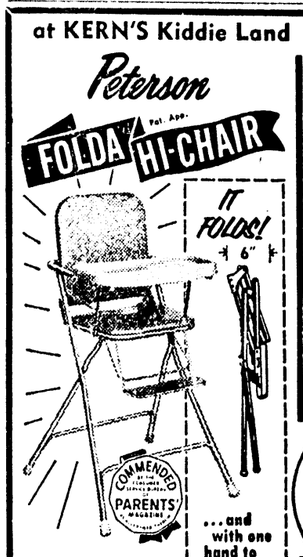

With the recent inauguration of Northwestern's graduate program in education, college officials felt it necessary to provide bigger and better facilities for both undergraduate and graduate students enrolled here. An increase in graduate school enrollment is expected with each new semester, college officials say.

1955 Industrial Growth Boomed

5 Parishes Show $12 Million Gain In Twelve Months

By EZRA ADAMS
Of The Morning World Staff

Industry took a big jump in Ouachita parish and the surrounding area during 1955.

While Louisiana as a whole made industrial expansion during the year at the rate of $250,000 a day, Ouachita, Franklin, Richland, Morehouse and Lincoln parishes were building up a total of about $12,000,000 worth of expanded and new industries.

Not far behind this are projected new industries for Franklin, Ouachita and Winn parishes.

Under the Louisiana inducement to industry program, more new industries are expected to be negotiated and make their appearances over the state in 1956. And the northeast section will not be industry - idle, according to those in this area who are awake to the need and are working endlessly toward bringing new industry into the section.

At Winnfield, plans are underway to obtain a plant for the American Tar and Turpentine Co. after voting a $225,000 bond issue. Some 100 men will be employed.

Construction is in progress on a plant at Ruston which will employ about 200 men. A $350,000 bond issue was carried in 1955 for the project.

A pilot garment plant in Winnsboro has been operating for the past couple of months and is to be the forerunner of a much larger plant. The plans were agreed to by the town of Winnsboro and Sustan Corp., garment manufacturers, through persistent efforts of the Winnsboro Business Men's Association. The completed factory, when operating at capacity, is expected to employ approximately 250 female workers. No bond issue has been voted as yet.

Rayville voted in 1955 to carry a $150,000 bond election in order to guarantee a factory there for the making of men's dress slacks by a Monroe firm which desired to expand its operations.

The large paper mills in this area — Bastrop, West Monroe and Jonesboro — made expansions to their operations during 1955.

The year saw Brown Paper Mill and its affiliates in West Monroe sold to the sprawling Olin Mathieson Corporation following lengthy negotiations. The new owners took over operations late in the year. Expansions in several of the plants' departments are reportedly planned by Olin.

Ouachita parish industry increased enormously in the preceding 12 months. Increases in new and expanded operations totalled upwards of $9 million.

Although many smaller companies combined to create a big part of the overall increase in Ouachita, the largest single expansion was that of Commercial Solvents at Sterlington.

About 200 additional employees were given jobs by Ouachita industries during 1955 and some $700,000 were added to the parish's annual payroll.

For the future, many northeast Louisiana business men are looking toward the Ouachita river's proposed nine - foot channel to help industry in this area and to provide more income and jobs. They believe it will help bring a boost in overall business activity throughout the river basin.

Early in 1955, local business men formed the Monroe Area Industrial Development Corporation, for the avowed purpose of encouraging interests of new industry and to further the development of existing area industries.

Before last year's end, MAIDCO was given access to a 250-acre tract of land just south of Monroe on Highway 65 for developing into an industrial district to offer a number of industries. Ouachita Industries, Inc., was chartered to handle the district's legal business for MAIDCO.

Coupled with the immense growth of industry in Ouachita were the boom in construction, oil and gas operations, and in general business activity.

Added to these were big expenditures for municipal improvements, expansion in parish and city education, and industry's own increased business.

In Ouachita Parish

Births Exceed Deaths By 3,378 During Past Year

By WILLIAM COLEMAN
Of the Morning World Staff

In the past year, there were more births than deaths reported by hospitals and funeral homes in Ouachita Parish. The three hospitals reported a total of 4076 births for the year while the 10 local funeral homes reported 698 cases for the year.

In 1954, the total births for Ouachita Parish as given in the statistical report of the State Department of Health was 4012. This number of births is very near the 1955 total as counted here.

There were 72 violent deaths in Ouachita Parish during the year according to the parish coroner, Dr. J. T. French. The violent death total for 1954 was 59 as given in the state report, an increase of 13 deaths.

The coroner's report also listed 390 deaths, natural in cause where no physician had been in attendance. These come under the coroner's office.

Funeral services for most of these deaths were handled by parish funeral homes.

The E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital reported a total of 2528 births and of this number, over 1900 were Negroes.

The Wright-Bendel Clinic reported a total of 217 births. St. Francis reported a total of 1329 births but did not give a breakdown of births by race.

In the breakdown of deaths of a violent nature in the parish automobile accidents of all types lead again last year as a killer, claiming a total of 26 lives: struck by automobile, 4; automobile accident, 8; automobile collisions, 9; automobile-tree collisions, 4; truck accident, 1; truck-train collision, 1.

Other violent deaths showed, suicides, 9; struck by train, 1; struck by falling water tank, 1; struck by falling tree, 1; kerosene ingestion, 1 (child); homicides, 14; fell from a water tank, 1; fell from bed, 1; carbon monoxide poisoning, 1; asphyxiation, 2; aspiration, 1; accidental suffocation, 2; accidental shooting, 1; accidental electrocution, 1; accidental drownings, 3; and accidental burns, 5.

The 1954 state report shows that motor vehicles were the leading killer claiming 24 lives; water transport took 8; drownings, 5; falls, 8; firearms, 1; and all other, 16.

Other statistics supplied by the coroner's office: examinations were as follows: committments to feeble minded home, 11; interdictions, 61; mental observations, 12; recommittments to mental institution, 13; sanity hearing, 1; special examinations, 27; and autopsies, 5.

The total number of cases handled by the coroner's office for the year 1955 was 592.

MANAGER NAMED — Mrs. Ada M. Edelmann, above, has been named manager of the second floor of The Palace, according to an announcement by Jack Masur, president of the firm. She comes to Monroe from a Dallas department store and has more than 17 years experience in ready-to-wear.

Will Adams Prexy Of Madison Board

TALLULAH, Jan. 7 (Special) — Will Z. Adams was re-elected president of the Madison Parish School Board and John Carpenter was elected vice president at a recent meeting.

Mrs. Frances Alexander Robinson was named supervisor of the Negro schools of the parish.

There Was Big News Here Last Year; Olin-Brown Trade Probably Excelled

By PAUL JASPER
Of the News-Star Staff

Old Father Time rang down the curtain on another year-long chapter in the history of the Twin Cities last week, and the pages of a new year have begun to unfold.

But, like an author looking back a chapter to pick up the thread of his story and to avoid making the same errors, it is sometimes wise to check through what has already passed.

For some, 1955 was a good year; for others, it was bad.

For a newspaper, it was all news.

Perhaps one of the most important stories on the local scene during the year was the multi-million dollar sale of the Brown paper industries here to the huge Olin-Mathieson Corporation — a sale which may open unlimited expansion in the Twin City area.

The sale of Brown industries had been rumored for several years, but it was not until last year when it was definitely established that it would go through.

On September 15, it was announced that Olin bought out Brown for $50,000,000 in cash and 725,000 shares of Olin-Mathieson common, one of the largest sales ever effected in this area.

And it was less than two months earlier when Ouachita Parish found itself with another slice of good news. The Golson No. 1 was definitely established as the first well in a full-fledged oil well in the parish.

On other fronts, progress was going on, also.

The Ouachita parish school board passed a $5,200,000 bond issue for improvements to the parish school system; and West Monroe passed a $1,370,000 bond issue for fire prevention and water improvements in West Monroe.

West Monroe itself was greatly expanded as the city council annexed outlying territories of the city and virtually doubled the amount of land in sight.

In Monroe, Mayor John E. Coon proposed a 15-point improvement program to be carried out in the city as soon as practicable, and appointed a seven-man advisory committee to begin working on the plans.

The Monroe Area Industrial Development Corporation pushed the purchase of a 250-acre tract of land to be used as a potential site for new industry.

Road, building, both in the city and parish, was stepped up. For example more than $100,000 in repairs were done to the old traffic bridge, and plans were put in the making for the complete black-topping of the Cheniere Dam Road.

But not all the news was good.

In Monroe, power plant failures struck the city with hammer-blows, creating ill-feeling in some quarters and raising the question of whether Monroe should sell out its power plant to private industries.

The question was never fully resolved: The plant was not sold, but neither were all the funds necessary to bring it into tip-top condition supplied.

Another story was a revival of the "Joe Cooper and his dog" story — from the preceding year— when ill-feeling again flared over parish school teacher appointments and a number of slander suits were filed.

On January 9, only a few days after the new year began, a young Monroe husband shot his wife to death with a rifle, and was given 15 years in the state penitentiary for manslaughter.

The year was also the year of the $11,000 poker game holdup, which ended with three men given long terms in the state prison for pulling weapons on a roomful of men in a private residence.

In the comic section, as 1955 began, "Rughead" of Dick Tracy fame was still going strong. He died later in a sewer of gunshot wounds. Dennis continued to be a Menace.

On March 7, the Morning World "jackpot" got underway—the money-winning crossword puzzle with many thousands now look forward to with anticipation and hope each week.

The Twin City area also took active part in some of the nation or statewide stories, discussing them with an interest comparable to anything which has happened locally.

One was the nine-state strike of Southern Bell Telephone Co., which resulted in violence elsewhere and only narrowly missed in Monroe. As it was, vandals several times damaged telephone company property while the strike was in progress.

Another was the Supreme Court's decision outlawing segregation in public schools. The decision was met with mixed reactions, but in the Twin Cities most of them boiled down to one answer: "We don't want integration."

The nationwide use of the Salk anti-polio vaccine also began in 1955—a story bringing both good news and bad. Fortunately, Ouachita parish missed receiving the faulty doses of the Cutter vaccine, but despite the inoculation of first and second graders here more Ouachita parish residents developed polio than they did in 1954.

Other noteworthy events of the year here included:

Several fatal traffic accidents, both in the city and parish.

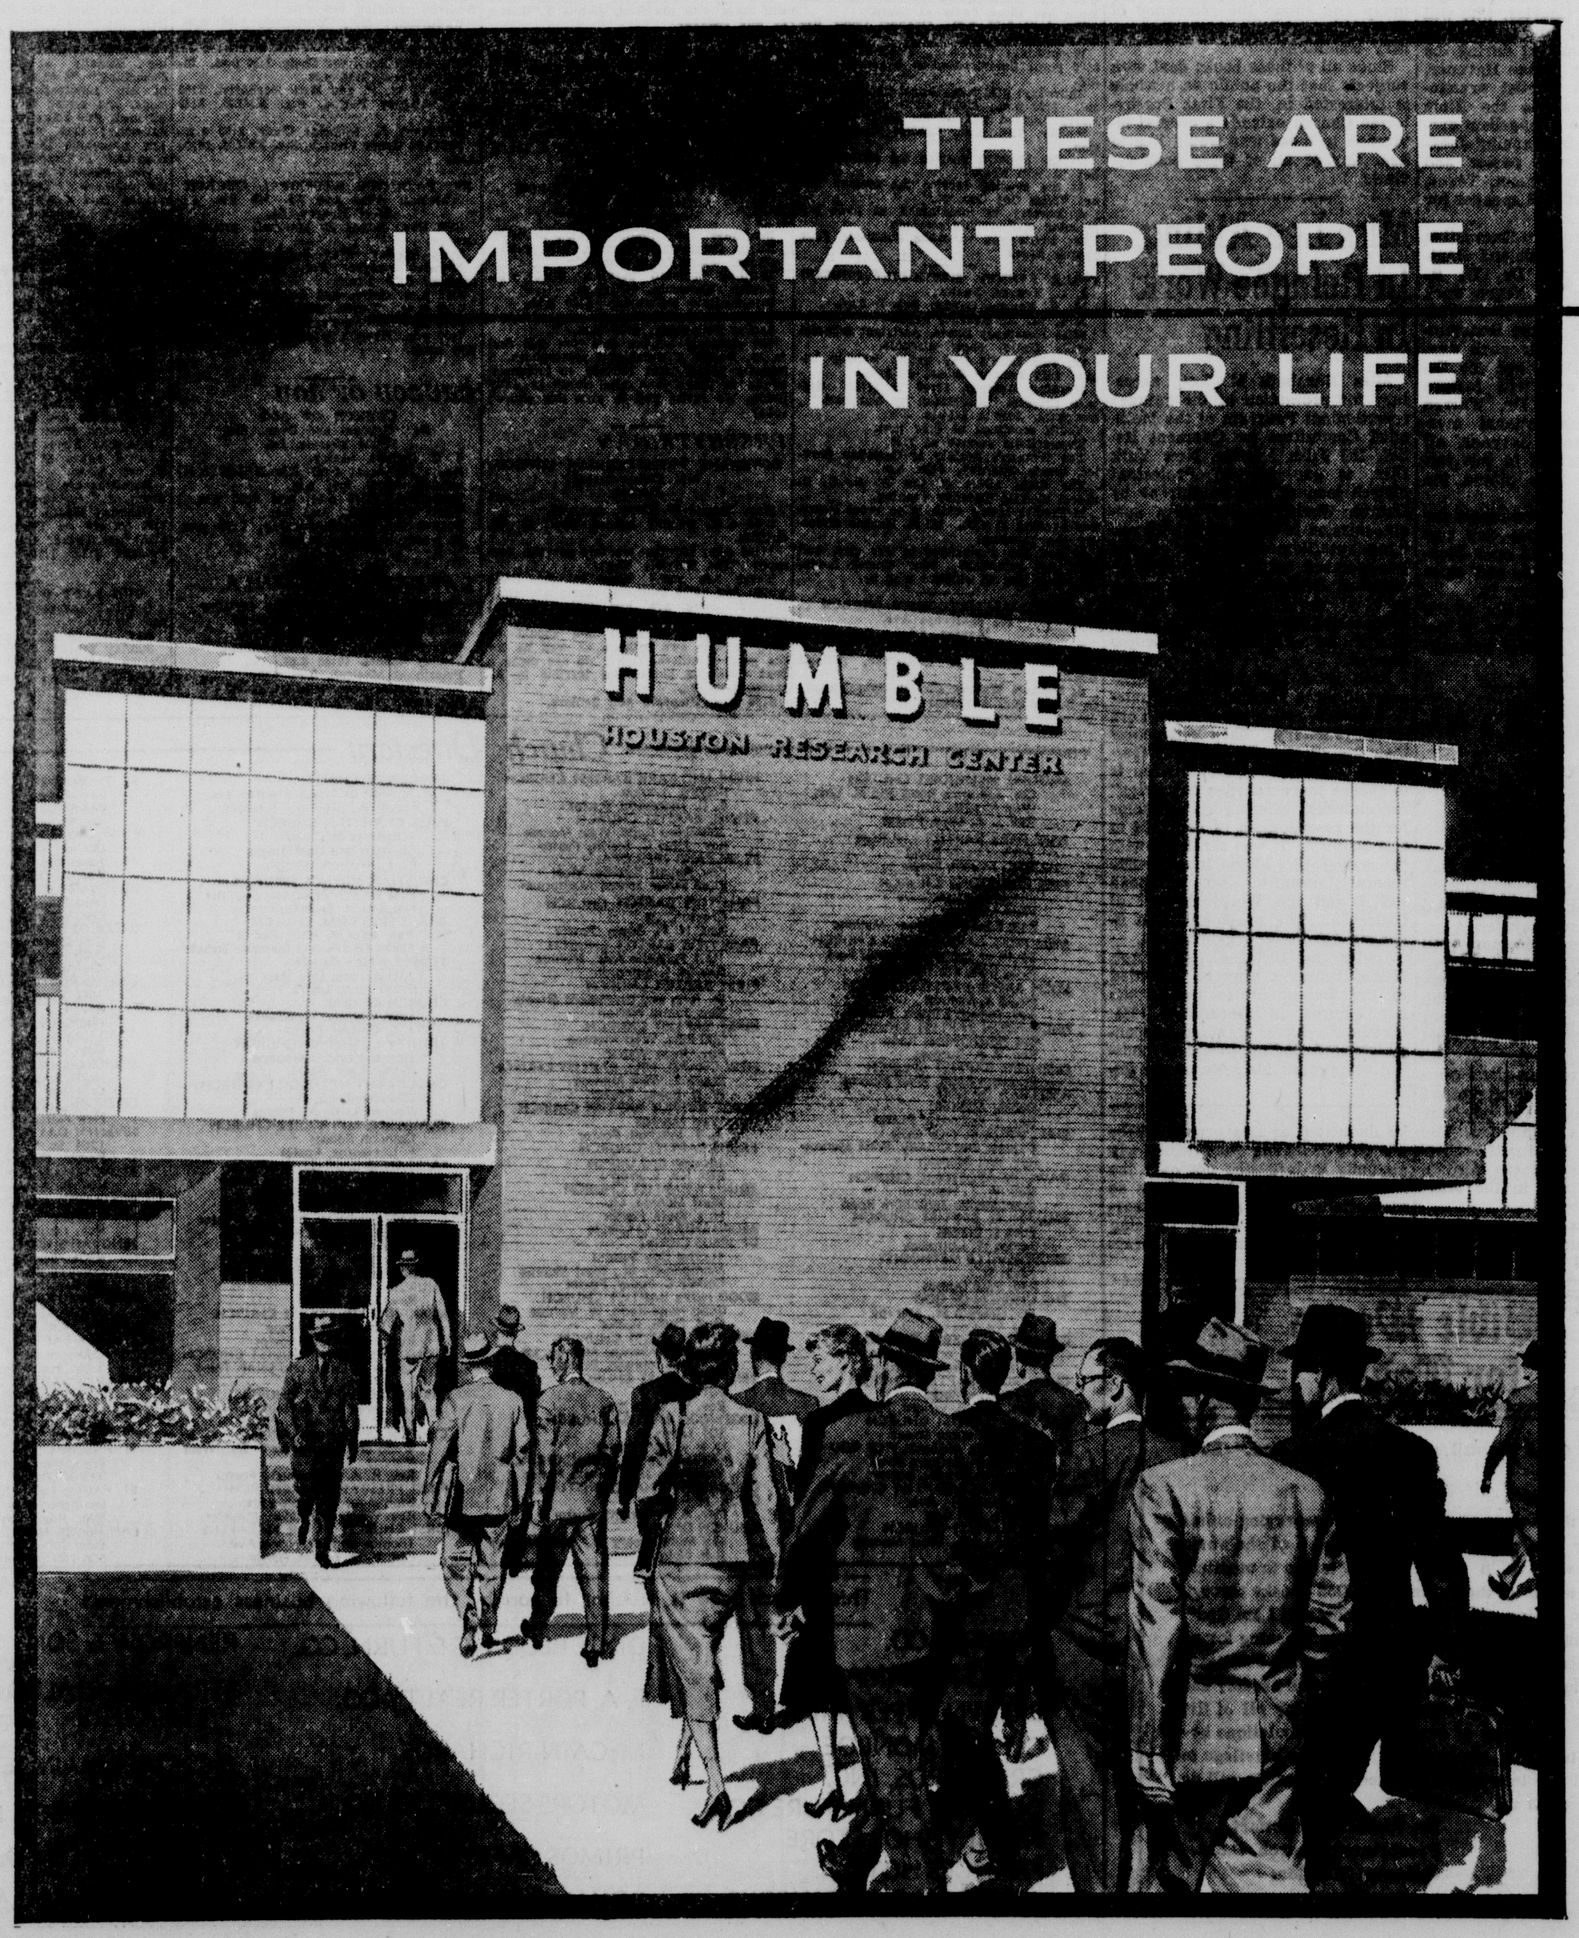

The usual precentage of murders and suicides, and missing person stories. One person, H. S. Chilton, was still missing at latest reports, and police were still searching for a Negro man accused of murder.

The discovery of a cast iron coffin containing the body of a woman buried 141 years near Bayou DeSiard. The coffin was later reburied.

And, last but not least, was politics.

At year's end candidates for various state and local offices were swinging into full campaigns, with the usual charges and countercharges from all most all of them.

The full story on the campaigns will be told in 1956.

Year-End Agricultural Report Points Out

Economic Pinch Felt On Area Farms

By FRANK NOONAN
(Morning World Farm Editor

The year 1955 was one of economic pinch for farmers in the northeast district, as well as in the rest of the state.

Farmers were caught in a cost-price squeeze. The cost of things they bought — already at a high level — continued to climb, while the prices they received for their products sagged lower and lower.

An indication of the gravity of the situation was given several days ago by agriculture commissioner Dave Pearce, who estimated that Louisiana farm income plunged some $40-million last year because of price - squeeze, acreage controls, increased production costs, and mounting farm surpluses.

Federal and state governments arranged for distribution of surplus foods to tenant farmers suffering hardships, and also made them available to other persons certified as being in need of them.

Associate Ouachita parish county agent, W. B. Aycock, Jr., observed that, "During the past year farmers have suffered tremendously from economic troubles.

"Many tenants and small land owners," he added, "have ceased to work their lands and are now commuting to and from town to work in industry. In the hill sections of the area many farmers have temporarily ceased farming their lands, obtained jobs in local industries and are reverting their lands back to pine timber."

The agent said that a large amount of land which was being row - cropped a few years ago is now being put in pine trees in the hill sections while fewer acres are being cultivated.

In the alluvial areas, he said, land still is being kept in cultivation, but much of it is being leased by large farm operators. Consequently a few operators control larger acreages than before, but their profits per acre are less.

Aycock's view is that the outlook for 1956 indicates little change in the farmers' plight.

'Because of acreage controls program of basic crops," he said, "growers will have to get more production per acre in order to survive."

Agricultural officials in the district noted an increasing use of fertilizers and lime, and a surge toward various soil conservation practices.

In areas where insects and weather elements did not work agains crops, high yields were reported in cotton, corn, oats, sorghum, sweet potatoes and hay, indicating, agriculturists said, the increased use of improved farming practices.

In the fall, Reid Grigsby, marketing specialist for Louisiana State University reported the larges number of cattle on record being placed on feed for fattening and finishing in the state.

This was attributed to the large grain and hay crop harvests, which sent commercial prices for corn, oats and hay to their lowest levels since 1941.

But livestock prices sagged in the state during the year, and as Agent Aycock pointed out, the drop in feed prices resulting from bumper grain crops produced by the farmers actually gave them a smaller gross return on their investments. Many chose to market crops through livestock.

Swin prices dropped sharply during the year, but the state pig crop was estimated at 633,000 head, or 22 per cent more than the total for 1954. The number of sows farrowing in the fall was 20 per cent above the previous fall, and the average of 6.1 pigs saved per litter was 0.1 above the 1954 fall average.

In the spring, 54,000 sows farrowed, and in the fall, 48,000, making a total of 102,000 for the year compared to 85,000 in 1954. For the 1956 spring crop, reports on breeding intentions indicate 64,000 sows will farrow in the state, an increase of 18 per cent over last spring, according to the Louisiana Crop Reporting Service.

Agriculture extension service representatives reported that more farmers are trying to employ better management methods in handling beef herds, since they are realizing that it takes "better management, better breeding and better feeding to produce the grade of cattle that are in demand in order to survive or realize an income in the highly competitive cattle industry."

Acreage controls on cotton failed to ease the problem of surpluses, but in many sections of the northeast district, the boll weevil clan made a strong bid at that goal.

The Louisiana Crop Reporting Service last month estimated state cotton production in 1955 at 585,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight. This was 13,000 bales or two per cent larger than the 1954 production of 572,000 bales. Acreage harvested was reduced to 65,000 acres in 1955, compared to 688,000 harvested in 1954. This was a reduction of 11 per cent.

Although reports from at least two district parishes told of special cases in which yields of cotton averaged three bales an acre, there were some growers who were virtually unable to salvage anything after boll weevil hordes had swept through their fields.

The boll weevil build-up came after a season of rains which bolstered early crops and pastures, set up conditions which were favorable for such situation. After the weevils appeared, weather conditions hampered attempts in many areas to apply insecticides.

Eventually the sturdy boll weevils seemed to build up a strong immunity to most of the insecticides, and few growers were able to free their fields of the pests.

The top crop was hardest hit. Costs of insect control mounted unusually high. Many growers made more than 20 applications of poison to stands of cotton, others bowed to the invader, defoliated and harvested early.

Some sections reported exceptional yields, while in fields nearby production was very low. One farmer harvested a total of three bales from 14 acres.

Some large farm operators, set back by slashes in cotton acreage and losses through adverse weather conditions and insect invasions, have spoken of retiring from agricultural operations. Many large operators were forced to dip into financial reserves built up in previous years to keep going. Small farmers often had no where to dip.

The cotton acreage allotment for the state this year is 610,891 acres The allotment last year was 648,442 acres.

In some areas farmers with land taken out of cotton by controls, declined to shift to other crops, while others tried soybeans and corn and pastures, and entered into a program of increased crop rotation.

Nineteen fifty-five probably will be long remembered as the year of the devastating spring freeze which wiped out northeast Louisiana's peach crops — as well as those in other southern states — and nipped early vegetable crops.

There were reports of freeze damage to pecans, but by late summer these were countered somewhat by growers in the district who said that losses were much less than had been thought earlier. The crop was considered as generally fair.

The year also will be remembered as the year of the rainmakers in northeast Louisiana. Cloud seeding by a weather group was done by means of generators which channe'ed silver iodide into air currents. Money was subscribed from farmers and businessmen from throughout the district for the project. The debate over its effectiveness was never settled in the minds of most area's residents.

However, the rains descended — man - made or otherwise — and for awhile met with general approval. Early vegetables flourished, and pastures produced an abundance of forage for grazing and storage as hay and silage. But the rains continued and some vegetable crops that had flourished earlier were cut short in some areas by excessive moisture.

Excessive rain caused the spread of the destructive disease, anthracnose, among watermelon crops, and also dissipated the flavor of melons untouched by the ailment. Added to these woes the crows also did considerable feasting in many melon patches.

Sweet potato growers in the state expressed considerable concern over the spread of internal cork disease in yams, and weevils. However, the year drew to a close on a bright note for the growers, indicated by a Louisiana Sweet Potato Commission report.

In November, Louisiana moved 1,090,542 bushels of yams, marking the fifth year that the November shipments topped the million-bushel total. This was the largest November shipment since 1952, when 1,115,933 bushels moved, and was 70,000 bushels more than November of 1954.

On the basics of figures compiled December 15, a total of 3,672,648 bushels of yams were moved during the shipping season, or about 70,000 bushels behind the total for the same period of the previous year.

The state's 1955 production of commercial vegetables dropped in volume and value under the totals reported for the previous year.

According to estimates of the Louisiana Crop Reporting Service, a total value of $8,137,000 was placed on the 1955 production of commercial vegetables for fresh market and processing. The valuation was 24 per cent below the value of $10,724,000 on yields of 1954.

The decrease in value of the commercial vegetable crops last year, according to the reporting service, was caused by less production. The decline was 34 per cent or 66,000 equivalent tons.

The reporting service's summary continued, "Production of value totaled 60,500 tons as an estimated 5,500 tons were not marketed because of low prices and other economic factors. Except for shallots and watermelons, production of fresh market crops was about the same or lower than in 1954."

The report stated further, "Production of strawberries, Irish potatoes and spring beans was down sharply. Vegetables grown for processing, estimated at 1,600 tons, were about one - fourth less than in 1954. Harvested acreage of all commercial vegetables for which estimates are made, including strawberries, watermelons and early Irish potatoes, totals 36,950 acres in 1955 or eight per cent less than the 40,160 acres harvested in 1954. Shallots, watermelons and fall beans are the only crops showing increase in acreage harvested . . ."

Agricultural agents noted in 1955 a continuing trend toward more processing of meats, fruits and vegetables for deep freeze storing in farm homes.

Commercial vegetable marketing programs are gaining in various sections of the district, largely patterned after one which has been worked successfully in the Oak Grove area. The state department of agriculture assigned personnel to help in encouraging such programs.

As the year ended an experiment in producing winter commercial vegetable crops of spinach and turnips was well under way in Concordia parish near Vidalia, and hope had been expressed that the parish's production of winter vegetable crops will soon outvalue that of the summer field crops.

Soil Conservation work continued at a fast pace in the district during the past year. Pond building reached a high level after weather conditions made it possible for workmen and Soil Conservation Service technicians to get into fields. Conservation work on grasslands continued at a moderate pace and there were more stands of crimson clover and bermuda grass combination planted to conserve soil as well as to build it up.

Although irrigation systems came in for little use in most sections of the northeast district during the past year because of the heavy amount of rainfall, farmers continued to install large numbers of supplementary watering systems as insurance against future drouths.

Extensive work also was done in terracing, drainage, timber stand improvement and stocking of ponds with fish. Most of these practices were carried out with government cost sharing obtained through the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation offices in the district. Liming and use of fertilizer, were also practices in which cost sharing was provided. Both showed considerable increase. Pasture improvement held its own.

As the year ended, the demand for seedling pines to plant on district farms was greater than the supply. The Louisiana Forestry Commission based its nursery stock on the planting situation which prevailed during the drouth year of 1954 which was unfavorable to seeding of pine trees. Weather conditions, however, changed and by planting time in 1955, a more favorable outlook prevailed and demand for seedlings soared. Many orders could not be filled.

An increase in the number of persons turning to scientific means of determining soil needs was noted. Samples of soil from points around farm lands being tested, were sent through local county agents to the soil testing laboratory at Baton Rouge. Reports on nutritional needs of soil were returned following tests.

Land clearing continued at a moderate pace, but also continuing was the encroachment of new housing projects upon land once used for farming. Land taken from cultivation provided sites for homes and industries, while new land for cultivation of row crops was taken from wooded areas.

A new program in the state, sponsored by the Louisiana Agricultural Extension Service, known as Farm and Home Development, was inaugurated in additional parishes. Through it farmers are advised on means of obtaining more efficient production on their farms by utilizing necessary elements. Available to the farmers for consultation are experts in various fields of agriculture and finance.

Parishes where the program has been in operation for a year or more report gains through more efficient farming practices.

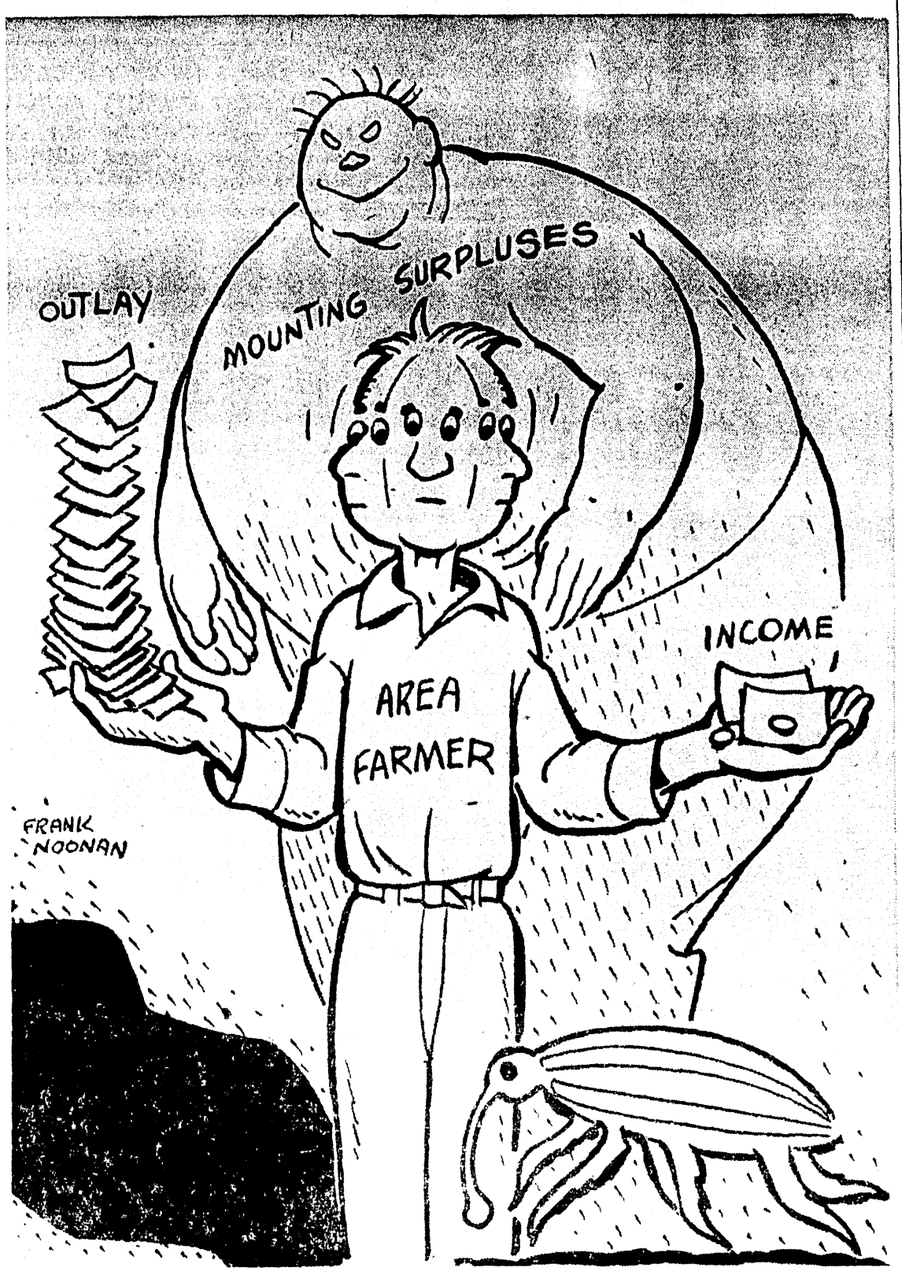

For the first time in 1955 many self - employed farmers were brought under provisions of the Social Security law, and as the new year dawned they were getting ready to file reports covering the period.

Future Farmers of America and 4-H Club members in the district made good showings with their various projects during the year. It was the younger set that helped spark the move to sheep raising as a supplementary source of income. The move was gaining at the year's end with a number of large and small farm operators. And the outlook is for more sheep projects this year.

Some 4-H officials said that there were indications of an increase in membership being recorded for the past year, but pointed out that an official membership count will not be made until around March 1.

The first large district fat calf sale under sponsorship of the State Extension Service and various other groups, was staged at Delhi last fall, attracting buyers from several states. A successful feeder pig sale of large proportions was held under extension sponsorship at Bastrop last summer, and a beef calf sale at Ruston, brought many buyers.

The Northeast Louisiana District Livestock Show held last March at Delhi, was the largest in the history of that annual exposition in which junior and senior exhibitors take part, indicating a growing interest in the livestock industry.

1,524 Arrested In West Monroe During Past Year

BY EZRA ADAMS
Of The Morning World Staff

The West Monroe police department, in a busy year just ended, made a total of 1,524 arrests and handled approximately 2,000 reported cases which included juveniles and minor offenses. This total represents an increase of over 200 cases from 1954.

Chief of Police Jeff Caldwell said this week that, although his 20-member department was kept busy in 1955, not one traffic accident fatality within the city limits was recorded during the entire year.

The department was composed of 15 members at the beginning of 1955. Last spring, five additions were made, bringing the total to 20: the chief; assistant chief, who is also the department's fingerprint expert; 13 uniformed policemen; three desk sergeants; and two traffic cops, one of which is a woman parking meter reader and ticket writer.

Armed robbery — two, both of which were later convicted of the charges.

Burglaries — 34 reported, 29 arrests, 15 convictions.

Stolen vehicles — 17 reported, seven cleared.

Aggravated assault — 11 arrests, 11 convictions.

Larceny, or theft of property valued at $50 or more — 10 cases, seven cleared.

Larceny, or theft of property valued at less than $50 — 67 cases reported, 23 arrests by West Monroe police, 30 convictions. Seven of the 30 convicted were arrested by authorities other than West Monroe police.

Minor assault — 98 arrests, 98 convicted.

Trespassing — 11 arrests, 11 convictions.

Gambling — 15 arrests, 15 convictions.

All other offenses — 179, 179 cleared.

Picked up and released to other authorities — 27 persons.

By BOB RUSSELL
Of The News-Star Staff

About one-quarter of a million dollars of contracts for street improvements was completed by the city of Monroe, during 1955, while Ouachita parish spent more than $40,000 for asphalt surfacing of parish roads, and the city of West Monroe, spent $3,500 for street intersections, to about 30 blocks paved and paid for by property-owners, during the same period.

In considering the particular expenditures for street and highway improvements, it is best to take them individually.

Monroe

The city of Monroe has completed about 30 miles of paved streets at a cost of $416,425.01, projected over a three - year period, that began October 1952 and ended at the close of 1955, Commissioner of Streets and Parks Wayne Huckaby, has announced.

During 1955, about one-quarter of a million dollars of the above projects were completed and $159,543.10 more in contracts was under construction. At the beginning of the new year, bids had been let for $64,579.80 of construction slated for 1956. All these were asphalt paved streets.

The following streets were surfaced with asphalt paving in projects, completed last year: Magnolia street — DeSiard to Railroad; Victoria — Spencer to Lexington; Frances Place — Spencer to Kentwood; Harn — Pope to Roberts; North 18th and North 17th — each Breard to Louisville; North 16th — Pine to Louisville; Arkansas avenue — 14th to 18th; Pine — 12th to 18th; South Seventh — Orange to Magnolia; Wilmuth — Pope to Roberts; Alabama — Magnolia to Winnsboro road; Frin — Seventh to Eighth; Garden drive — Roberts to Mo-Pac Railroad; South Eighth — Plum to Winnsboro road; Olive — Walnut to Sixth; Breard — Walnut to Sixth; Louise Anne avenue — Eighth to 14th; Harrison — Sherrouse to Gilbert; Armand — Sterlington road to College.

Olive — 18th to 21st; North 16th — Pine to Breard; Eason Place—Pope to Spencer; Harn — Roberts to Highland; Milton avenue — Orell to North; North 18th — Louisville to Forsythe; Harn — Pope to Spencer; Saratoga — Lexington to Frances; Morris avenue — Fourth to Fifth; South Sixth — Pecan to Winnsboro road; Spencer avenue—Elm to Lexington; Kentwood—Forsythe to Lexington; Frances Place —Sholars to 440 North; Florida—Peach to Pear; Orell Place — Park avenue to Lexington; Spencer avenue — Kentwood to North line Sholars addition; Sholars — Lexington to Spencer; Lexington — Orell to Sholars; South Sixth — Orange to Plum; Orange — Fifth to Seventh; South Fifth — Orange to Texas; Magnolia — Fourth to Fifth; Cedar — DeSiard to Railroad; Lafourche street.

Beauregard — Sxth to Eighth; Lionel — Columbia to South Col-

Beauregard — Sixth to Eighth; Spurgeon drive — Sherrouse to Gilbert; Madison — Sterlington road to College avenue; Ouachita — South Eighth to South 13th; South Ninth — Ouachita to Texas; South 11th — Layton to Texas; South 12th — Stone to Orange; Peach—South Fourth to South Fifth; Armond — Sterlington road to College avenue; and Orange — South Seventh to South 14th.

During 1955, about five miles of paved streets were finished, two miles more were under bid and contracts had been proposed for about nine miles more. The City of Monroe also reported that about 60 miles of streets had been gravelled or resurfaced exclusive of paving, during the 1952-55 period.

West Monroe

Superintendent of Streets L. L. Wood said that the city of West Monroe paid out $3,588.36 for street intersections that were paved during the past year. Paving in the city is paid for by property-owners and the following blocks were coated with a 2½ inch coat of blacktopping by the Coastal Asphalt Company, at a cost of one dollar per foot.

Pine, Clayton and Mill — Each street paved from North Eighth to North Ninth; Wood — North Fifth to North Ninth; North Seventh — Wood to Natchitoches.

Coleman avenue was paved for one block off the old Ouachita river traffic bridge by the Louisiana Highway Department. The department also did a major renovation of the bridge during the year, at no expense to the Twin Cities.

Other streets paved, all in the McGuire addition, include: Auburn — Arkansas road to White's Ferry Road, 7 blocks; North Eighth — White's Ferry Road to 11th, 3 blocks; North Ninth White's Ferry Road to 11th; Carter's Drive — Warren Drive around in a circle, 5 blocks; and Carter's street to Carter's drive, 2 blocks.

Maintenance work, such as gravelling, widening and leveling off of the streets, is done by the city.

Ouachita Parish

During 1955, the Ouachita highway department completed eight or 10 miles of construction work, but concentrated mostly on improving surfacing of existing roads.

Last summer, 16.5 miles of road was paved with asphalt, at a cost of $41,250. This paving brings the total miles of parish roads that are blacktopped to 90; 546 more miles are graveled and 89 are graded, for a total of 725 miles.

This asphalt program took about 250 days of motor grader work during the year, said G. M. Harris, parish engineer, for the preparing of a suitable foundation for the pavement.

About $25,000 more was spent in constructing 10 new wooden bridges totaling 260 feet in length, and repair of 30 other bridges, of a total 960 feet.

Parish roads, their location and length of paving, includes: Guthrie road, ward 1, 1.07 miles; Morgan Hare road, ward 2, 1 mile; Stanfer subdivision, ward 3, .69 miles; Blankston road, ward 4, 1 mile; Tuberculosis Sanitarium drives and Tony Bayou road, ward 5, 1.7 miles; Claiborne and Beulah church roads, ward 6, 1.9 miles; Caples and Crowell roads, ward 7, 1.9 miles; Cables, Philpot and Lapine roads, ward 8, 4.4 miles; Cypress school, Joe Wheat and Redcut roads, ward 9, 2 miles and Broadmoor place, Payton and Deber drives and Camelia street, ward 10, 1 mle. The total was 16.66 miles of asphalt surfacing.

Construction on the Wall Lake road and Coker road has been completed and will soon be finished on the McMellon road number two. All are located in wards 5 and 6, said Harris, who also revealed that right-of-way had been obtained on the Hickory Bend road in ward 5 and that construction would be resumed soon.

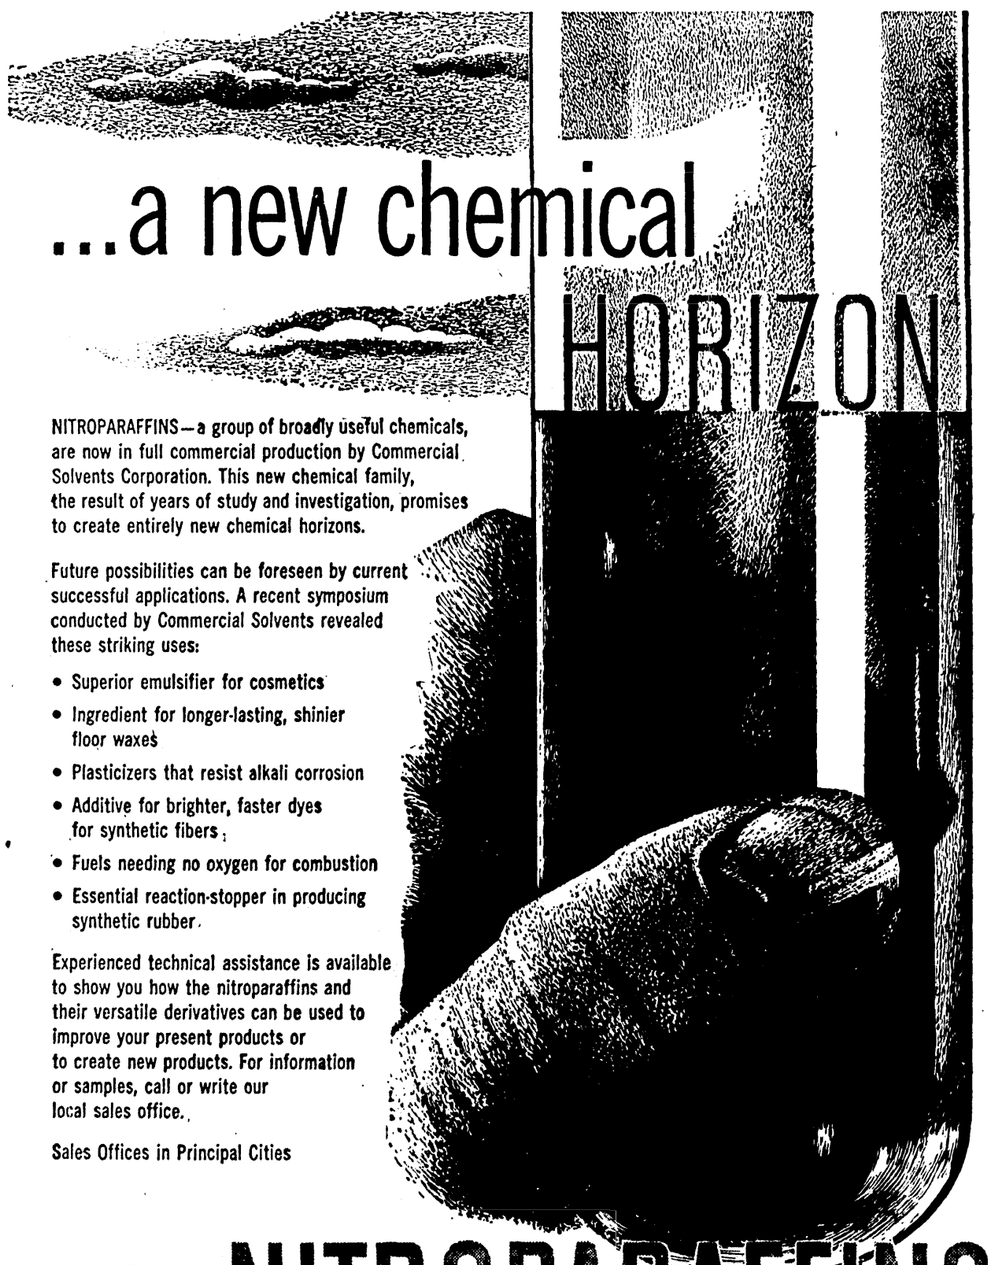

The installing of driveway culverts, of which about 225 were put in in the first nine months of 1955, is one that brings the highway department closest to the public, the parish engineer said. He also reported that two miles of new canal drainage had been built in ward 1 and about 15 miles of old canals reworked in other wards.

About 57,283 yards of dirt and gravel were hauled during the year by the parish highway department. This was used for the backfilling of culverts, bridges, wash places, patching and regraveling. About 20,000 yards of State-Aid gravel was also hauled by the parish.

EXPLOSION EXPLAINED

JONESBORO, Jan. 7 (Special)—The unexplained explosion heard here New Year's night may have been the one that occurred at the Southern Advance Bag and Paper Company, although it seems improbable that such a small explosion could be heard over such a wide area.

A 14 inch steam valve exploded, but no one happened to be in the room at the time.

Sewanee To Finish Chapel

At a meeting of the bishops of the dioceses owning the University of the South held at Sewanee on December 12, it was agreed that the completion of All Saints' Chapel should be a prime objective for the climax of the Centennial Celebration in June of 1958.

The cornerstone of All Saints' Chapel was laid in 1907 as part of the celebration of Sewanee's semi - centennial. The financial panic of that year made it impossible to continue construction, and in 1910 a temporary roof was placed on the stone walls, and the two ends of the building were enclosed. That temporary expediency has continued for forty-five years, and Sewanee is now planning to celebrate its one hundredth anniversary during the academic year of 1957-1958.

Now Its Time To Subscribe For Methodist Papers

The week of Jan. 8-15 has been set aside by the Arkansas Methodist and the Louisiana Methodist for their annual simultaneous circulation campaign. The two weekly papers, which are the official publications of the Methodist Church in the two states, have set a goal of 35,000 subscribers.

Both papers are published in Little Rock, and are owned by the three Methodist conferences in the area; namely, the Little Rock conference, the North Arkansas Conference, and the Louisiana Conference. Dr. E. T. Wayland, and his son, the Rev. Ewing T. Wayland, are editors of the publications.

The Arkansas Methodist now has 24,196 subscribers, and is in its 75th year of publication. The Louisiana Methodist is in its eighth year, and lists 10,656 subscribers.

Each year the three annual conferences authorize the circulation campaign; and during the week designated, all local Methodist churches in the area give attention to obtaining renewals and new subscriptions.

Dr. Wayland said in his statement concerning the campaign that the co-operation from the leadership of the church and the response from the church membership have been remarkable in every circulation campaign conducted in either Arkansas or Louisiana.

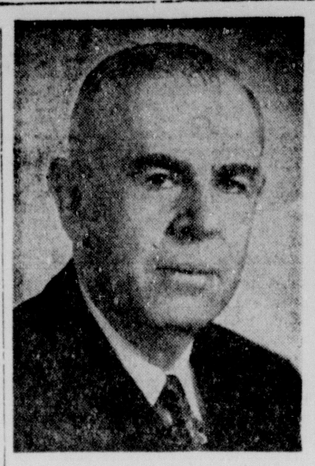

"We are expecting the results of the campaign this year to set a new high in circulation," he concluded.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: Dear Dr. Graham: I have recently become a Christian through your radio broadcast. In my church, not much is said about worldly amusements. Can you give me some rules to go by? R. J. Y.

ANSWER: The matter of legitimate amusements is one that you will have to settle personally. I would suggest principles that are set forth in the Bible as a guide. First, if you have any doubt, don't do it (Romans 41:23). Second, if it will harm someone else, don't do it (Romans 14:13). Third, if it will hinder your usefulness for God, don't do it (Romans 14:16). Fourth, be sure that your choice is always elevating (Colossians 3:1). And, finally, do everything in the name of the Lord (Colossians 3:17). Ask these questions of your diversion and amusements and God will direct and bless you for it.

BISHOP PAUL E. MARTIN

REV. JAMES T. HARRIS

Bishop Martin To Lay Church Corner Stone

Sunday will be a big day at Memorial Methodist church for Bishop Paul E. Martin, Bishop of the Arkansas-Louisiana area of Methodist churches, will conduct a corner stone laying at 8:30 a. m. today. Participating with him will be the Rev. James T. Harris, superintendent of the Monroe district and also the Rev. E. T. Wayland, editor of the Louisiana Methodist and the pastor of Memorial Church, the Rev. Ralph Cain.

The completion of the handsome new sanctuary will not be ready until April 1, but this earlier date was the only one available as a speaker here so plans have been perfected along these lines.

The sanctuary was designed by the Monroe architectural firm of Johns and Neel and the construction was by Ira Cagle and Son, a local building contracting firm.

The building committee, which will share in the honors bestowed, comprises: W. W. Stevens, W. B. Mann, J. Herbert Walker, Mrs. W. A. Cotton, Edwin C. Rowan and F. Harold Riggs.

This construction project is now being culminated after considerable work on behalf of all members and especially the committee and has required about ten years for its completion.

The preacher at the 11 a. m. service at the church today will be in charge of the Rev. E. T. Wayland, of Little Rock, Ark., editor of the official weekly newspaper.

He comes with high recommendations and with his wife and small son are located in an apartment here.

Book Review's Topic Deals In Self Power

In the sanctuary of the First Presbyterian Church at 5:00 p.m., Sunday, the minister will review the new book, "Power To Manage Yourself," by Dr. Harold B. Walker.

This is an excellent book to show how religion and psychology can work together in teaching the individual person how we can meet the problems of life with a firm, steady faith.

It is a good book to teach self-control.

Winter Bible Meet Set In 1st Baptist In W. Monroe

The District III Baptist Convention Winter Bible conference will be started at the First Church, West Monroe, January 16th for three successive days.

Thereby, giving them the opportunity of improving their ministry.

The speakers for this Bible Conference will be: Dr. Warren Hultgren, pastor of the Trinity Baptist Church, Lake Charles, who will lead in the study of sermon preparation and preaching during the day sessions; Dr. Vance Havener, nationally known Baptist evangelist, who will lead in the Bible interpretation and Evangelism during the day; Dr. D. Manning Jackson, a noted Negro pastor and evangelist from Beaumont, Texas, will be an inspirational speaker for the day sessions.

Dr. Robt Lee, interim Exercutive Secretary for the Louisiana Baptist convention, and Dr. W. R. Griggs, secretary of Negro work for the Louisiana Baptist Convention, will lead in the Denominational Emphasis hour each day.

The night sessions are for the general public and will feature Bible Exposition by Dr. Warren Hultgren and inspirational messages by Dr. Vance Havener. All pastors and members in this territory are invited to attend the sessions.

Will Dedicate Oak Ridge's Church Unit

Today, at eleven o'clock, in Oak Ridge, at the Methodist Church, the recently completed educational building will be dedicated.

Officiating at the ceremony will be Bishop Paul E. Martin, bishop of the Louisiana and Arkansas areas. He will be assisted by the Reverend James A. Poole, present pastor of the church, the Reverend Percy Emanuel, pastor of the church at the time when plans were formulated and the Reverend George Cagle, pastor at the time the building was completed. The Reverend James T. Harris, superintendent of the Monroe district will also participate in the service.

Memorial gifts placed in the church and educational building over a period of many years will be dedicated at this ervice. These are gifts of lasting value which will continue to influence not only the lives of those who knew these so memorialized, but many who never knew them will gather blessing as they come to church for prayer and worship.

Rev. M'Fadden Gives Reviews Of Noted Books

As in past winter seasons, the First Presbyterian Church is having another series of book reviews by the minister, W. H. McFadden. These will be conducted in the sanctuary of the church beginning January 8 and each Sunday thereafter at 5:00 p. m.

For January the following books will be reviewed: January 8—"Power to Manage Yourself" by Dr. Harold B. Walker. This book deals with such questions as "your responsibility for your getting rid of guilt, release from tension, you can worry wisely," and similar topics.

January 15 — "The Life of John Calvin" by Dr. Emanuel Stickelberger. This book portrays the life of John Calvin, the founder of the Presbyterian Church, and presents the doctrines of the reformed faith in an interesting and instructive fashion.

January 22 — "Your Home Can Be Christian" by Dr. Donald M. Maynard. This book is designed to teach parents and children the great cooperative adventure of living as Christians in the home, and especially is it designed to help parents train their children in Christian living.

January 29 — "The Gift of Power" by Dr. Lewis J. Sherrill. This book is perhaps the greatest yet to be written on the philosophy of Christian education. It deals with why man is so profoundly disturbed today and shows the relevancy of the Christian faith to contemporary conditions.

Since all of these books deal with subjects that the public as a whole is interested in, the First Presbyterian Church extends a cordial invitation to those who would like to hear any or all of these book reviews.

Miss Lee Aiding In Refugee Work In Resettling

Miss Elizabeth M. Lee, secretary for promotion of the refugee resettlement Program of the Methodist Committee for Overseas Relief, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York City, is one of two Protestant church leaders sent to Europe by Church World Service on a special mission in connection with refugee resettlement. Also on the two-member team is the Rev. Alexander Jurisson, resource secretary on world relief and church cooperation for the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Both Miss Lee and Mr. Jurisson will be in Europe approximately a month, returning to New York in late January. They will center their activities in Holland and Germany. Purpose of the mission is to secure more refugee "histories" for churches offering sponsorships for the resettlement of refugees in this country. It was arranged with the cooperation of the Intergovernmental Committee on European Relief and the World Council of Churches. The project is also financed by these organizations.

Under the Refugee Relief Act, 209,000 refugees may be resettled in the United States before the act expires in December 1956. Methodists have accepted responsibility for finding jobs and housing assurances for 5,000 of the total.

Bible Words for Today

PSALM 46:10 "Be still, and know that I am God." (RSV)

* * *

During these days when all of us are worrying either about our own problems or about those of the world in which we live, it would be well for us to meditate upon the words of the Psalmist as God speaks through him to us saying, "Be still, and know that I am God". As we think of these words and their meaning for us a great sense of calm and peace comes into our lives. We are in God's good hands. He is the creator and sustainer of His Universe. He cares for all of His children. He knows of our trials and tribulations before we tell Him about them. It is our privilege to put our lives into His hands knowing that He will do what is best for us.

1955 Industrial Growth Boomed

5 Parishes Show $12 Million Gain In Twelve Months

By EZRA ADAMS
Of The Morning World Staff

Industry took a big jump in Ouachita parish and the surrounding area during 1955.

While Louisiana as a whole made industrial expansion during the year at the rate of $250,000 a day, Ouachita, Franklin, Richland, Morehouse and Lincoln parishes were building up a total of about $12,000,000 worth of expanded and new industries.

Not far behind this are projected new industries for Franklin, Ouachita and Winn parishes.

Under the Louisiana inducement to industry program, more new industries are expected to be negotiated and make their appearances over the state in 1956. And the northeast section will not be industry - idle, according to those in this area who are awake to the need and are working endlessly toward bringing new industry into the section.

At Winnfield, plans are underway to obtain a plant for the American Tar and Turpentine Co. after voting a $225,000 bond issue. Some 100 men will be employed.

Construction is in progress on a plant at Ruston which will employ about 200 men. A $350,000 bond issue was carried in 1955 for the project.

A pilot garment plant in Winnsboro has been operating for the past couple of months and is to be the forerunner of a much larger plant. The plans were agreed to by the town of Winnsboro and Sustan Corp., garment manufacturers, through persistent efforts of the Winnsboro Business Men's Association. The completed factory, when operating at capacity, is expected to employ approximately 250 female workers. No bond issue has been voted as yet.

Rayville voted in 1955 to carry a $150,000 bond election in order to guarantee a factory there for the making of men's dress slacks by a Monroe firm which desired to expand its operations.

The large paper mills in this area — Bastrop, West Monroe and Jonesboro — made expansions to their operations during 1955.

The year saw Brown Paper Mill and its affiliates in West Monroe sold to the sprawling Olin Mathieson Corporation following lengthy negotiations. The new owners took over operations late in the year. Expansions in several of the plants' departments are reportedly planned by Olin.

Ouachita parish industry increased enormously in the preceding 12 months. Increases in new and expanded operations totalled upwards of $9 million.

Although many smaller companies combined to create a big part of the overall increase in Ouachita, the largest single expansion was that of Commercial Solvents at Sterlington.

About 200 additional employees were given jobs by Ouachita industries during 1955 and some $700,000 were added to the parish's annual payroll.

For the future, many northeast Louisiana business men are looking toward the Ouachita river's proposed nine - foot channel to help industry in this area and to provide more income and jobs. They believe it will help bring a boost in overall business activity throughout the river basin.

Early in 1955, local business men formed the Monroe Area Industrial Development Corporation, for the avowed purpose of encouraging interests of new industry and to further the development of existing area industries.

Before last year's end, MAIDCO was given access to a 250-acre tract of land just south of Monroe on Highway 65 for developing into an industrial district to offer a number of industries. Ouachita Industries, Inc., was chartered to handle the district's legal business for MAIDCO.

Coupled with the immense growth of industry in Ouachita were the boom in construction, oil and gas operations, and in general business activity.

Added to these were big expenditures for municipal improvements, expansion in parish and city education, and industry's own increased business.

In Ouachita Parish

By WILLIAM COLEMAN
Of the Morning World Staff

In the past year, there were more births than deaths reported by hospitals and funeral homes in Ouachita Parish. The three hospitals reported a total of 4076 births for the year while the 10 local funeral homes reported 698 cases for the year.

In 1954, the total births for Ouachita Parish as given in the statistical report of the State Department of Health was 4012. This number of births is very near the 1955 total as counted here.

There were 72 violent deaths in Ouachita Parish during the year according to the parish coroner, Dr. J. T. French. The violent death total for 1954 was 59 as given in the state report, an increase of 13 deaths.

The coroner's report also listed 390 deaths, natural in cause where no physician had been in attendance. These come under the coroner's office.

Funeral services for most of these deaths were handled by parish funeral homes.

The E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital reported a total of 2528 births and of this number, over 1900 were Negroes.

The Wright-Bendel Clinic reported a total of 217 births. St. Francis reported a total of 1329 births but did not give a breakdown of births by race.

In the breakdown of deaths of a violent nature in the parish automobile accidents of all types lead again last year as a killer, claiming a total of 26 lives: struck by automobile, 4; automobile accident, 8; automobile collisions, 9; automobile-tree collisions, 4; truck accident, 1; truck-train collision, 1.

Other violent deaths showed, suicides, 9; struck by train, 1; struck by falling water tank, 1; struck by falling tree, 1; kerosene ingestion, 1 (child); homicides, 14; fell from a water tank, 1; fell from bed, 1; carbon monoxide poisoning, 1; asphyxiation, 2; aspiration, 1; accidental suffocation, 2; accidental shooting, 1; accidental electrocution, 1; accidental drownings, 3; and accidental burns, 5.

The 1954 state report shows that motor vehicles were the leading killer claiming 24 lives; water transport took 8; drownings, 5; falls, 8; firearms, 1; and all other, 16.

Other statistics supplied by the coroner's office: examinations were as follows: committments to feeble minded home, 11; interdictions, 61; mental observations, 12; recommittments to mental institution, 13; sanity hearing, 1; special examinations, 27; and autopsies, 5.

The total number of cases handled by the coroner's office for the year 1955 was 592.

MANAGER NAMED — Mrs. Ada M. Edelmann, above, has been named manager of the second floor of The Palace, according to an announcement by Jack Masur, president of the firm. She comes to Monroe from a Dallas department store and has more than 17 years experience in ready-to-wear.

Will Adams Prexy Of Madison Board

TALLULAH, Jan. 7 (Special) — Will Z. Adams was re-elected president of the Madison Parish School Board and John Carpenter was elected vice president at a recent meeting.

Mrs. Frances Alexander Robinson was named supervisor of the Negro schools of the parish.

There Was Big News Here Last Year; Olin-Brown Trade Probably Excelled

By PAUL JASPER
Of the News-Star Staff

Old Father Time rang down the curtain on another year-long chapter in the history of the Twin Cities last week, and the pages of a new year have begun to unfold.

But, like an author looking back a chapter to pick up the thread of his story and to avoid making the same errors, it is sometimes wise to check through what has already passed.

For some, 1955 was a good year; for others, it was bad.

For a newspaper, it was all news.

Perhaps one of the most important stories on the local scene during the year was the multi-million dollar sale of the Brown paper industries here to the huge Olin-Mathieson Corporation — a sale which may open unlimited expansion in the Twin City area.

The sale of Brown industries had been rumored for several years, but it was not until last year when it was definitely established that it would go through.

On September 15, it was announced that Olin bought out Brown for $50,000,000 in cash and 725,000 shares of Olin-Mathieson common, one of the largest sales ever effected in this area.

And it was less than two months earlier when Ouachita Parish found itself with another slice of good news. The Golson No. 1 was definitely established as the first well in a full-fledged oil well in the parish.

On other fronts, progress was going on, also.

The Ouachita parish school board passed a $5,200,000 bond issue for improvements to the parish school system; and West Monroe passed a $1,370,000 bond issue for fire prevention and water improvements in West Monroe.

West Monroe itself was greatly expanded as the city council annexed outlying territories of the city and virtually doubled the amount of land in sight.

In Monroe, Mayor John E. Coon proposed a 15-point improvement program to be carried out in the city as soon as practicable, and appointed a seven-man advisory committee to begin working on the plans.

The Monroe Area Industrial Development Corporation pushed the purchase of a 250-acre tract of land to be used as a potential site for new industry.

Road, building, both in the city and parish, was stepped up. For example more than $100,000 in repairs were done to the old traffic bridge, and plans were put in the making for the complete black-topping of the Cheniere Dam Road.

But not all the news was good.

In Monroe, power plant failures struck the city with hammer-blows, creating ill-feeling in some quarters and raising the question of whether Monroe should sell out its power plant to private industries.

The question was never fully resolved: The plant was not sold, but neither were all the funds necessary to bring it into tip-top condition supplied.

Another story was a revival of the "Joe Cooper and his dog" story — from the preceding year— when ill-feeling again flared over parish school teacher appointments and a number of slander suits were filed.

On January 9, only a few days after the new year began, a young Monroe husband shot his wife to death with a rifle, and was given 15 years in the state penitentiary for manslaughter.

The year was also the year of the $11,000 poker game holdup, which ended with three men given long terms in the state prison for pulling weapons on a roomful of men in a private residence.

In the comic section, as 1955 began, "Rughead" of Dick Tracy fame was still going strong. He died later in a sewer of gunshot wounds. Dennis continued to be a Menace.

On March 7, the Morning World "jackpot" got underway—the money-winning crossword puzzle with many thousands now look forward to with anticipation and hope each week.

The Twin City area also took active part in some of the nation or statewide stories, discussing them with an interest comparable to anything which has happened locally.

One was the nine-state strike of Southern Bell Telephone Co., which resulted in violence elsewhere and only narrowly missed in Monroe. As it was, vandals several times damaged telephone company property while the strike was in progress.

Another was the Supreme Court's decision outlawing segregation in public schools. The decision was met with mixed reactions, but in the Twin Cities most of them boiled down to one answer: "We don't want integration."

The nationwide use of the Salk anti-polio vaccine also began in 1955—a story bringing both good news and bad. Fortunately, Ouachita parish missed receiving the faulty doses of the Cutter vaccine, but despite the inoculation of first and second graders here more Ouachita parish residents developed polio than they did in 1954.

Other noteworthy events of the year here included:

Several fatal traffic accidents, both in the city and parish.

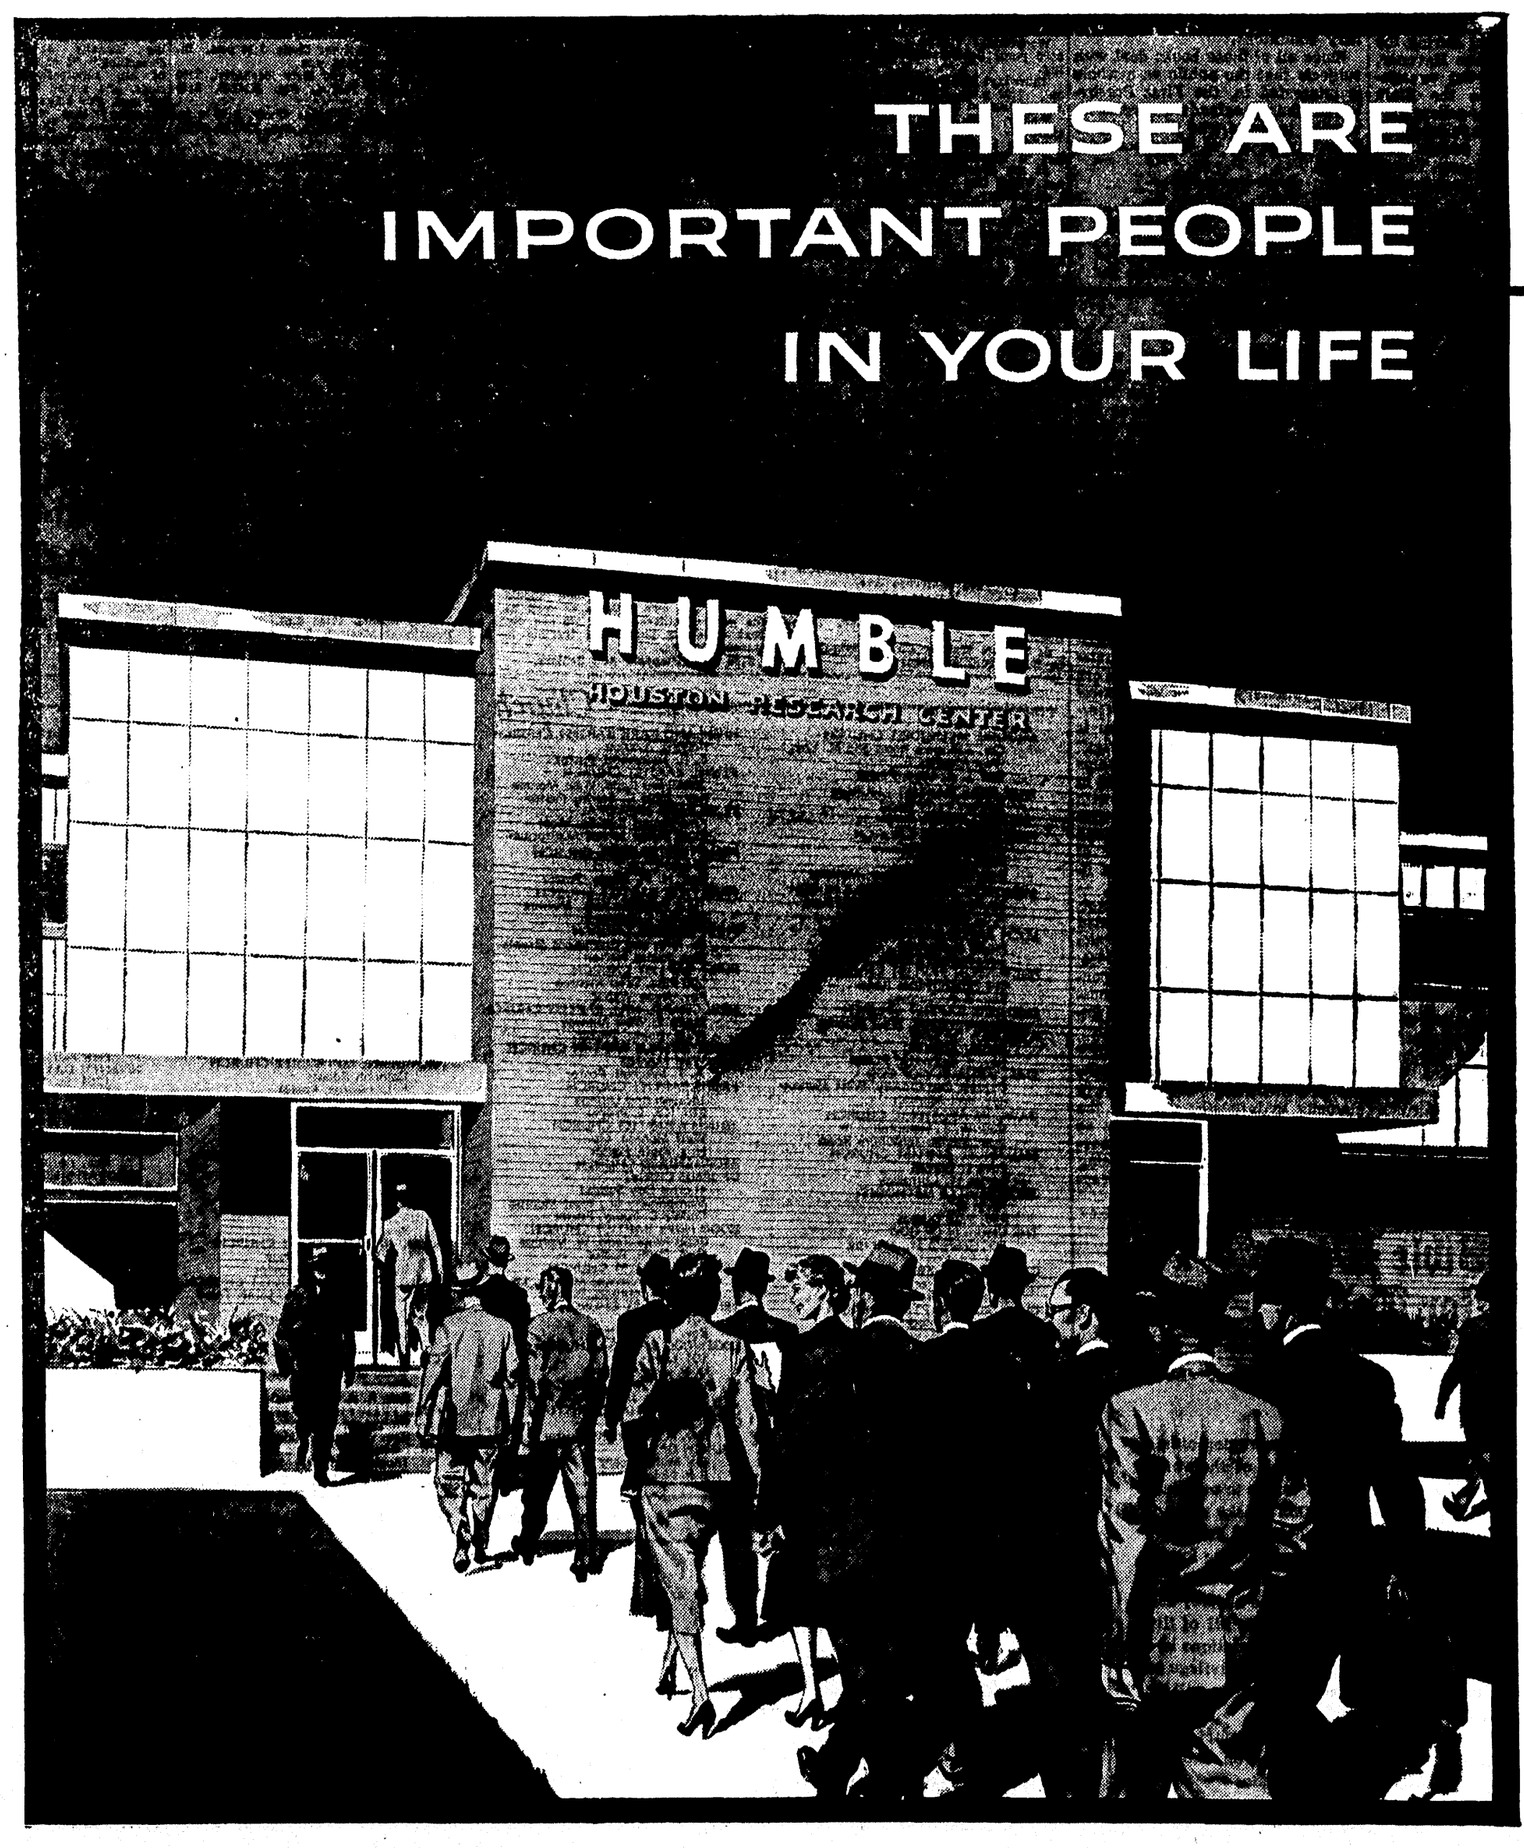

The usual precentage of murders and suicides, and missing person stories. One person, H. S. Chilton, was still missing at latest reports, and police were still searching for a Negro man accused of murder.

The discovery of a cast iron coffin containing the body of a woman buried 141 years near Bayou DeSiard. The coffin was later reburied.

And, last but not least, was politics.

At year's end candidates for various state and local offices were swinging into full campaigns, with the usual charges and countercharges from all most all of them.

The full story on the campaigns will be told in 1956.

THE HOME SHIFT—

Garden Exercise After Holidays

There's lots to do in the garden and we really need to work off some calories we picked up during the holidays. It's just a shame calories can't be extracted from holiday foods because its so much fun nibbling with our friends. But—since no enterprising chemist has solved that problem for us "plump people," we'll have to cut down on the calories and take some exercise.

Now — The Exercise

You can begin transplanting. There are two types of plants you'll want to move, evergreen and deciduous. The evergreen's must be moved with more care because there are so many leaves to be fed until the plant can get re-established in its new home. Some good gardeners snip every leaf before transplanting. You don't like that though, do you? You love those green leaves and you're probably moving the plant because you want an evergreen in that spot. Well—if you move carefully you probably won't need to remove the leaves.

First, prepare the hole where you'll put the evergreen plant. Make this hole larger and deeper than the ball of earth you'll move with the plant. Now fill in with some of the good top soil you just dug. This loose soil in the hole gives a soft home for those little roots that will be wandering down that way soon. Now you're ready to move the evergreen. Cut all around the plant the depth of the spade and out at the edge of the spread of the branches. Don't do any lifting or prizing up. Just cut a circle. On one side dig a hole back of the circle and run the spade under the plant. It has been cut loose and should come up easily. You armed yourself with a burlap sack and nails before you started this job, so take this sack, lift the evergreen plant, by the ball of dirt and place it on the sack. Pin the sack around the ball so the dirt will not fall away, using the nails for pins. Pick the plant up, lifting ball and all from the bottom. Take by wheelbarrow to the prepared hole. Test with the spade handle to see that the hole is no deeper than the plant was growing in its other home. Now put the plant in the prepared hole, fill in with good soil about three-fourths full. Fill the hole with water. Let settle for several hours, then go back and finish filling in the hole with good soil and firm well. A good idea is to leave a little basin around the plant to catch water. Dirt piled up around the trunk of the shrubs sheds water. Keep the plant watered until the rains start, and anytime during a drowth for the next year.

If—in a month or so the leaves start turning a little yellow and looking sick, take your yard scissors and snip off every leaf. The plant roots are working too hard trying to furnish food and moisture to the trunk, limbs and leaves. Don't worry, by March you'll see tiny leaves coming on that will reward you.

More Exercise

The deciduous plants are dug and planted bare rooted. The main ideas are to keep the roots from drying out, cut only those roots that have wandered out very far, and don't crowd the roots. You'll need a very wide hole for a very small plant, then proceed as for planting the evergreen.

Wise Buying

You can start the New Year with a cheering lineup of plentiful foods. Topping the official list, because they are especially abundant are pork, beef and grapefruit. The fourteen year record low pork prices of last month are still the rule as plenty of hogs continue to roll to the market. Also, beef prices are down. The better grade of cattle suffered the most price-wise, giving you cheaper U. S. Good and U. S. Choice beef.

Other plentiful foods include tangerines, oranges and winter pear. Potatoes are in the bargain spotlight because of the bumper crop. Louisiana yams continue plentiful. Dry beans, peanuts, canned tuna, lard dairy products, eggs and vegetable fats and oils remain in heavy supply so are a good buy for you, Mrs. Housewife. What is a good buy this week may be a luxury next week.

Announcements

Your "Open House" shows for next week are as follows; Monday, Betty Sue Rockett from Caldwell Parish will make a blouse; Tuesday, Alice Teddlie from Winnsboro will be here, subject TVA; Wednesday, Mary Margaret will bring the three blue ribbon flower arrangements from the Garden Center and we'll do some gardening; Thursday, we'll cover one chair and dry clean another one. Friday is Marketing Day with Mildred and Mammy.

See you next Sunday.

Garden Center Notes

By Mary M. Jardine

New Year Flower Show Is Held By 4 Clubs

Mrs. Fred Hayton, Sr., Dixieland Daylily Society exhibited a triangular arrangement of red camellias and self foliage in a milk glass compote. Glossy green foliage of the American boxwood was used in the background adding height and depth to this arresting design. Mrs. Edward F. Dalton, Flora Group, created a line-mass arrangement in complementary colors of blue - green and red-orange. A tall graceful line was established with orange bittersweet (celastrus scandens) with the curved line continuing down the front of the turquoise pillow container. Tangerines and russet apples were effectively grouped within the linear pattern.

Mrs. K. R. Young, Fleur De Lis Garden Club, designed an arrangement of foliage. Two foliage forms were used — the new growth of Buford Holly, the tips being a yellow - green, and the larger leaves of Mahonia (Oregon Holly Grape). The triangular design was placed in a rectangular green bowl lined with yellow. Three yellow pomegranates formed the center of interest. Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Flora Group presented a most interesting line - mass arrangement of foliage in a color scheme of green and yellow. A round yellow bowl set on a brown base served as a container for the arrangement of variegated boxwood and aucuba japonica (gold dust) Polymitas shells wired to resemble flowers were effectively grouped in the focal area. These shells are yellow with touches of orange. They come from the Oriente province of Cuba, the only place in the world where these particular snails are found. All have the same architecture, yet no two look alike. Artists and designers study them for the inspiration of color combinations and originality of blends and tints.

Mrs. Suzee Gorman, Dixieland Daylily Society, created a diagonal line arrangement in a conch shell, which was placed on a rectangular black base. Small leaf English ivy formed the graceful line and pink camellias were used for accent. They matched in tint the delicate pink of the shell.

Next week we will resume our scheduled flower shows with the Daffodil Garden Club of Wisner as exhibitors.

Now that the holidays are over and we have begun a new year garden club activities are in full swing. SOUTHERN GARDENER—

By William Lanier Hunt

Evergreens Of The Pine Family

It is during our brief if convincing winter that we most appreciate the evergreens of the pine family in our yards and gardens. The relatively small number of these trees and shrubs which will grow successfully in our lattitude and low altitude nevertheless lends a very real "northern" aspect to our yards and gardens. All of the members of this large group of plants are called "conifers" because they bear their seeds in cones.

Although we call our native evergreen juniper a "cedar," it's Latin name, Juniperus virginiana shows that it is not a true cedar. There are only three true cedars. These are those "Christmas tree shaped" green and silvery trees which we grow on our lawns and in large parks and cemeteries where there is room for them. All too often, you can see them growing where some one has admired them as cute little evergreens and planted them in a small space too small for them. This mistake results in their eventually having to be clipped and cut back which sooner or later kills them. They are not "cute little darlings" as one sometimes hears them called in nurseries — and they probably resent it as much as "teen-aged" boys, for at home in the forests of North Africa, Lebanon and the Himalayas, they are mighty trees up to two hundred feet tall! There are three well distinguished species of true cedar trees.

Perhaps the most popular of the true cedars is the deodar cedar. Its fine silvery needles and rapid growth have been the things that people seemed to notice most. We have planted them everywhere all through the cooler parts of the South. Since they are not as hardy to cold as other species, one rarely sees deodars in the North.

The Cedar of Lebanon out of which King Solomon made the temple is a skinny looking tree as compared to the deodar and the Atlas cedar. This famous tree has been grown in England since the 17th Century, and many fine old specimens are to be seen around London and in famous gardens of Southern England. Some of them are tremendous, handsome specimens with gorgeous multiple trunks that look like a part of a whole forest.

The third of the true cedars is the Atlas cedar from North Africa. It is exceedingly handsome with its gorgeous branches covered with green fur. The needles of this tree are almost as long as those of the deodar and very much longer than those of the Cedar of Lebanon. All the cedars become tremendous trees. One must remember that they will grow into trees with a horizontal top instead of just getting bigger in the Christmas tree shape. Unless you have lots of room for the cedars, leave them for large areas like public parks and cemeteries where they can be permanent.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes, says John E. Gibson; because your personality leads you to choose your hobbies. Studies show that collectors — stamps, first editions, etc., are more contented than most people. Singing, playing music, etc., indicates that you are somewhat highstrung. Gardening hobbyists are about the happiest. This also includes mechanical and "do-it-your-self" hobbyists. The music and literary hobbyists who also like mechanics are unusually well-adjusted.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. With amazing success. As reported in "New York Times," remains of a fire in the Mohave Desert revealed it had burned over 23,800 years ago. Remains of a camel indicated that it had been eaten. Also, remains of deer, bison, and mammoths indicated they were eaten after having been killed by an attacker. It all indicated that "the early Americans" were here at least 23,000 years ago. Maybe skilled genealogists might find you are one of the "sons and daughters" of these ancient enterprising citizens.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. We have no exact statistics, but I'd say, inability to get along with other people. The great philosopher and psychologist Wm. James said, "The human relations are the main thing." If you can't mix happily and usefully with others it's your fault or a personality defect—not theirs. They are ready and eager to welcome you. Examine yourself, but don't blame them. The best first-aid for this situation I know of is our booklet, "Have to Persuade People," by James Worsham. Nonprofit. 20c (coin only) and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
4 hearts	Pass	pass	4 spades

Opening lead: King of hearts.

Many steps at the bridge table involve the risk of loss. Some of these risks must be incurred because there is the prospect of a possible gain. But where a player runs a needless risk, with absolutely nothing to gain, he is qualified for admission to the "suckers's club." One such applicant is the South of today's hand.

West opened the bidding with four hearts, which is the proper strategy with this type of holding. East naturally made no attempt at a rescue and South made the normal bid of four spades, which closed the auction.

The king of hearts was opened, covered by the ace in dummy and rudely trumped by East. Since there was no way to avoid the loss of two clubs and a diamond, the contract went on the rocks. South's complaint against Lady Luck was unjustified. He had no one but himself to blame. He had 10 sure tricks going in and he risked one of them without any hope of a possible gain. There was no need to put the ace of hearts on the opening lead. It was just as easy to cash it a few tricks later, using it to dispose of a losing diamond.

The proper play was to duck the opening lead. If the heart is continued, the second trick is ruffed and trumps drawn winding up in the dummy. Now that it is safe to do so, the ace of hearts is cashed. What difference does it make if you give the opponents their trick in the form of a heart or a diamond? The important consideration is not to run the risk of having the ace of hearts ruffed when there was no corresponding gain.

Inasmuch as West has made a preemptive bid of four hearts, it is not very fanciful to allow for the possibility that he might have an eight card suit. There is nothing to lose by the ducking play and everything to gain.

WORD-A-DAY

It looks high priced

THE NEW BEL AIR SPORT COUPE—one of 19 high-priced-looking Chevrolet models.

It brings you the added security of nailed-down stability on turns and lightning acceleration for safer passing. Horsepower now ranges all the way up to 205! All engines now have hydraulic-hushed valve lifters.

Of course, Chevrolet has safety door latches in all models. In addition, you can have seat belts, with or without shoulder harness, and instrument panel padding at extra cost.

There's a new Chevrolet just made for you. So come in and highway-test it.

Sewanee To Finish Chapel

At a meeting of the bishops of the dioceses owning the University of the South held at Sewanee on December 12, it was agreed that the completion of All Saints' Chapel should be a prime objective for the climax of the Centennial Celebration in June of 1958.

The cornerstone of All Saints' Chapel was laid in 1907 as part of the celebration of Sewanee's semi - centennial. The financial panic of that year made it impossible to continue construction, and in 1910 a temporary roof was placed on the stone walls, and the two ends of the building were enclosed. That temporary expediency has continued for forty-five years, and Sewanee is now planning to celebrate its one hundredth anniversary during the academic year of 1957-1958.

Now Its Time To Subscribe For Methodist Papers

The week of Jan. 8-15 has been set aside by the Arkansas Methodist and the Louisiana Methodist for their annual simultaneous circulation campaign. The two weekly papers, which are the official publications of the Methodist Church in the two states, have set a goal of 35,000 subscribers.

Both papers are published in Little Rock, and are owned by the three Methodist conferences in the area; namely, the Little Rock conference, the North Arkansas Conference, and the Louisiana Conference. Dr. E. T. Wayland, and his son, the Rev. Ewing T. Wayland, are editors of the publications.

The Arkansas Methodist now has 24,196 subscribers, and is in its 75th year of publication. The Louisiana Methodist is in its eighth year, and lists 10,656 subscribers.

Each year the three annual conferences authorize the circulation campaign; and during the week designated, all local Methodist churches in the area give attention to obtaining renewals and new subscriptions.

Dr. Wayland said in his statement concerning the campaign that the co-operation from the leadership of the church and the response from the church membership have been remarkable in every circulation campaign conducted in either Arkansas or Louisiana.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

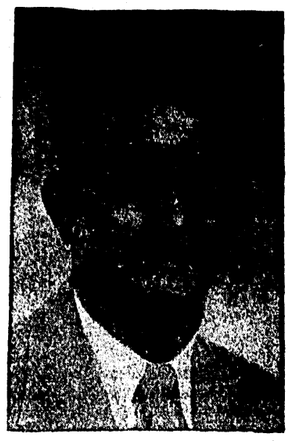

QUESTION: Dear Dr. Graham: I have recently become a Christian through your radio broadcast. In my church, not much is said about worldly amusements. Can you give me some rules to go by? R. J. Y.

ANSWER: The matter of legitimate amusements is one that you will have to settle personally. I would suggest principles that are set forth in the Bible as a guide. First, if you have any doubt, don't do it (Romans 41:23). Second, if it will harm someone else, don't do it (Romans 14:13). Third, if it will hinder your usefulness for God, don't do it (Romans 14:16). Fourth, be sure that your choice is always elevating (Colossians 3:1). And, finally, do everything in the name of the Lord (Colossians 3:17). Ask these questions of your diversion and amusements and God will direct and bless you for it.

BISHOP PAUL E. MARTIN

REV. JAMES T. HARRIS

Bishop Martin To Lay Church Corner Stone

Sunday will be a big day at Memorial Methodist church for Bishop Paul E. Martin, Bishop of the Arkansas-Louisiana area of Methodist churches, will conduct a corner stone laying at 8:30 a. m. today. Participating with him will be the Rev. James T. Harris, superintendent of the Monroe district and also the Rev. E. T. Wayland, editor of the Louisiana Methodist and the pastor of Memorial Church, the Rev. Ralph Cain.

The completion of the handsome new sanctuary will not be ready until April 1, but this earlier date was the only one available as a speaker here so plans have been perfected along these lines.

The sanctuary was designed by the Monroe architectural firm of Johns and Neel and the construction was by Ira Cagle and Son, a local building contracting firm.

The building committee, which will share in the honors bestowed, comprises W. W. Stevens, W. B. Mann, J. Herbert Walker, Mrs. W. A. Cotton, Edwin C. Rowan and F. Harold Riggs.

This construction project is now being culminated after considerable work on behalf of all members and especially the committee and has required about ten years for its completion.

The preacher at the 11 a. m. service at the church today will be in charge of the Rev. E. T. Wayland, of Little Rock, Ark., editor of the official weekly newspaper.

Book Review's Topic Deals In Self Power

In the sanctuary of the First Presbyterian Church at 5:00 p.m., Sunday, the minister will review the new book, "Power To Manage Yourself," by Dr. Harold B. Walker.

This is an excellent book to show how religion and psychology can work together in teaching the individual person how we can meet the problems of life with a firm, steady faith.

It is a good book to teach self-control.

Will Dedicate Oak Ridge's Church Unit

Today, at eleven o'clock, in Oak Ridge, at the Methodist Church, the recently completed educational building will be dedicated.

Officiating at the ceremony will be Bishop Paul E. Martin, bishop of the Louisiana and Arkansas areas. He will be assisted by the Reverend James A. Poole, present pastor of the church, the Reverend Percy Emanuel, pastor of the church at the time when plans were formulated and the Reverend George Cagle, pastor at the time the building was completed. The Reverend James T. Harris, superintendent of the Monroe district will also participate in the service.

Memorial gifts placed in the church and educational building over a period of many years will be dedicated at this ervice. These are gifts of lasting value which will continue to influence not only the lives of those who knew these so memorialized, but many who never knew them will gather blessing as they come to church for prayer and worship.

Rev. M'Fadden Gives Reviews Of Noted Books

As in past winter seasons, the First Presbyterian Church is having another series of book reviews by the minister, W. H. McFadden. These will be conducted in the sanctuary of the church beginning January 8 and each Sunday thereafter at 5:00 p. m.

For January the following books will be reviewed: January 8—"Power to Manage Yourself" by Dr. Harold B. Walker. This book deals with such questions as "your responsibility for your getting rid of guilt, release from tension, you can worry wisely," and similar topics.

January 15 — "The Life of John Calvin" by Dr. Emanuel Stickelberger. This book portrays the life of John Calvin, the founder of the Presbyterian Church, and presents the doctrines of the reformed faith in an interesting and instructive fashion.

January 22 — "Your Home Can Be Christian" by Dr. Donald M. Maynard. This book is designed to teach parents and children the great cooperative adventure of living as Christians in the home, and especially is it designed to help parents train their children in Christian living.

January 29 — "The Gift of Power" by Dr. Lewis J. Sherrill. This book is perhaps the greatest yet to be written on the philosophy of Christian education. It deals with why man is so profoundly disturbed today and shows the relevancy of the Christian faith to contemporary conditions.

Since all of these books deal with subjects that the public as a whole is interested in, the First Presbyterian Church extends a cordial invitation to those who would like to hear any or all of these book reviews.

Miss Lee Aiding In Refugee Work In Resettling

Miss Elizabeth M. Lee, secretary for promotion of the refugee resettlement Program of the Methodist Committee for Overseas Relief, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York City, is one of two Protestant church leaders sent to Europe by Church World Service on a special mission in connection with refugee resettlement. Also on the two-member team is the Rev. Alexander Jurisson, resource secretary on world relief and church cooperation for the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Both Miss Lee and Mr. Jurisson will be in Europe approximately a month, returning to New York in late January. They will center their activities in Holland and Germany. Purpose of the mission is to secure more refugee "histories" for churches offering sponsorships for the resettlement of refugees in this country. It was arranged with the cooperation of the Intergovernmental Committee on European Relief and the World Council of Churches. The project is also financed by these organizations.

Under the Refugee Relief Act, 209,000 refugees may be resettled in the United States before the act expires in December 1956. Methodists have accepted responsibility for finding jobs and housing assurances for 5,000 of the total.

A Correction Please

Family Life Leaders' Training Meeting

Friday, January 27 at 9:30 a.m. in the agricultural auditorium, Mrs. Florence Abington, specialist in Family Life and Health, and Mr. J. H. Jones, Jr., L. S. U. extension sociologist, will give training on using the materials prepared for Family Life leaders of Ouachita parish. Each club is urged to have two leaders attend this meeting and receive this training.

It's Planting Time

During January we usually have some nice weather and all of us get the "planting urge". Let's make this urge pay off by doing a good job by planting trees and shrubs correctly. Plan your needs and be ready to plant before buying the plant.

When transplanting trees and shrubs during the winter, dig the holes large enough so that roots will not be crowded or twisted.

The landscape specialist with the agricultural extension service at L. S. U. says that at transplanting time you should prune the tops of trees and shrubs to compensate for root loss, which usually means heavy pruning.

Leave no air spaces around the roots of plants when you transplant during the winter. Prevent air spaces by working the dirt in, packing it well, then watering the plant roots thoroughly.

Keep in mind why and where to plant. The aim of all planting is to unify the house and surroundings. Some of the ways planting can achieve the aim are: To relate spaces in the house to those outdoors by having direct access to the garden through doors and by having good views where large areas of glass exist. Use plants to extend lines of the building into the surrounding space. Extensions into space not only unify the house with the surroundings, but also lends to emphasize the house — the most important thing on the site. We use plants to give a feeling of friendliness, to shade walls and windows, to conceal undesirable features, and to form enclosures.

Extremely plain houses built only for utility, are likely to need plantings for enrichment. Other houses with too much variety of color and form can be simplified by plantings that partially conceal them. If your house rests on pillars, and there is visible space underneath it, an unpleasant feeling of instability may exist. A continuous planting that conceals this space does not improve the situation, but rather increases this sense of instability because the house seems to float on shrubbery. Filling in parts of this space with the same materials as those which the house is built of, will give better results than using a continuous planting around the house. Another reason for planting the surroundings are to make them more useful for family living — as providing shade, reducing glare and providing privacy.

The selection of plants for the spaces is also very important. Bulletin, "Choose Your Plants Wisely," gives the name and nature of many plants used in landscaping — call 3-2251 for it.

Fertilizing Camellias

A good rule for fertilizing camellias, according to L. S. U. agronomists, is to use one-fourth pound per square foot of area covered by the plant spread. Too many growers use too much fertilizer killing the plant the agronomist states.

Dry fertilizer is less expensive and just as effective as spray fertilizer. The main advantage of special fertilizers over standard commercial fertilizer is that ingredients in the former releases nitrogen more slowly. The best time to use fertilizers is in February before new growth starts, and in midsummer, giving new growth time to harden before cold weather.

Judge Tosses Out Lawsuit To Block Negro College

The court, in effect, upheld state objections of jurisdiction and want of interest by the plaintiffs.

State Rep. W. J. Cleveland, Crowley, and J. C. Dimmick, St. Landry Parish property owner.

The judge dismissed a temorary restraining order and told plaintiffs in his ruling the state cannot be sued without legislative approval.

Cleveland Dimmick sued the State Building Authority, which authorized purchase of the property for an off-campus branch of Southern University, and the individual authority members. The court held it made no difference that individual members were sued, they still represented the state.

'For lack of proof on the part of the plaintiffs, action could be dismissed without any consideration of the pleas and exceptions filed by defendants," Judge Johnson held.

The court ruled the state had insisted plaintiffs had filed to show they had special interest in the questions involved.

"Our appellate courts hold uniformly," he said, "that one who is merely a citizen and taxpayer and without any special interest apart from the interest of other citizens and the public generally cannot maintain a suit against the state."

The case grew out of the 1955 fiscal session of the Legislature. It approved establishment of an off-campus branch of Southern University in the Lafayette area. Lawmakers appropriated five million dollars for the purpose.

After months of seeking a location, the Building Authority decided to buy acreage owned by Joseph Huval at Broussard, near Lafayette. Dimmick was one of several property owners who offered their land, some at less cost than the Huval property.

The Huval property was fixed at $745 an acre and approved because of its location and several other features found most acceptable for the college location. The Dimmick site, close to Opelousas, was offered at $425 an acre.

Land Promoter In Tex. To Close $8 Million Deal

DALLAS, Jan. 7 —UP — William Zeckendorf, Sr., the New York real estate magnate, confirmed Friday that he is trying to promote a multi-million dollar industrial and residential development between Dallas and Fort Worth.

"I have optimism (sic) of developing the biggest and best light industrial area in the United States," Zeckendorf said, as he left a plane from New York. "Some of the industries which will possibly locate there include aircraft, assembly plants, distribution concerns and electronics."

He said his plans do not include any "odiferous" industries, such as chemicals. Zeckendorf, president of the New York real estate firm of Webb and Knapp, remained on the ground in Dallas only five minutes.

He boarded a DC-3 owned by Angus Wynne, a wealthy Dallas real estate man, and took off with him and seven or eight others for Wynne's ranch on Matagorda Island along the Texas coast.

He said he hoped to shoot quail, but there was some feeling that the real estate deal would be consummated at the ranch. It was understood to involve a total of 4,600 acres — 2,600 north of the Dallas Fort Worth highway in the Arlington-Grand Prairie sector — and 2,000 acres south of the highway.

The 2,600 acres include the Waggoner 3-D Ranch property. Some sources believe a snydicate of Texas oilmen and real estate men has settled on buying it. At the same time, it appeared there was some hitch in getting the other 2,000 acres.

ANOTHER LEFTOVER IDEA

NEW YORK — The holiday turkey leftovers are good to the last mouthful — when prepared in this main dish. Cream the turkey (or chicken) in 1 can of cream of chicken or mushroom soup, blended with ½ cup of milk. Add ½ cup of cooked green peas or lima beans. Pour into a shallow baking dish. Top with 2 cups of moist sage stuffing (either the packaged mix, or your own making.) Bake at 350 degrees for ½ hour, or until hot and lightly browned on top. Yield, 4 servings.

President Getting 'Much Good' From Air, Sun In Florida, Doctors Report

KEY WEST, Fla. Jan. 7 (AP)—The word from President Eisenhower's doctor today was that the President is getting "a world of good" out of a Florida visit intended to condition him for resumption of a full work load.

The report was relayed to newsmen by the White House physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, who has been here with Eisenhower since the party arrived from Washington Dec. 28.

The president recuperating from a September heart attack, came to Key West after his doctors recommended that he get more sun and outdoor exercise.

They wanted to get that in before he takes on about a normal work load after his return to Washington. The present plan is for the President to leave here by plane for the capital Sunday afternoon.

Newsmen today asked James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, for his views on how the Florida sun may have benefitted Eisenhower. Hagerty's reply was that Dr. Snyder believes the stay is doing the President "a world of good."

The visit could be an important factor in Eisenhower's decision on whether to seek a second term.

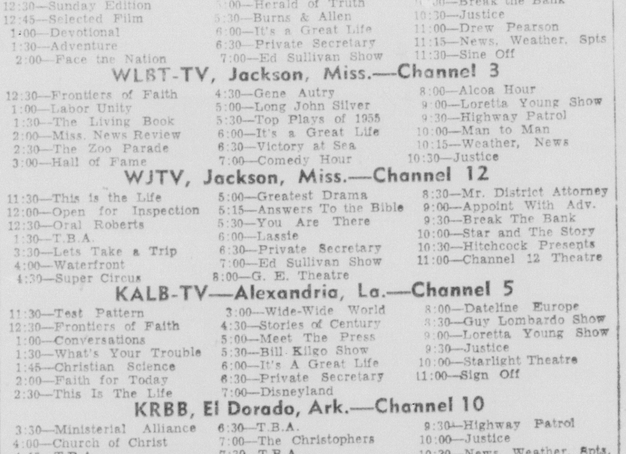

As on most other days here, the President today mixed some work with relaxation. He turned up at his office at 8:40 a.m. and spent two hours with Secretary of Agriculture Benson going over the special farm message to be sent to Congress Monday.

Hagerty reported the two men, plus a staff of White House and Agriculture Department aides, virtually completed work on the message.

At his office today Eisenhower also signed two executive orders to carry out a 1955 law dealing with Selective Service.

Under one, draft registrants with certain critical skills—radar mechanic, for example—now are permitted to apply to their draft boards for three to six months of active duty. If the board approves the application, the draftee then can transfer to the ready reserve for the rest of an eight-year obligation in the service.

The other order authorizes transfer of draftees with critical skills from the ready reserve to the standby reserve when more than enough qualified specialists already are available for the ready group.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

This young girl, who has a few extra pounds she would like to lose, is scanning the Marathon booklet in preparation for joining the Marathon.

Marathon Is Here Again; It Is Way To Real Glamor

One January more than 10 years ago I conducted the first 8-week self-improvement Marathon for my readers. Since that time it has become an annual institution for WHY GROW OLD? readers. Each succeeding new year brings more mail than the one before.

I know why this is true. The general idea of self-improvement is in the mind of every woman who has allowed herself to deteriorate, has added a few pounds or has become less lovely than she'd like.

Here, all wrapped up in eight weeks of comparatively easy diet, exercise and grooming, is the specific, directed help women need to tackle what otherwise looks like an endless and difficult, if not hopeless task. It is the way to glamor.

Then, too, more women hear about Marathon these days. Tens of thousands of women have come to rely on this eight weeks for their reconditioning each year and there are always some who meant to try it but procrastinated in the past.

Another reason for the growing popularity of the eight-week Marathon is the fact that our problems change as we live and change. Perhaps a few years ago your problem was underweight. This year it may be overweight. Perhaps you used to have a flat tummy but this year find it is protruding. You may only recently have noticed bulges on your thighs or that your hip measurement has increased. These are the very problems we'll be working on during the next eight weeks.

Also, it is more fun to have company when you undertake a job like this. Believe me, when you begin Marathon, you'll have plenty of company. You can be sure that women all over the country are dieting and exercising, taking special care of their complexion and hair and improving their posture and charm.

Thousands of them will have entered into this exciting adventure of seeing how much they can improve their appearance in eight short weeks.

Instructions for the Marathon will be published daily in the WHY GROW OLD? column during the next week or so. I will keep in touch with your progress and offer suggestions through this department at least once a week throughout the period.

Meanwhile, for persons who would like to get started at once and have the complete new information, with calorie chart and chart for recording progress, we have prepared a Marathon booklet.

You will find in it suggestions for deciding what you should weigh and measure.

If you would like to join Marathon, send ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon booklet. Address Josephine Lowman, in care of this newspaper.

Tomorrow: "Exciting Possibilities Ahead If You Join the Marathon."

Garden Exercise After Holidays

There's lots to do in the garden and we really need to work off some calories we picked up during the holidays. It's just a shame calories can't be extracted from holiday foods because its so much fun nibbling with our friends. But—since no enterprising chemist has solved that problem for us "plump people," we'll have to cut down on the calories and take some exercise.

Now — The Exercise

You can begin transplanting. There are two types of plants you'll want to move, evergreen and deciduous. The evergreen's must be moved with more care because there are so many leaves to be fed until the plant can get re-established in its new home. Some good gardeners snip every leaf before transplanting. You don't like that though, do you? You love those green leaves and you're probably moving the plant because you want an evergreen in that spot. Well—if you move carefully you probably won't need to remove the leaves.

First, prepare the hole where you'll put the evergreen plant. Make this hole larger and deeper than the ball of earth you'll move with the plant. Now fill in with some of the good top soil you just dug. This loose soil in the hole gives a soft home for those little roots that will be wandering down that way soon. Now you're ready to move the evergreen. Cut all around the plant the depth of the spade and out at the edge of the spread of the branches. Don't do any lifting or prizing up. Just cut a circle. On one side dig a hole back of the circle and run the spade under the plant. It has been cut loose and should come up easily. You armed yourself with a burlap sack and nails before you started this job, so take this sack, lift the evergreen plant, by the ball of dirt and place it on the sack. Pin the sack around the ball so the dirt will not fall away, using the nails for pins. Pick the plant up, lifting ball and all from the bottom. Take by wheelbarrow to the prepared hole. Test with the spade handle to see that the hole is no deeper than the plant was growing in its other home. Now put the plant in the prepared hole, fill in with good soil about three-fourths full. Fill the hole with water. Let settle for several hours, then go back and finish filling in the hole with good soil and firm well. A good idea is to leave a little basin around the plant to catch water. Dirt piled up around the trunk of the shrubs sheds water. Keep the plant watered until the rains start, and anytime during a drowth for the next year.

If—in a month or so the leaves start turning a little yellow and looking sick, take your yard scissors and snip off every leaf. The plant roots are working too hard trying to furnish food and moisture to the trunk, limbs and leaves. Don't worry, by March you'll see tiny leaves coming on that will reward you.

More Exercise

The deciduous plants are dug and planted bare rooted. The main ideas are to keep the roots from drying out, cut only those roots that have wandered out very far, and don't crowd the roots. You'll need a very wide hole for a very small plant, then proceed as for planting the evergreen.

Wise Buying

You can start the New Year with a cheering lineup of plentiful foods. Topping the official list, because they are especially abundant are pork, beef and grapefruit. The fourteen year record low pork prices of last month are still the rule as plenty of hogs continue to roll to the market. Also, beef prices are down. The better grade of cattle suffered the most price-wise, giving you cheaper U. S. Good and U. S. Choice beef.

Other plentiful foods include tangerines, oranges and winter pear. Potatoes are in the bargain spotlight because of the bumper crop. Louisiana yams continue plentiful. Dry beans, peanuts, canned tuna, lard dairy products, eggs and vegetable fats and oils remain in heavy supply so are a good buy for you, Mrs. Housewife. What is a good buy this week may be a luxury next week.

Announcements

Your "Open House" shows for next week are as follows: Monday, Betty Sue Rockett from Caldwell Parish will make a blouse; Tuesday, Alice Teddlie from Winnsboro will be here, subject TVA; Wednesday, Mary Margaret will bring the three blue ribbon flower arrangements from the Garden Center and we'll do some gardening; Thursday, we'll cover one chair and dry clean another one. Friday is Marketing Day with Mildred and Mammy.

See you next Sunday.

Garden Center Notes

By Mary M. Jardine

New Year Flower Show Is Held By 4 Clubs

Mrs. Fred Hayton, Sr., Dixieland Daylily Society exhibited a triangular arrangement of red camellias and self foliage in a milk glass compote. Glossy green foliage of the American boxwood was used in the background adding height and depth to this arresting design. Mrs. Edward F. Dalton, Flora Group, created a line-mass arrangement in complementary colors of blue - green and red-orange. A tall graceful line was established with orange bittersweet (celastrus scandens) with the curved line continuing down the front of the turquoise pillow container. Tangerines and russet apples were effectively grouped within the linear pattern.

Mrs. K. R. Young, Fleur De Lis Garden Club, designed an arrangement of foliage. Two foliage forms were used — the new growth of Buford Holly, the tips being a yellow - green, and the larger leaves of Mahonia (Oregon Holly Grape). The triangular design was placed in a rectangular green bowl lined with yellow. Three yellow pomegranates formed the center of interest. Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Flora Group presented a most interesting line - mass arrangement of foliage in a color scheme of green and yellow. A round yellow bowl set on a brown base served as a container for the arrangement of variegated boxwood and aucuba japonica (gold dust) Polymitas shells wired to resemble flowers were effectively grouped in the focal area. These shells are yellow with touches of orange. They come from the Oriente province of Cuba, the only place in the world where these particular snails are found. All have the same architecture, yet no two look alike. Artists and designers study them for the inspiration of color combinations and originality of blends and tints.

Mrs. Suzee Gorman, Dixieland Daylily Society, created a diagonal line arrangement in a conch shell, which was placed on a rectangular black base. Small leaf English ivy formed the graceful line and pink camellias were used for accent. They matched in tint the delicate pink of the shell.

Next week we will resume our scheduled flower shows with the Daffodil Garden Club of Wisner as exhibitors.

Now that the holidays are over and we have begun a new year garden club activities are in full swing. The Bastrop Garden Club has as their January speaker, Miss Marjorie Lamkin of St. Joseph, with slides of state flower shows. Farmerville Garden Club is having a panel discussion: Ornamental trees and shrubs for our town's beautification. East Carroll Garden Club, a program on pruning by Mr. C. A. Rose. Winnsboro Garden Club is having Mr. Charles G. Hobgood of Louisiana Tech in a program on soil conditioning.

Camellias shows are in full swing too. Hope you can visit one or more of them. Am listing the dates for your convenience. January 14 and 15, Lafayette, La. Louisiana Camellia Society, January 21 and 22 — three shows: Alexandria, Central Louisiana Camellia Society, Slidell, Ozone Camellia Club; Baton Rouge, Baton Rouge Camellia Club. January 28-29—Three shows Mobile, Ala. Men's Camellia Club of Mobile, Hammond, Men's Garden Club of Tangipahoa Parish, Lake Charles, Men's Garden Club and Southwest La. Camellia Society.

SOUTHERN GARDENER—

By William Lanier Hunt

Evergreens Of The Pine Family

It is during our brief if convincing winter that we most appreciate the evergreens of the pine family in our yards and gardens. The relatively small number of these trees and shrubs which will grow successfully in our lattitude and low altitude nevertheless lends a very real "northern" aspect to our yards and gardens. All of the members of this large group of plants are called "conifers" because they bear their seeds in cones.

Although we call our native evergreen juniper a "cedar," it's Latin name, Juniperus virginiana shows that it is not a true cedar. There are only three true cedars. These are those "Christmas tree shaped" green and silvery trees which we grow on our lawns and in large parks and cemeteries where there is room for them. All too often, you can see them growing where some one has admired them as cute little evergreens and planted them in a small space too small for them. This mistake results in their eventually having to be clipped and cut back which sooner or later kills them. They are not "cute little darlings" as one sometimes hears them called in nurseries — and they probably resent it as much as "teen-aged" boys, for at home in the forests of North Africa, Lebanon and the Himalayas, they are mighty trees up to two hundred feet tall! There are three well distinguished species of true cedar trees.

Perhaps the most popular of the true cedars is the deodar cedar. Its fine silvery needles and rapid growth have been the things that people seemed to notice most. We have planted them everywhere all through the cooler parts of the South. Since they are not as hardy to cold as other species, one rarely sees deodars in the North.

The Cedar of Lebanon out of which King Solomon made the temple is a skinny looking tree as compared to the deodar and the Atlas cedar. This famous tree has been grown in England since the 17th Century, and many fine old specimens are to be seen around London and in famous gardens of Southern England. Some of them are tremendous, handsome specimens with gorgeous multiple trunks that look like a part of a whole forest.

The third of the true cedars is the Atlas cedar from North Africa. It is exceedingly handsome with its gorgeous branches covered with green fur. The needles of this tree are almost as long as those of the deodar and very much longer than those of the Cedar of Lebanon. All the cedars become tremendous trees. One must remember that they will grow into trees with a horizontal top instead of just getting bigger in the Christmas tree shape. Unless you have lots of room for the cedars, leave them for large areas like public parks and cemeteries where they can be permanent.

STUFFING TRICK

MANITOWOC, Wis. — A new aluminum disc eliminates the need for string and skewers in stuffing the holiday bird.

The discs are egg - shaped, with hooks on the edge for securing them at the opening where the dressing is placed. The plates are easily removed and can be reused. They come in three sizes, for chicken, duck, turkey or goose.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes, says John E. Gibson; because your personality leads you to choose your hobbies. Studies show that collectors — stamps, first editions, etc., are more contented than most people. Singing, playing music, etc., indicates that you are somewhat highstrung. Gardening hobbyists are about the happiest. This also includes mechanical and "do-it-your-self" hobbyists. The music and literary hobbyists who also like mechanics are unusually well-adjusted.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. With amazing success. As reported in "New York Times," remains of a fire in the Mohave Desert revealed it had burned over 23,800 years ago. Remains of a camel indicated that it had been eaten. Also, remains of deer, bison, and mammoths indicated they were eaten after having been killed by an attacker. It all indicated that "the early Americans" were here at least 23,000 years ago. Maybe skilled genealogists might find you are one of the "sons and daughters" of these ancient enterprising citizens.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. We have no exact statistics, but I'd say, inability to get along with other people. The great philosopher and psychologist Wm. James said. "The human relations are the main thing." If you can't mix happily and usefully with others it's your fault or a personality defect—not theirs. They are ready and eager to welcome you. Examine yourself, but don't blame them. The best first-aid for this situation I know of is our booklet, "Have to Persuade People.", by James Worsham. Nonprofit. 20c (coin only) and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The bidding:

West, 4 hearts; North, Pass; East, pass; South, 4 spades; West, pass; North, pass; East, pass.

Opening lead: King of hearts.

Many steps at the bridge table involve the risk of loss. Some of these risks must be incurred because there is the prospect of a possible gain. But where a player runs a needless risk, with absolutely nothing to gain, he is qualified for admission to the "suckers's club." One such applicant is the South of today's hand.

West opened the bidding with four hearts, which is the proper strategy with this type of holding. East naturally made no attempt at a rescue and South made the normal bid of four spades, which closed the auction.

The king of hearts was opened, covered by the ace in dummy and rudely trumped by East. Since there was no way to avoid the loss of two clubs and a diamond, the contract went on the rocks. South's complaint against Lady Luck was unjustified. He had no one but himself to blame. He had 10 sure tricks going in and he risked one of them without any hope of a possible gain. There was no need to put the ace of hearts on the opening lead. It was just as easy to cash it a few tricks later, using it to dispose of a losing diamond.

The proper play was to duck the opening lead. If the heart is continued, the second trick is ruffed and trumps drawn winding up in the dummy. Now that it is safe to do so, the ace of hearts is cashed. What difference does it make if you give the opponents their trick in the form of a heart or a diamond? The important consideration is not to run the risk of having the ace of hearts ruffed when there was no corresponding gain.

Inasmuch as West has made a preemptive bid of four hearts, it is not very fanciful to allow for the possibility that he might have an eight card suit. There is nothing to lose by the ducking play and everything to gain.

It looks high priced

...but it's the '56 Chevrolet!

THE NEW BEL AIR SPORT COUPE—one of 19 high-priced-looking Chevrolet models.

It looks strictly "upper bracket" with its bold new Motoramic styling . . . its longer, lower hood . . . its proud new grille that spans the full front end.

But, even beyond the costly appearance of its Fisher Body, Chevy gives the high-priced cars a run for their money. For it's one of the few great road cars built today!

It brings you the added security of nailed-down stability on turns and lightning acceleration for safer passing. Horsepower now ranges all the way up to 205! All engines now have hydraulic-hushed valve lifters.

Of course, Chevrolet has safety door latches in all models. In addition, you can have seat belts, with or without shoulder harness, and instrument panel padding at extra cost.

There's a new Chevrolet just made for you. So come in and highway-test it.

In Hollywood

Palm Springs Sun

By HERB ROGERS
(Guest Columnist)

PALM SPRINGS, January 7 — Hollywood personalities suffering from high - tension and the wear and tear of the business of being a star, more and more seek escape in Palm Springs, the desert spa, just a little more than 100 miles from the film-making colony. Some visit our resort merely to play and relax. Others combine pleasure with business. And the business I'm referring to means acting in plays produced at the Palm Springs Playhouse, which I have the privilege of operating.

There's nothing like the Palm Springs sun to renovate a weary body and soul. Especially after exposure to the profession known as the movies. As a consequence, many personalities are eager to devote a week or so to starring in our productions, with ample time available for sun bathing, swimming and other recreations offered by this fabulous resort. Such prospects have lured such stars as Edward Arnold, Teresa Wright, Ann Harding and Victor Joey during the season opening January 16, we expect many more glittering personalities will join the great migration to the Palm Springs Playhouse. No doubt this will be induced, in part, by the series of shiny, bright plays we'll present this season and which afford actors and actresses an opportunity to appear in productions over a long period of years.

Many picture players find that the Palm Springs Playhouse affords a terrific professional advantage inasmuch as it provides an opportunity for "refresher" course in acting. In picture - making the player loses his or her intimate contact with audience reaction. In the legitimate theater, such as our Playhouse, the troupe knows immediately whether or not the performance is registering. Many experienced stars, interested in taking out all possible insurance on their careers, regularly return to the legitimate theater for this reason. And, believe me, it pays off in more finished and polished performances.

Few people outside show business realize the amount of pressure, nerve - wracking in character, which a star or featured player is exposed to, day after day. It all looks very nice and simple from the outside but this business of being on public parade, plus the exacting demands on the studio sets, is really rough at times. While the average worker outside the entertainment field goes to work at a fairly reasonable hour in the morning, players in pictures not uncommonly must be on a location, for example, by eight o'clock, or so, which means getting up at five o'clock or some other unearthly hour.

THEATER MANAGER — Walter Guarino, above, arrived in Monroe last week to become manager of the Paramount Theatre. He comes from Lake Charles and will be joined soon by his wife and two children. Guarino, with 17 years of theatre experience, will succeed Oliver Moore who resigned to enter another business in the Twin Cities.

And, especially if they're playing leads, they must look fresh and attractive when the monster, the camera, focuses upon them. That, for one reason is why they must escape to Palm Springs and other relaxing resorts to replenish their vitality and to recover from the rigors of their profession.

Don't be fooled by all the glamour and fame which glitter over the Hollywood scene. This business of acting is not for the lazy. — One must give a lot of vitality and employ a lot of application to become a success in filmland.

Hollywood is fortunate to have other relaxing areas within a few hours' drive, ranging from seashore to mountains, with desert country in between. Few centers of population in the United States, or elsewhere, for that matter, are so lucky as to have easy access to such a variety of scenery and climate. And via highways perhaps unmatched in beauty and surroundings.

Stars who must remain less than an hour's auto ride of Hollywood may prefer the Circle J Guest Ranch at Newhall, adorned with a huge swimming pool and other recreational facilities. And about two hours' drive away is Axel Springborg's Glen Ivy Hot Springs, affording hot mineral baths, all sorts of recreational equipment, fine food and a "live" mountain stream, an unusual spectacle in southern California. Nearby also is Malibu, famed beach resort on the Pacific, and more to the south lies Laguna and La Jolla, famous for their seaside beauty. About 100 miles to the north is tranquil and lovely Santa Barbara, overlooking the ocean, and dotted with wonderful hotels and homes.

Yes, Hollywoodians have easy access to really relaxing resorts. But, best of all (and I hope the Palm Springs Chamber of Commerce notes this), Palm Springs affords a haven for the worn and weary. And the Palm Springs Playhouse is an important segment in this charming desert picture.

THREE FLOODS

'The Rains Of Ranchipur' Opens At Paramount

"The Rains of Ranchipur," the gigantic CinemaScope spectacle in De Luxe color which took Twentieth Century - Fox two months to film both in Hollywood and 7000 miles away in Pakistan, India, at a cost of $4,000,000, opens here today at the Paramount Theatre as the special holiday offering. The film story is based on Louis Bromfield's Pulitzer Prize-winning novel, "The Rains Came." It is not however, a remake of the successful best-seller filmed by Twentieth Century-Fox in 1939. The new production, scripted by Merle Miller, author of "Reunion," "That Winter" and "The Sure Thing," is set in modern India with the original Bromfield characters realistically confronted by the background and problems of current times.

The new version has been given an all-star cast with Lana Turner appearing in the role of Lady Edwina Esketh, Richard Burton as the handsome Indian Dr. Safti, Fred MacMurray as an American engineer, Joan Caulfield in the role of Fern, daughter of American missionaries, and Michael Rennie, as Lana's aristocratic husband, in the story of conflicting ideologies and emotions.

Frank Ross, who guided the world's first CinemaScope spectacle, "The Robe," to unbelievable success, is the film's producer. It was his determination to use all the technical achievements in CinemaScope developed since that memorable date in the creation of the romantic drama only the new improved CinemaScope could brilliantly enhance. Here the process defines the natural beauties of the tiny oriental state, the hypnotic adventures that include a tiger hunt and brings ino rue perspective the overwhelming properties of the earthquakes and floods that follow the dreaded seasonal monsoon. It is this awesome spectacle climax the story of passions involving a fabulously rich American girl, her titled English husband whose pride is trampled in the mire of her many love affairs, and the gifted Indian doctor torn between the personal desire the unscrupulous beauty awakens in him and his duty to his people.

Many familiar faces appear in support of the stars including the remarkable Eugenie Leontovich of "Anastasia" Broadway fame. She portrays the Maharani who gambles the security of her kingdom in her belief that duty is stronger than romantic love. Others include Gladys Hurlbut and Madge Kennedy of "silent" days; Carlo Rizzo, King Calder, and Beatrice Kraft, exotic dancer of the Broadway musical show "Kismet," with the film's direction under the talented guidance of Jean "Three Coins in the Fountain" Negulesco.

In Ross' opinion Negulesco, and only Negulesco, could weave the rich fabrics of oriental settings and story into a moving, elegant production worthy of the time and fortune expended for the De Luxe color film. The resultant product Negulesco fashioned has become Twentieth Century-Fox's supreme choice for their first holiday attraction of the year.

Ouachita Cancer Society To Open Drive In April

The finance committee of the Ouachita unit of the American Cancer Society held its initial campaign planning session last week and the April cancer crusade chairman was selected. The chairman will be named when the Louisiana division's state campaign chairman is announced in February, Mrs. Fred Petty, unit chairman said.

Among those attending the planning session were: Mrs. Fred Petty, Mrs. Frank Spivey, Mrs. C. K. Crandall, Mrs. Frank Gordon, Miss Winona Probus, George Rorex, Bill Gannaway and Irving Leibowitz.

The April crusade will combine the much needed educational program and the raising of funds to suport cancer control through education, research, and service to cancer patients.

Those wishing to participate in the April crusade should contact the unit chairman, Mrs. Fred Petty.

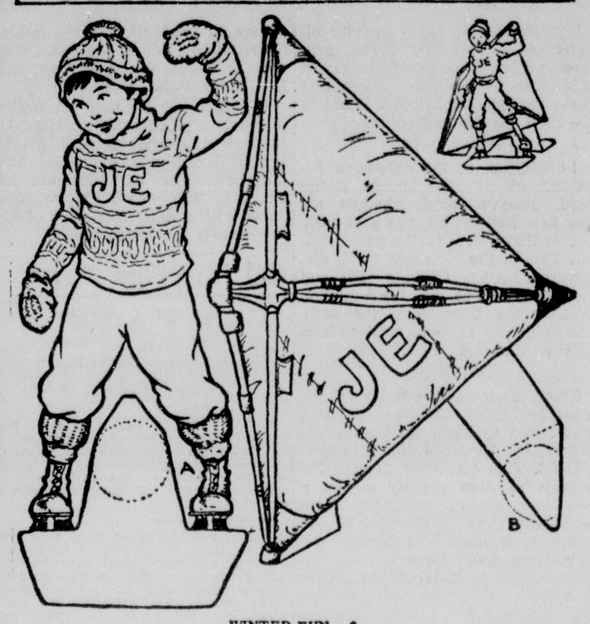

The April educational crusade will emphasize that one out of four persons is being cured of cancer, but at least two out of four should be cured through earlier detection and prompt treatment. The earlier cancer is detected, the greater the chance of cure. Since cancer often strikes without warning, the best cancer insurance is a regular health check - up, the American Cancer Society declares.

TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR:

JUNIOR EDITORS

WINTER FUN - 6

Skate Sailing

Skate sailing is for the experienced and bold ice skater. Not only must he keep his balance on skates but also he must manage a big sail. To make Johnny sail on his skates, first color him, then paste the picture on thin cardboard. The sails are often striped in bright colors so they will show up well on the ice. Cut out Johnny and the sail.

Fold the base forward at Johnny's ankles. Then the tab between the feet will rest solidly on your table top ice. Put a penny under the tab and fasten it securely with the gummed tape to help him stand up. The tab on the side folds back at the dotted line and helps balance the skate sail. A penny should be taped beneath it also.

Put the sail behind the boy and fasten his hands to it as shown in the smaller sketch. You can paste them in place or fasten with clips. Johnny will then be able to skate sail with a sail, or put aside his sail and give an exhibition of fancy skating.

JUNIOR EDITORS pays $10 for any reader's idea that is used. Write your suggestion to "Junior Editors" in care of this newspaper; it cannot be acknowledged or returned and in case of duplication of ideas, the first submission shall be accepted.

A Correction Please

Family Life Leaders' Training Meeting

Friday, January 27 at 9:30 a.m. in the agricultural auditorium, Mrs. Florence Abington, specialist in Family Life and Health, and Mr. J. H. Jones, Jr., L. S. U. extension sociologist, will give training on using the materials prepared for Family Life leaders of Ouachita parish. Each club is urged to have two leaders attend this meeting and receive the training.

It's Planting Time

During January we usually have some nice weather and all of us get the "planting urge". Let's make this urge pay off by doing a good job by planting trees and shrubs correctly. Plan your needs and be ready to plant before buying the plant.

When transplanting trees and shrubs during the winter, dig the holes large enough so that roots will not be crowded or twisted.

The landscape specialist with the agricultural extension service at L. S. U. says that at transplanting time you should prune the tops of trees and shrubs to compensate for root loss, which usually means heavy pruning.

Leave no air spaces around the roots of plants when you transplant during the winter. Prevent air spaces by working the dirt in, packing it well, then watering the plant roots thoroughly.

Keep in mind why and where to plant. The aim of all planting is to unify the house and surroundings. Some of the ways planting can achieve the aim are: To relate spaces in the house to those outdoors by having direct access to the garden through doors and by having good views where large areas of glass exist. Use plants to extend lines of the building into the surrounding space. Extensions into space not only unify the house with the surroundings, but also lends to emphasize the house — the most important thing on the site. We use plants to give a feeling of friendliness, to shade walls and windows, to conceal undesirable features, and to form enclosures.

Extremely plain houses built only for utility, are likely to need plantings for enrichment. Other houses with too much variety of color and form can be simplified by plantings that partially conceal them. If your house rests on pilars, and there is visible space underneath it, an unpleasant feeling of instability may exist. A continuous planting that conceals this space does not improve the situation, but rather increases the sense of instability because the house seems to float on shrubbery. Filling in parts of this space with the same materials as those which the house is built of, will give better results than using a continuous planting around the house. Another reason for planting the surroundings are to make them more useful for family living as providing shade reducing glare and providing privacy.

The selection of plants for the stores is also very important. Bulletin, "Choose Your Plant Wisely," gives the name and nature of many plants used in landscaping — call 3-2251 ext. 2.

Fertilizing Camellias

A good rule for fertilizing camellias, according to L. S. U. agronomists, is to use one-fourth pound per square foot of area covered by the plant spread. Too many growers use too much fertilizer killing the plant the agronomist states.

Dry fertilizer is less expensive and just as effective as spray fertilizer. The main advantage of special fertilizers over standard commercial fertilizer is that ingredients in the former releases nitrogen more slowly. The best time to use fertilizers is in February before new growth starts, and in midsummer, giving new growth time to harden before cold weather.

Judge Tosses Out Lawsuit To Block Negro College

The court, in effect, upheld state objections of jurisdiction and want of interest by the plaintiffs.

State Rep. W. J. Cleveland, Crowley, and J. C. Dimmick, St. Landry Parish property owner.

The judge dismissed a temorary restraining order and told plaintiffs in his ruling the state cannot be sued without legislative approval.

Cleveland Dimmick sued the State Building Authority, which authorized purchase of the property for an off-campus branch of Southern University, and the individual authority members. The court held it made no difference that individual members were sued, they still represented the state.

"For lack of proof on the part of the plaintiffs, action could be dismissed without any consideration of the pleas and exceptions filed by defendants," Judge Johnson held.

The court ruled the state had insisted plaintiffs had filed to show they had special interest in the questions involved.

"Our appellate courts hold uniformly," he said, "that one who is merely a citizen and taxpayer and without any special interest apart from the interest of other citizens and the public generally cannot maintain a suit against the state."

The case grew out of the 1955 fiscal session of the Legislature. It approved establishment of an off-campus branch of Southern University in the Lafayette area. Lawmakers appropriated five million dollars for the purpose.

After months of seeking a location the Building Authority decided to buy acreage owned by Joseph Huval at Broussard, near Lafayette. Dimmick was one of several property owners who offered their land some at less cost than the Huval property.

The Huval property was fixed at $745 an acre and approved because of its location and several other features found most acceptable for the college location. The Dimmick site close to Opelousas, was offered at $425 an acre.

Land Promoter In Tex. To Close $8 Million Deal

DALLAS, Jan. 7 - UP — William Zeckendorf, Sr., the New York real estate magnate, confirmed Friday that he is trying to promote a multi-million dollar industrial and residential development between Dallas and Fort Worth.

"I have optimism (sic) of developing the biggest and best light industrial area in the United States," Zeckendorf said, as he left a plane from New York. "Some of the industries which will possibly locate there include aircraft, assembly plants, distribution concerns and electronics."

He said his plans do not include any "odiferous" industries, such as chemicals. Zeckendorf, president of the New York real estate firm of Webb and Knapp, remained on the ground in Dallas only five minutes.

He boarded a DC-3 owned by Angus Wynne, a wealthy Dallas real estate man, and took off with him and seven or eight others for Wynne's ranch on Matagorda Island along the Texas coast.

He said he hoped to shoot quail, but there was some feeling that the real estate deal would be consummated at the ranch. It was understood to involve a total of 4,600 acres — 2,600 north of the Dallas Fort Worth highway in the Arlington-Grand Prairie sector — and 2,000 acres south of the highway.

The 2,600 acres include the Waggoner 3-D Ranch property. Some sources believe a syndicate of Texas oilmen and real estate men has settled on buying it. At the same time, it appeared there was some hitch in getting the other 2,000 acres.

President Getting 'Much Good' From Air, Sun In Florida, Doctors Report

KEY WEST, Fla. Jan. 7 (AP)—The word from President Eisenhower's doctor today was that the President is getting "a world of good" out of a Florida visit intended to condition him for resumption of a full work load.

The report was relayed to newsmen by the White House physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, who has been here with Eisenhower since the party arrived from Washington Dec. 28.

The president, recuperating from a September heart attack, came to Key West after his doctors recommended that he get more sun and outdoor exercise.

They wanted to get that in before he takes on about a normal work load after his return to Washington. The present plan is for the President to leave here by plane on the Capitol Sunday afternoon.

Newsmen today asked James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, for his views on how the Florida sun may have benefitted Eisenhower. Hagerty's reply was that Dr. Snyder believes the stay is doing the President "a world of good."

The visit could be an important factor in Eisenhower's decision on whether to seek a second term.

As on most other days here, the President today mixed some work with relaxation. He turned up at his office at 8:40 a.m. and spent two hours with Secretary of Agriculture Benson going over the special farm message to be sent to Congress Monday.

Hagerty reported the two men, plus a staff of White House and Agriculture Department aides, virtually completed work on the message.

At his office today Eisenhower also signed two executive orders to carry out a 1955 law dealing with Selective Service.

Under one, draft registrants with certain critical skills (radar mechanic, for example) now are permitted to apply to their draft boards for three to six months of active duty. If the board approves the application, the draftee then can transfer to the ready reserve for the rest of an eight-year obligation in the service.

The other order authorizes transfer of draftees with critical skills from the ready reserve to the standby reserve when more than enough qualified specialists already are available for the ready group.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

This young girl, who has a few extra pounds she would like to lose, is scanning the Marathon booklet in preparation for joining the Marathon.

Marathon Is Here Again; It Is Way To Real Glamor

One January more than 10 years ago I conducted the first 8-week self-improvement Marathon for my readers. Since that time it has become an annual institution for WHY GROW OLD? readers. Each succeeding new year brings more mail than the one before.

I know why this is true. The general idea of self-improvement is in the mind of every woman who has allowed herself to deteriorate, has added a few pounds or has become less lovely than she'd like.

Here, all wrapped up in eight weeks of comparatively easy diet, exercise and grooming, is the specific, directed help women need to tackle what otherwise looks like an endless and difficult, if not hopeless task. It is the way to glamor.

Then, too, more women hear about Marathon these days. Tens of thousands of women have come to rely on this eight weeks for their reconditioning each year and there are always some who meant to try it but procrastinated in the past.

Another reason for the growing popularity of the eight-week Marathon is the fact that our problems change as we live and change. Perhaps a few years ago your problem was underweight. This year it may be overweight. Perhaps you used to have a flat tummy but this year find it is protruding. You may only recently have noticed bulges on your thighs or that your hip measurement has increased. These are the very problems we'll be working on during the next eight weeks.

Also, it is more fun to have company when you undertake a job like this. Believe me, when you begin Marathon, you'll have plenty of company. You can be sure that women all over the country are dieting and exercising, taking special care of their complexion and hair and improving their posture and charm.

Thousands of them will have entered into this exciting adventure of seeing how much they can improve their appearance in eight short weeks.

Instructions for the Marathon will be published daily in the WHY GROW OLD? column during the next week or so. I will keep in touch with your progress and offer suggestions through this department at least once a week throughout the period.

Meanwhile, for persons who would like to get started at once and have the complete new information, with calorie chart and chart for recording progress, we have prepared a Marathon booklet.

You will find in it suggestions for deciding what you should weigh and measure.

If you would like to join Marathon, send ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the Marathon booklet. Address Josephine Lowman, in care of this newspaper.

Tomorrow: "Exciting Possibilities Ahead If You Join the Marathon."

Monroe District Oil Operators Discover 8 New Fields In 1955; Prospects Bright For Year 1956

By NORRIS VANCLEAVE
Morning World Oil Editor

Tireless exploration by the northeast Louisiana oil and gas fraternity reaped unusual dividends in 1955 with the discovery of eight new oil fields in the Monroe district.

In addition new oil pay was obtained in four old fields, and new gas pay was discovered in seven old fields.

The two field discoveries that aroused the most excitement were the Cadeville oil field, which gave Ouachita parish its first commercial oil production, and the Wisner oil field, which marked the first commercial production of oil in southern Franklin parish. Especially the Wisner field is considered of great significance by the oil fraternity but proof of both of these fields is left to the year 1956.

Most significant from the standpoint of oil actually recovered in 1955 were the Locust Ridge field oil discovery in southeastern Tensas parish and the vast development that took place in the Lamar field in northeastern Franklin parish. Gas production had been obtained previously in both fields.

LOCUST RIDGE

Southwest Natural Gas Company's Locust Ridge oil discovery well, the Phillip Watson No. 1, opened new oil production that had netted the district 15 new oil producers at the year's end, all but one showing good yields of high gravity crude. The daily allowable for the field in January, 1956, is 1619 barrels.

The Phillip Watson No. 1, in Sec. 28-10-11E, was completed on January 22, 1955, gauging 165 barrels of 39.3-degree gravity oil daily on a 1-8-inch choke with tubing pressure 1800 pounds per square inch. In addition the well made a gas volume of 122.9 MCF daily. The discovery produced from perforations in the Tuscaloosa at 9101-9110 feet.

Development of the field proceeded at a rapid pace with Southwest Natural Gas Company, Atlantic Refining Company and Phillips Petroleum Company leading in the development. Initial production figures on 13 of the wells in the field ranged from 140 barrels daily to 332 barrels daily on chokes from 7-64-inch to 14-64-inch. Gravity of production in the field ranges from 39 to 41 degrees.

LAMAR FIELD

The Lamar field in northeast Franklin parish had been marking time for several years with only one oiler and one gasser until 1955 changed it into one of the most lucrative oil areas in the district. During the year the field was extended four times — approximately three miles southwest by Carpenter Oil Company's Truly Ward No. 1 gas condensate well in Sec. 7-15-9E; one and one-fourth miles west by Hudson Gas and Oil Corporation's J. T. O'Brien No. 1 oiler, Sec. 4-15-9E; one mile southwest by Marshall Steffenson's J. W. Robinson No. 1, an oil well in Sec. 2-15-9E; and approximately one and one-quarter miles northeast by Hudson Gas and Oil Corporation's Macon Ridge Land Co. Inc. No. 1, an oil well in Sec. 30-16-10E. Oil pay was obtained from both the Paluxy and Tuscaloosa zones.

Daily oil allowable for the field in January, 1956, is 857 barrels with 14 wells sharing in the production quota.

CONCORDIA'S NEW FIELDS

In numerical discoveries, Concordia parish led in new fields with three, all producing from the Wilcox zone and all discovered by Jett Drilling Co. of Shreveport. However, little development took place in these fields following completion of the discoveries.

Jett's Peabody Petroleum Co. Yakey No. 1, Sec. 25-4-8E, discovered the Brabston field, initially producing 124 barrels of 42-gravity oil on a 9-64-inch choke from perforations at 6311-12 feet. A second oil well and a dry hole concluded activity in the field during the year.

Also a question mark as the year ended was the Quinn Bayou field, which was discovered by Jett's Madison Oil and Development Co. C-2, in Sec. 16-5-8E. The field discovery tested 165 barrels of 39.9 gravity oil daily on a 10-64-inch choke but 1955 development stopped there. A west offset to the discovery, the only other test drilled, failed.

Another one - well field as the year ended was the Bougere field, discovered by Jett's Parks Estate No. 1, Sec. 20-40-9E. This discovery made 60 barrels of 41-gravity oil an initial gauge, producing from perforations at 6613½ to 6615½. This discovery marked the only 1955 activity in the field.

Jett further used its Concordia parish leases to good advantage by tapping two sands of the Wilcox for a double pay discovery as well as an extension of the Esperance Point field. This dual producer is the Hogue Esperance A-3, Sec. 7-5-9E, which initially gauged 336 barrels of 41-gravity oil daily from perforations at 6564-68 feet and 490 barrels daily from perforations at 6623-27 feet.

HARRISONBURG FIELD

Extensive wildcatting in Catahoula parish netted one new field, this the Harrisonburg field discovered by Trans-Tex Drilling company's L. S. Stutson No. 1, Sec. 7-9-7E. At the year's end the discovery well and its offset, the Trans-Tex Stutson No. 2, were the only complete producers. However, development is currently vigorous. One new producer, the Lamar Hunt Tr. Est. R. E. Sargent No. 1, Sec. 6-9-7E, has already been completed this year, making 80 barrels of oil through an 8-64-inch choke on initial test; and the same operator's Sargent No. 2 is complete and waiting on tanks. Combined daily allowable for the Stutson Nos. 1 and 2 in January is 124 barrels.

FRENCH FORK

NEWLIGHT

In addition to the extensive development of the Locust Ridge field, Tensas parish chalked off one new field which was still without confirmation as the year ended. This is the Newlight field, discovered by the Chicago Mill and Lumber Co. Fee No. 1 Production is from the Tuscaloosa, the daily allowable for the lone well 40 barrels in January, 1956.

WISNER

The Wisner field, considered the most promising discovery of 1955, was found by Shell Oil Company's Myrtle W. Anderson No. 1 in Sec. 3-11-7E. This discovery gauged 215 barrels of high gravity oil on a 9-64 inch choke, producing from perforations at 7492-98 feet in the lower Tuscaloosa. No further development took place but as the year ended a Shell Oil Co. offset had been staked to the north of the discovery and a Union Producing Company offset had been spotted to the east of the discovery. The January allowable for the field discovery is 98 barrels.

CADEVILLE

Arousing much interest in the Monroe vicinity was the British American Oil Co. Golson No. 1 Cadeville field discovery, which was drilled by Zach Brooks Drilling Co. of El Dorado, Ark. This discovery produced 156 barrels of high gravity crude on completion through the drill stem that was necessary after the drill pipe had become stuck. Production was from the upper Cotton Valley series at a well depth of approximately 9,697 to 9,709 feet. Atlantic Refining Co. assumed operation of the discovery and also of the Golson A-1 field confirmation, which was also drilled by Zach Brooks Drilling Co. After finding the productive Cadeville sand at a well depth of 9,731-40 feet on the A-1, the operators explored the lower Cotton Valley series. Promise of gas pay was obtained in a lower Cotton Valley sand, but the lower sand did not prove commercially productive and the well was completed in the upper zone, confirming the pay sand of the Golson No. 1. Combined January daily allowable for the two Cadeville wells is 193 barrels. The Cadeville field is still much in the spotlight and property owners and oil men throughout the Monroe area are anxiously watching for new developments in the field.

SUMMARY

New oil fields: Cadeville, Ouachita; French Fork, LaSalle; Quinn Bayou, Brabston and Bougere, in Concordia; Harrisonburg, Catahoula; Wisner, Franklin; and Newlight in Tensas.

New gas production in old fields: Locust Ridge and Holly Ridge, Tensas; Lamar, Franklin; Bridge Brake, Ouachita; Indian Lake, Madison; Larto Lake, Catahoula; and White Island, Richland.

By virtue of this new production the district's output of oil climbed, the new pay much more than offsetting depletion of old fields. The district's daily oil allowable for January, 1955, was 57,072, as compares with a daily allowable of 62,-140 barrels for January 1956.

In Hollywood

By Jimmy Fidler

Palm Springs Sun

By HERB ROGERS
(Guest Columnist)

PALM SPRINGS, January 7 — Hollywood personalities suffering from high - tension and the wear and tear of the business of being a star, more and more seek escape in Palm Springs, the desert spa, just a little more than 100 miles from the film-making colony. Some visit our resort merely to play and relax. Others combine pleasure with business. And the business I'm referring to means acting in plays produced at the Palm Springs Playhouse, which I have the privilege of operating.

There's nothing like the Palm Springs sun to renovate a weary body and soul. Especially after exposure to the profession known as the movies. As a consequence, many personalities are eager to devote a week or so to starring in our productions, with ample time available for sun bathing, swimming and other recreations offered by this fabulous resort. Such prospects have lured such stars as Edward Arnold, Teresa Wright, Ann Harding and Victor Joey during the season opening January 16, we expect many more glittering personalities will join the great migration to the Palm Springs Playhouse. No doubt this will be induced, in part, by the series of shiny, bright plays we'll present this season and which afford actors and actresses an opportunity to appear in productions over a long period of years.

Many picture players find that the Palm Springs Playhouse affords a terrific professional advantage inasmuch as it provides an opportunity for "refresher" course in acting. In picture - making the player loses his or her intimate contact with audience reaction. In the legitimate theater, such as our Playhouse, the troupe knows immediately whether or not the performance is registering. Many experienced stars, interested in taking out all possible insurance on their careers, regularly return to the legitimate theater for this reason. And, believe me, it pays off in more finished and polished performances.

Few people outside show business realize the amount of pressure, nerve - wracking in character, which a star or featured player is exposed to, day after day. It all looks very nice and simple from the outside but this business of being on public parade, plus the exacting demands on the studio sets, is really rough at times. While the average worker outside the entertainment field goes to work at a fairly reasonable hour in the morning, players in pictures not uncommonly must be on a location, for example, by eight o'clock, or so, which means getting up at five o'clock or some other unearthly hour.

And, especially if they're playing leads, they must look fresh and attractive when the monster, the camera, focuses upon them. That, for one reason is why they must escape to Palm Springs and other relaxing resorts to replenish their vitality and to recover from the rigors of their profession.

Don't be fooled by all the glamour and fame which glitter over the Hollywood scene. This business of acting is not for the lazy. — One must give a lot of vitality and employ a lot of application to become a success in filmland.

Hollywood is fortunate to have other relaxing areas within a few hours' drive, ranging from seashore to mountains, with desert country in between. Few centers of population in the United States, or elsewhere, for that matter, are so lucky as to have easy access to such a variety of scenery and climate. And via highways perhaps unmatched in beauty and surroundings.

Stars who must remain less than an hour's auto ride of Hollywood may prefer the Circle J Guest Ranch at Newhall, adorned with a huge swimming pool and other recreational facilities. And about two hours' drive away is Axel Springborg's Glen Ivy Hot Springs, affording hot mineral baths, all sorts of recreational equipment, fine food and a "live" mountain stream, an unusual spectacle in southern California. Nearby also is Malibu, famed beach resort on the Pacific, and more to the south lies Laguna and La Jolla, famous for their seaside beauty. About 100 miles to the north is tranquil and lovely Santa Barbara, overlooking the ocean, and dotted with wonderful hotels and homes.

Yes, Hollywoodians have easy access to really relaxing resorts. But, best of all (and I hope the Palm Springs Chamber of Commerce notes this), Palm Springs affords a haven for the worn and weary. And the Palm Springs Playhouse is an important segment in this charming desert picture.

THREE FLOODS

ANSONIA, Conn. — The August and October floods washed out Mort and Phil Linnett's hardware store. They finally completed repairs and planned a grand reopening. Then a water pipe burst, filling the store with water for the third time.

'The Rains Of Ranchipur' Opens At Paramount

"The Rains of Ranchipur," the gigantic CinemaScope spectacle in De Luxe color which took Twentieth Century - Fox two months to film both in Hollywood and 7000 miles away in Pakistan, India, at a cost of $4,000,000, opens here today at the Paramount Theatre as the special holiday offering. The film story is based on Louis Bromfield's Pulitzer Prize-winning novel, "The Rains Came." It is not however, a remake of the successful best-seller filmed by Twentieth Century-Fox in 1939. The new production, scripted by Merle Miller, author of "Reunion," "That Winter" and "The Sure Thing," is set in modern India with the original Bromfield characters realistically confronted by the background and problems of current times.

The new version has been given an all-star cast with Lana Turner appearing in the role of Lady Edwina Esketh, Richard Burton as the handsome Indian Dr. Safti, Fred MacMurray as an American engineer, Joan Caulfield in the role of Fern, daughter of American missionaries, and Michael Rennie, as Lana's aristocratic husband, in the story of conflicting ideologies and emotions.

Frank Ross, who guided the world's first CinemaScope spectacle, "The Robe," to unbelievable success, is the film's producer. It was his determination to use all the technical achievements in CinemaScope developed since that memorable date in the creation of the romantic drama only the new improved CinemaScope could brilliantly enhance. Here the process defines the natural beauties of the tiny oriental state, the hypnotic adventures that include a tiger hunt and brings ino rue perspective the overwhelming properties of the earthquakes and floods that follow the dreaded seasonal monsoon. It is this awesome spectacle climax the story of passions involving a fabulously rich American girl, her titled English husband whose pride is trampled in the mire of her many love affairs, and the gifted Indian doctor torn between the personal desire the unscrupulous beauty awakens in him and his duty to his people.

Many familiar faces appear in support of the stars including the remarkable Eugenie Leontovich of "Anastasia" Broadway fame. She portrays the Maharani who gambles the security of her kingdom in her belief that duty is stronger than romantic love. Others include Gladys Hurlbut and Madge Kennedy of "silent" days; Carlo Rizzo, King Calder, and Beatrice Kraft, exotic dancer of the Broadway musical show "Kismet," with the film's direction under the talented guidance of Jean "Three Coins in the Fountain" Negulesco.

In Ross' opinion Negulesco, and only Negulesco, could weave the rich fabrics of oriental settings and story into a moving, elegant production worthy of the time and fortune expended for the De Luxe color film. The resultant product Negulesco fashioned has become Twentieth Century-Fox's supreme choice for their first holiday attraction of the year.

Ouachita Cancer Society To Open Drive In April

The finance committee of the Ouachita unit of the American Cancer Society held its initial campaign planning session last week and the April cancer crusade chairman was selected. The chairman will be named when the Louisiana division's state campaign chairman is announced in February, Mrs. Fred Petty, unit chairman said.

Among those attending the planning session were: Mrs. Fred Petty, Mrs. Frank Spivey, Mrs. C. K. Crandall, Mrs. Frank Gordon, Miss Winona Probus, George Rorex, Bill Gannaway and Irving Leibowitz.

The April crusade will combine the much needed educational program and the raising of funds to suport cancer control through education, research, and service to cancer patients.

Those wishing to participate in the April crusade should contact the unit chairman, Mrs. Fred Petty.

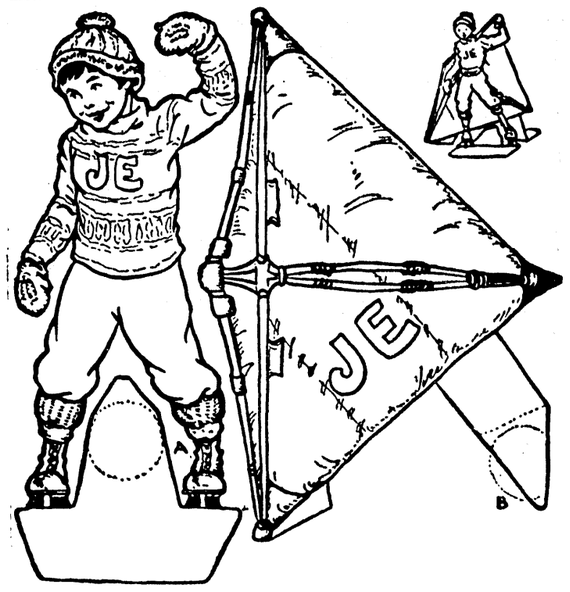

The April educational crusade will emphasize that one out of four persons is being cured of cancer, but at least two out of four should be cured through earlier detection and prompt treatment. The earlier cancer is detected, the greater the chance of cure. Since cancer often strikes without warning, the best cancer insurance is a regular health check - up, the American Cancer Society declares.

TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR:

JUNIOR EDITORS

WINTER FUN - 6

Skate Sailing

Skate sailing is for the experienced and bold ice skater. Not only must he keep his balance on skates but also he must manage a big sail. To make Johnny sail on his skates, first color him, then paste the picture on thin cardboard. The sails are often striped in bright colors so they will show up well on the ice. Cut out Johnny and the sail.

Fold the base forward at Johnny's ankles. Then the tab between the feet will rest solidly on your table top ice. Put a penny under the tab and fasten it securely with the gummed tape to help him stand up. The tab on the side folds back at the dotted line and helps balance the skate sail. A penny should be taped beneath it also.

Put the sail behind the boy and fasten his hands to it as shown in the smaller sketch. You can paste them in place or fasten with clips. Johnny will then be able to skate sail with a sail, or put aside his sail and give an exhibition of fancy skating.

By NORRIS VANCLEAVE
Morning World Oil Editor

Tireless exploration by the northeast Louisiana oil and gas fraternity reaped unusual dividends in 1955 with the discovery of eight new oil fields in the Monroe district.

In addition new oil pay was obtained in four old fields, and new gas pay was discovered in seven old fields.

The two field discoveries that aroused the most excitement were the Cadeville oil field, which gave Ouachita parish its first commercial oil production, and the Wisner oil field, which marked the first commercial production of oil in southern Franklin parish. Especially the Wisner field is considered of great significance by the oil fraternity but proof of both of these fields is left to the year 1956.

Most significant from the standpoint of oil actually recovered in 1955 were the Locust Ridge field oil discovery in southeastern Tensas parish and the vast development that took place in the Lamar field in northeastern Franklin parish. Gas production had been obtained previously in both fields.

LOCUST RIDGE

Southwest Natural Gas Company's Locust Ridge oil discovery well, the Phillip Watson No. 1, opened new oil production that had netted the district 15 new oil producers at the year's end, all but one showing good yields of high gravity crude. The daily allowable for the field in January, 1956, is 1619 barrels.

The Phillip Watson No. 1, in Sec. 28-10-11E, was completed on January 22, 1955, gauging 165 barrels of 39.3-degree gravity oil daily on a 1-8-inch choke with tubing pressure 1800 pounds per square inch. In addition the well made a gas volume of 122.9 MCF daily. The discovery produced from perforations in the Tuscaloosa at 9101-9110 feet.

Development of the field proceeded at a rapid pace with Southwest Natural Gas Company, Atlantic Refining Company and Phillips Petroleum Company leading in the development. Initial production figures on 13 of the wells in the field ranged from 140 barrels daily to 332 barrels daily on chokes from 7-64-inch to 14-64-inch. Gravity of production in the field ranges from 39 to 41 degrees.

LAMAR FIELD

The Lamar field in northeast Franklin parish had been marking time for several years with only one oiler and one gasser until 1955 changed it into one of the most lucrative oil areas in the district. During the year the field was extended four times — approximately three miles southwest by Carpenter Oil Company's Truly Ward No. 1 gas condensate well in Sec. 7-15-9E; one and one-fourth miles west by Hudson Gas and Oil Corporation's J. T. O'Brien No. 1 oiler, Sec. 4-15-9E; one mile southwest by Marshall Steffenson's J. W. Robinson No. 1, an oil well in Sec. 2-15-9E; and approximately one and one-quarter miles northeast by Hudson Gas and Oil Corporation's Macon Ridge Land Co. Inc. No. 1, an oil well in Sec. 30-16-10E. Oil pay was obtained from both the Paluxy and Tuscaloosa zones.

Daily oil allowable for the field in January, 1956, is 857 barrels with 14 wells sharing in the production quota.

CONCORDIA'S NEW FIELDS

In numerical discoveries, Concordia parish led in new fields with three, all producing from the Wilcox zone and all discovered by Jett Drilling Co. of Shreveport. However, little development took place in these fields following completion of the discoveries.

Jett's Peabody Petroleum Co. Yakey No. 1, Sec. 25-4-8E, discovered the Brabston field, initially producing 124 barrels of 42-gravity oil on a 9-64-inch choke from perforations at 6311-12 feet. A second oil well and a dry hole concluded activity in the field during the year.

Also a question mark as the year ended was the Quinn Bayou field, which was discovered by Jett's Madison Oil and Development Co. C-2, in Sec. 16-5-8E. The field discovery tested 165 barrels of 39.9 gravity oil daily on a 10-64-inch choke but 1955 development stopped there. A west offset to the discovery, the only other test drilled, failed.

Another one - well field as the year ended was the Bougere field, discovered by Jett's Parks Estate No. 1, Sec. 20-40-9E. This discovery made 60 barrels of 41-gravity oil an initial gauge, producing from perforations at 6613½ to 6615½. This discovery marked the only 1955 activity in the field.

Jett further used its Concordia parish leases to good advantage by tapping two sands of the Wilcox for a double pay discovery as well as an extension of the Esperance Point field. This dual producer is the Hogue Esperance A-3, Sec. 7-5-9E, which initially gauged 336 barrels of 41-gravity oil daily from perforations at 6564-68 feet and 490 barrels daily from perforations at 6623-27 feet.

HARRISONBURG FIELD

Extensive wildcatting in Catahoula parish netted one new field, this the Harrisonburg field discovered by Trans-Tex Drilling company's L. S. Stutson No. 1, Sec. 7-9-7E. At the year's end the discovery well and its offset, the Trans-Tex Stutson No. 2, were the only complete producers. However, development is currently vigorous. One new producer, the Lamar Hunt Tr. Est. R. E. Sargent No. 1, Sec. 6-9-7E, has already been completed this year, making 80 barrels of oil through an 8-64-inch choke on initial test; and the same operator's Sargent No. 2 is complete and waiting on tanks. Combined daily allowable for the Stutson Nos. 1 and 2 in January is 124 barrels.

FRENCH FORK

NEWLIGHT

In addition to the extensive development of the Locust Ridge field, Tensas parish chalked off one new field which was still without confirmation as the year ended. This is the Newlight field, discovered by the Chicago Mill and Lumber Co. Fee No. 1 Production is from the Tuscaloosa, the daily allowable for the lone well 40 barrels in January, 1956.

WISNER

The Wisner field, considered the most promising discovery of 1955, was found by Shell Oil Company's Myrtle W. Anderson No. 1 in Sec. 3-11-7E. This discovery gauged 215 barrels of high gravity oil on a 9-64 inch choke, producing from perforations at 7492-98 feet in the lower Tuscaloosa. No further development took place but as the year ended a Shell Oil Co. offset had been staked to the north of the discovery and a Union Producing Company offset had been spotted to the east of the discovery. The January allowable for the field discovery is 98 barrels.

CADEVILLE

Arousing much interest in the Monroe vicinity was the British American Oil Co. Golson No. 1 Cadeville field discovery, which was drilled by Zach Brooks Drilling Co. of El Dorado, Ark. This discovery produced 156 barrels of high gravity crude on completion through the drill stem that was necessary after the drill pipe had become stuck. Production was from the upper Cotton Valley series at a well depth of approximately 9,697 to 9,709 feet. Atlantic Refining Co. assumed operation of the discovery and also of the Golson A-1 field confirmation, which was also drilled by Zach Brooks Drilling Co. After finding the productive Cadeville sand at a well depth of 9,731-40 feet on the A-1, the operators explored the lower Cotton Valley series. Promise of gas pay was obtained in a lower Cotton Valley sand, but the lower sand did not prove commercially productive and the well was completed in the upper zone, confirming the pay sand of the Golson No. 1. Combined January daily allowable for the two Cadeville wells is 193 barrels. The Cadeville field is still much in the spotlight and property owners and oil men throughout the Monroe area are anxiously watching for new developments in the field.

New gas production in old fields: Locust Ridge and Holly Ridge, Tensas; Lamar, Franklin; Bridge Brake, Ouachita; Indian Lake, Madison; Larto Lake, Catahoula; and White Island, Richland.

By virtue of this new production the district's output of oil climbed, the new pay much more than offsetting depletion of old fields. The district's daily oil allowable for January, 1955, was 57,072, as compares with a daily allowable of 62,140 barrels for January 1956.
